AMERICAN CREWS WIN GRAND CHALLENGE CUP

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 2.—

The three trans-Atlantic eight-oared crews—the Union Boat club of Boston, Harvard university 28 eight and Winnipeg, Can., defeated their English rivals today in the race for the grand challenge cup, the chief event of the royal regatta. The only heat remaining to be decided this afternoon was that between Jesus college, Cambridge, and the Mayence Rowing club of Germany.

In the semi-finals, tomorrow, Harvard will meet Winnipeg and Boston will encounter either Jesus or Mayence.

The American representatives started badly in the individual sculling for the diamond sculls as James B. Ayer of the Boston Union Boat club, the only one left in after the first round was eliminated today by the giant Italian Giuseppe Sinigaglia.

"Bob" Dibble of Hamilton, Ontario and representing the Don Rowing club, Toronto, American and Canadian amateur champion was, however, successful over the English champion J. Lawrence Tann and will represent the trans-Atlantic oarsmen in the final for the famous diamond sculls.

The heat, which had caused some discomfort yesterday, passed away during the night, and the temperature was many degrees cooler today.

A strong headwind, however, put fast times out of the question. For the spectators the conditions were ideal and the crowd, which included many Americans and Canadians, was even greater than yesterday.

The day's program opened with the first heat in the Grand, between Winnipeg and Thames. This was won quite easily by the Canadians in 7 minutes, 35 seconds.

Boston beat the London eight all the way in the next heat of the same event. The Americans led by a length and a half at the half distance and finished quite fresh four lengths ahead in 7 minutes, 48 seconds.

The Boston crew was composed as follows: Bow, G. Balch, E. Farley, R. Tappan, S. A. Sargent, J. E. Waldo, L. Withington, P. Withington; stroke, R. Cutler; coxswain, C. Ables.

In the next heat Harvard defeated Leander but did not have such an easy time as Boston. The race was an exciting one. Leander led at the start, rowing 39 to Harvard's 37 but Harvard went up level at the island, where the crews were coming into the straight. Then the Americans took the lead and won the fastest heat of the day by a length in seven minutes, 37 seconds. They were quite fresh at the finish but Leander showed distress before reaching the grand stand in front of which they were a beaten crew.

The Harvard crew was: Bow, L. Saltsdal, J. Talcott, P. Meyer, H. Middendorf, J. Middendorf, D. Morgan, L. Curtis; stroke, Charles Lunn; coxswain, H. L. Kreger.

Ayer showed a plucky race against Sinigaglia in the Diamonds but was beaten easily by three lengths, although his opponent steered badly. Sinigaglia's time was 9:30.

Williams beat his compatriot Frapp, by only a quarter of a length in 9:39.

Dibble, on the other hand, rowed a very fast race and defeated Tann easily by a length in 9:35.

TWO SUFFOCATED—ONE KILLED BY JUMPING

Fire in Manchester Lodging House

Today — Man Disregarded Policeman's Warning and Jumped From Third Floor and Was Killed—Two Trapped on Fourth Floor and Were Suffocated — Twenty-five Escaped Over Roof to Adjoining Building

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 2.—A search of the lodging house of Mrs. David Mayo on North Elm street, which was damaged by fire early today, revealed the fact that three lives had been lost. John Reed, 25 years old, who is thought to have come from Brookline, Mass., was fatally injured when he disregarded a policeman's warning and jumped from a third story window, dying while being taken to a hospital. Mederic Caron, 30 years old, and Albert Lachance, 35 years old, were suffocated in their rooms on the top floor of the four story frame building.

Several lodgers were slightly hurt in jumping from windows. Others were taken down ladders and about 25 escaped over the roof to an adjoining building.

The fire, which started in the basement from an unknown cause, was confined to the lower part of the structure, occupied as a clothing store by Herman Feldman. The upper floors were filled with dense smoke. The loss will not exceed $10,000.

TAG DAY COMMITTEE WILL COVER LOWELL

Plan for Effective Campaign for the Salem Sufferers—Total Last Night Reported by Treasurer O'Hearn $3415.40—The List of Women's Societies Invited to do Tag Duty

Lowell men and women are contributing very generously to the relief fund for the Salem sufferers, but the need for assistance to the stricken city is much greater than at first believed and it will be necessary for everybody to strain a point and give just a little more. Thousands of persons have not only lost their homes, generally uninsured, but the destruction of the large mills have deprived them of their work. Thousands are living in tents and must be cared for until work and shelter can be obtained for them.

A meeting of the women of the city was held in the mayor's reception room at city hall this forenoon. The meeting was arranged by the tag-day committee consisting of James O'Sullivan, William D. Brown and John H. Murphy. Tomorrow will be tag day and all arrangements for tag collections were completed at the meeting, so if a dainty miss steps up to you tomorrow and pins a tag on your coat you will know what it means. Even though the pinner of the tag may not have youth and beauty on her side, far married women and spinsters have volunteered their services, yet your duty remains the same and it will be up to you to give what you can for the relief of the Salem sufferers.

The tag day committee extended special invitations to the following organizations of the city to send delegates to today's meeting and a majority of the organizations were represented: Florence Crittenton Rescue League, Lowell Teachers' organization, Women's Foreign and Home Missionary society, Y. FUNERAL OF MURDERED ARCHDUKE AND WIFE

An Imposing Demonstration Accompanied Landing of Bodies at Trieste, Austria—City Draped in Black—Military Honors

TRIESTE, Austria, July 2.—An imposing demonstration today accompanied the landing here from Austrian battleship Viribus Unitus of the bodies of the assassinated Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his consort, the Duchess of Hohenberg. The entire community thronged the shore or took up positions on board craft in the harbor at an early hour.

At San Carlo square a large space had been kept clear for the two catafalques which were draped in gold and black. On the left stood the generals, admirals and other officials of the army and navy, with the commander of the Austro Hungarian navy, Rear-Admiral Oskar Hansa, at their head. On the right were the governor of the maritime provinces, Prince Hohenlohe-Schillingsfuerst and many other state and municipal officers in brilliant uniforms. An enormous gathering of members of various societies and deputations were present. From the square the bodies were taken to the railroad station, the hearse being drawn by six black horses.

Longest Procession Ever Seen

Seven coaches filled with wreaths headed the procession, which was the longest ever seen in this city. Behind the hearse marched the members of the households of the Archduke and Duchess, the provincial governor and a long procession of naval and military officers, civil officials and delegations of all kinds, with two companies of soldiers in the rear.

On its way to the southern railway station, whence the bodies were to be conveyed to Vienna, the procession passed between dense masses of people. All the men stood with uncovered heads and most of the women were mourning. Lines of infantry and blue-jackets aided by municipal guards and firemen were drawn up along the whole route.

All Buildings Draped

The buildings were mostly draped with black and all the business houses were closed. The coffins reached the railway station at 9:30 a. m. and military honors were there rendered by a detachment of a composite regiment of Bosnians and Herzegovians. Navy petty officers placed the coffins on a railway car which had been arranged as a mortuary chapel. Bishop Tryphon Pederzoli then uttered a blessing and the doors of the cars were sealed, and the train departed for Vienna, where it is expected to arrive at 10 o'clock this evening.

The solemn ceremony of blessing the bodies of the murdered archduke and duchess is to be performed at four o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the parish church of the Hofburg in the presence of Emperor Francis Joseph, the members of the imperial family, Prince Henry of Prussia and other royal personages.

The children of the dead archduke and duchess are to arrive in Vienna on Saturday.

EMPEROR WILLIAM SUDDENLY ABANDONED TRIP TO VIENNA FOR FUNERAL

Service and Economy—These are the twin pillars that hold up this great business.

SERVICE—as we interpret it, means striving earnestly every day to deserve the commendation of our patrons by showing cheerfully and untiringly our great assortment of goods.

ECONOMY—with us is not an idle word. We turn it into deeds. For we are constantly seeking ways and means by which good merchandise can be offered at lowest prices. The woman who has a certain allowance to spend naturally wants to make it go as far as possible.

NEW KING OF SERBIA

King ALEXANDER of SERBIA

BELGRADE, Serbia, July 2.—King Alexander, second son of the aged King Peter, who succeeded his father recently upon the latter's voluntary abdication, faces an acute situation with Austria. The assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife was laid to a Serbian plot, and Servians living in Austria, which is under the rule of the Austrians, were molested or killed after the double killing. So bitter is the feeling that war talk is heard.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

R. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Arnold Daly, one of the foremost stars of the American stage, and an excellent supporting company will appear in the photo-drama, "The Port of Missing Men," at the R. F. Keith theatre today, and it will continue to be shown twice daily during the remainder of the week. This marks Mr. Daly's first appearance in motion picture drama, and he is fortunate in having such a sterling vehicle as Mr. Meredith Nicholson's splendid play. Those who have seen Daly in his portrayal of Napoleon in Bernard Shaw's "Man of Destiny" will quickly recognize his special fitness for the part of John Armitage, the clever and daring subject of a mythical kingdom, who comes to the United States and is imbued with the true American spirit, and who later outwits the spies of his country, does great service for the empire and yet remains loyal to his adopted land. During the course of the action Armitage risks love, name, liberty and life itself, although his labors are not in vain, and in the end he sets the rightful ruler upon the throne of his homeland, retires to private life in America and claims an American bride. It is a story full of the unexpected for situation and climaxes. In addition to this other photo-drama will be shown, as time passed, and the Keith management at no time forgets its patrons. Mr. Daly's orchestra of 16 pieces furnishes the music every night and Saturday afternoon.

THE KASINO

Quality is the Kasino's first consideration. That word covers a multitude of things. First, the Kasino built a big hall, then an absolutely smooth surface was provided, then a first class orchestra was engaged, then Kasino management stepped in and made the combination complete. Aside from the four steps mentioned, a hundred and one details presented themselves, as time passed, and the Kasino management at no time forgets its patrons. Mr. Daly's orchestra of 16 pieces furnishes the music every night and Saturday afternoon.

THE OWL THEATRE

Shouts of laughter greeted Patty of the Keystone in the two-reel farce entitled "Patty and the Helms," one of the biggest laugh-producers ever released by the clever comedians "Tolly of Villany." It is one of the best examples of up-to-date photography ever shown on a screen. The natural colors make the play much more interesting and pleasing to the eye. Others on the program are all good, while the Kasino's singing pleasures, sliding and for comfort.

CANDIDE LAKE THEATRE
When the red lamp weather is not keeping the crowds away from Candide Lake park this week, for since the opening of the Human Musical Revue at the park theatre the attraction has been too strong for anybody to withstand. The show is an exceptionally attractive one, and the company is just what is needed to this particular kind of entertainment.

The comedy is a big surprise in the presentation of Miss Betty Farrington, a pretty and little lady with a wonderful contralto voice and more than a little ability in acting. Dog's orchestra furnished music for dancing in the hall and the spacious floor was used to its capacity. The theatre was also well filled and

MURDER OF MRS. BAILEY

Telephonic Device, With Wires From Doctor's Office to Wife's Bedroom, in Carman's House

FREEMONT, N. J., July 2.—No rests had been made late last night of any person suspected of having shot and killed Mrs. Louise Bailey, a Hempstead matron, while she was in the office of Dr. Edwin R. Carman Tuesday night. The sheriff, the district attorney and the county detectives still are following several clues.

On information which he declared had been given him by a member of the firm that installed the instrument, Sheriff Stephen Pettit said he had discovered in the Carman home a telephonic device, the wires of which led from the doctor's office to a closet in the bedroom of his wife. According to the sheriff, Mrs. Carman admitted to him that she had had the instrument installed because "she wanted to hear what went on between her husband and women patients, and that she had been much comforted by what she had overheard."

The sheriff said also that Dr. Carman, when questioned about the telephonic device, told him that his wife had admitted to him that she had had the machine put in and that she had removed the receiving end in her closet early yesterday morning and hid it in the attic.

The sheriff said that Mrs. Carman at his request had gone to the attic and brought the instrument to him. A revolver of small caliber was found in the physician's home yesterday.

FINAL FIGHT ON HOME RULE BILL

House of Lords Pass the Amending Bill to Second Reading

Amendments Will Be Offered in the Committee Stage

Report That Asquith Will Grant Exclusion to Ulster Not Credited

LONDON, July 2.—When the bill to amend the Irish home rule bill came up yesterday for second reading in the house of lords, the marquess of Lansdowne, the unionist leader, announced that as Ireland was one vast armed camp, it was necessary to find a way out of the difficulty which was threatening.

The unionists, therefore, he said, would give the amending bill a second reading and introduce amendments during the committee stage in regard to the area to be excluded from the operations of the home rule bill, the duration of the exclusion and the government of the excluded area.

The unionists, he concluded, would not agree to the second reading of the home rule bill itself. Lord Lansdowne added that their action in passing the second reading of the amending bill would be misunderstood and misrepresented in many quarters, but there was no other way by which breathing space could be obtained with the prospect of averting the horrors of civil war.

The amendments to be introduced in the committee stage would be directed solely to making the bill a really adequate exclusion bill. With a touch of pathos, he said: "The peers are so fast bound by the meshes of the parliament act that there is no other course open to them which would be likely to prove effective."

Most of the other speakers were equally conciliatory in tone. A notable exception was Lord Willoughby de Broke, the leader of the "Die Hardis." The archbishop of York said that what the country wanted now was not the rejection of the bill, but a settlement in some form. Irish self government, he declared, was now inevitable.

The earl of Argyll announced he could not vote for the second reading, because it would be in violation of the oath of the Ulster covenanters. Lord Bryce expressed the belief that the difficulties could be surmounted. He admitted that some form of exclusion was necessary, but declared that he did not attach much importance to this time limit.

A rumor was current yesterday that Asquith's bill had been handed on the coast of County Mayo for the nationalist volunteers. It could not be confirmed.

LOOK FOR SETTLEMENT

LONDON, July 2.—The precise effect of the house of lords' proposed amendments to the government's amending bill will not be known until the home rule bill reaches the committee stage next week. But favorable rumors are drawn by the London morning papers from the speeches on both sides of the house of lords yesterday for a renewal of the negotiations between the party

GAS ON THE STOMACH

Flatulence, or gas in the digestive tract is an annoying accompaniment of indigestion and constipation. As a rule it indicates that food is being retained in the stomach and intestines longer than nature intended.

When colicky pains accompany the presence of gas the need of a gentle laxative to clear away the offending food residue is imperative. If the condition of constipation is not quickly corrected a headlong eruption on the skin, headaches and backaches soon show that the poisons have found their way into the circulation.

The use of the gentle laxative pills, Pinklets, will not only banish these unpleasant symptoms quickly but, if used regularly for a reasonable time, will really correct chronic constipation. Pinklets are not like harsh purgatives that leave the bowels dry and in the end worse than before. Pinklets gently assist nature, never gripe and are so small and easy to take that they are known as the daily laxative.

Your own druggist can supply you with Pinklets or they will be sent by mail postpaid, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 25c per bottle. Send for the book "The Daily Laxative," telling how to treat constipation.

leaders which it is believed will result in an agreement.

The Daily Mail asserts that Premier Asquith's attitude has undergone a modification and that he now is ready to grant exclusion to Ulster by statute instead of by the ballot, but any such proposition would stir the ire of the nationalists and overthrow the ministry.

SECOND TRIAL JULY 14

WOMAN ONCE CONVICTED OF HUSBAND'S MURDER ALLOWED AN APPEAL

NEW HAVEN, July 2.—The second trial of Mrs. Bessie Wakefield for the murder of her husband, Wm. O. Wakefield, will begin in the criminal court here July 14. This was announced yesterday.

ALL-DAY RAIN PROBABLE

STORM OF EASTERLY VARIETY

ARRIVED LAST NIGHT—YESTERDAY WASN'T SO COLD

BOSTON, July 2.—An all-day easterly storm, during which a substantial amount of rain is expected to fall here, is the discouraging outlook for those who are planning to move to seashore and country resorts today. The rain began falling in Boston about 5 last evening and the probabilities are for a continuous precipitation for the next 24 hours. Clearing weather, with winds shifting to the southerly quarter, and somewhat higher temperature are expected by tomorrow.

Popular opinion to the contrary, there was nothing abnormally cold about yesterday and no records for July 1 were shattered. The minimum temperature here was 55 and the maximum only 67, but on several July 1's since the establishment of the local station of the weather bureau the temperature has gone lower.

BIG AUTO TURNS TURTLE

SEVEN PERSONS, ALL RELATIVES, INJURED, ONE PERHAPS FATAL—TWO CHILDREN UNDER CAR

NORTH WILBRAHAM, July 2.—Seven persons were injured, one perhaps fatally and three seriously, when a light automobile turned turtle on a state highway on Butters Hill, late yesterday afternoon. The injured are: Mrs. Abraham Stoltz of Monson, aged 27; internal injuries, cuts and bruises about the face and hands.

Irvin Padrat of Palmer, aged 3; broken thigh and cuts and bruises about the head and body.

Mrs. Abner Padrat, aged 25; hip probably broken and cuts and bruises about the face and body.

Abner Padrat, aged 32; bruises and cuts about the face and hands, injured back and sprained wrist.

Selma Padrat, aged 4; contusions and abrasions about the face and body.

Pauline Stoltz of Monson, aged 3; bruises and lacerations about the head and body.

Morris Zimmerman, aged 31, of Palmer; bruises about the face and body and back injured.

All of the injured are relatives. They were taken in passing automobiles to the Ludlow hospital.

According to an eyewitness, the machine, when half-way down the hill, darted to the left side of the road and, as a wheel caught in a gully, turned turtle, throwing the occupants to the roadway.

A passing motorist went to their assistance and rescued two of the children from beneath the car.

Mr. Padrat is proprietor of a clothing store in Palmer and Mr. Zimmerman owns a grocery store in the same town.

Mrs. Stoltz is the wife of a Monson merchant. Mrs. Stoltz's condition is critical.

These pictures give a vivid idea of the battle of Zacatecas, the recent big conflict in Mexico, where the rebels won a decisive victory over the federals. The Huertista forces made a desperate stand at the forts and fortifications on the hills surrounding the city. They had prepared for months for the attack, but they were routed with heavy loss by Villa's men.

DENOUNCED BY MAYOR

BOSTON, July 1.—The motives of the committee of clergyman who conducted a meeting of protest in the First Baptist church, Cambridge, Tuesday night, when the removal of Commissioner Henry J. Cunningham was urged because of law violations in the University city, were denounced yesterday by Mayor Good of Cambridge. He declared that the movement was backed by those opposed to the present democratic administration and was organized for purposes of notoriety. He stated that he had asked Rev. Mr. Macnair for the evidence of the violation but the latter refused. "I do not intend to be scared or coerced by their threats or actions," said the mayor. "Commissioner Cunningham and myself are doing all in our power to have things right in Cambridge. It is easy enough to make charges but when we ask for the evidence Mr. Macnair and his associates do not come forward with it."

having a law passed that directed the chief of the labor bureau to publish weekly conditions of employment in the labor market in public places in Massachusetts. It is his present intention to have these two great departments of the government labor and commerce, publish weekly for general distribution the conditions of labor. A short time ago the secretary of labor said that 50,000 men were wanted in the wheat fields of the west. If this condition could be brought to the attention of those in other sections of the country where business may not be so good, who are looking for employment, or some specific information concerning wages, labor conditions and such as he thinks a great deal of good may be accomplished. His efforts in this direction are meeting with success.

WHAT OF OUR CHARTER?

If the report of the grand jury on the case of the Lowell commissioners charged with exceeding their appropriations is to be considered final then the citizens of Lowell may as well conclude that it is not possible to enforce any criminal statute provided to promote good government at city hall. The charges of violating the charter by exceeding the appropriations made date back to 1912 and then applied to but one commissioner. The matter was formally brought to the attention of District Attorney Higgins, who called in expert accountants from the state bureau of statistics to go all over the city accounts bearing upon the case in order to ascertain whether the evidence against this particular administrator was well founded and whether there was any truth in the charges of similar violation which this administrator made against some of his colleagues. The grand jury in its report admits that there is evidence that certain administrators exceeded the appropriations made for their respective departments. This evidence alone under the provision of the charter should constitute a basis for the removal of the administrator. It is well known that there was no such reason for exceeding appropriations in any department, and equally plain that the charter was violated in pursuance of an old custom that has been piling up debt against the city for nearly a score of years and against which the citizens seem to be entirely helpless.

It was to remedy this evil that the provision in question was inserted in the new charter with a penalty of a heavy fine or imprisonment attached. But now according to the report of the grand jury this clause of the charter cannot be enforced for if, as the grand jury alleges, there would be no probability of a conviction in this case there never would be a conviction in any similar case for the reason that no more conclusive evidence is ever likely to be secured.

It appears that the grand jury has practically assumed the responsibility of nullifying an important provision of our charter. What redress have the citizens of Lowell? Of what use is a charter framed to enforce good government if it is to be set aside in this manner?

What are the people of Lowell to do in such a case? Will they have to let this provision of the new charter remain as a dead letter or go to the legislature to have it modified and made mild enough to suit the gentlemen of the grand jury so that there will be nothing to brag about any long trial at considerable expense to the county or to threaten any guilty official with a severe penalty for malfeasance in office?

In spite of the finding of the grand jury and the failure of two district attorneys to enforce this law we still believe that the law is right and that those who violate it should be punished in accordance therewith.

But judging from what has just happened it appears that with the present grand jury and county officials in office, our administrators can go on exceeding their appropriations at will. This is certainly a unique state of affairs.

It would appear to be necessary to change our charter so that it may be enforced without appealing to the grand jury or the county officials. This might be done by a provision that each commissioner furnish a bond as a guarantee that he will live up to the charter or else forfeit a certain amount proportionate to the gravity of his offense.

THE THRIFT MOVEMENT

The present time is certainly a prolific time for all manner of uplift societies, industrial agitations and similar movements, and the list grows larger daily. Nevertheless, there is good in most of them and there is work in abundance for those who promote their peculiar propaganda. One such society which, though organized but eight months or so, has been eminently successful in arousing general interest is the American Society for Thrift, which aims at educating the masses to the advantage of economy and wise management in the everyday things of life. It has been frequently charged, the high cost of modern living may be attributed for the most part to popular extravagance. Thrift would lessen the burden materially and any influence which would teach thrifty habits to the public would be immensely beneficial.

The American Society for Thrift was organized in October, 1913. Shortly after its organization its officers wisely saw that it would be extremely difficult to change the habits of the masses to the energies of the body were directed towards the educating of the young in the principles of prudent living and systematic saving. One of its first activities was the agitating of small vegetable gardens near the home, and later on it was deemed expedient to teach thrift scientifically in the higher schools and colleges. It was discovered on investigation that the tendency of school and college graduates was far more towards wastefulness than towards habits of thrift. So far as the teaching of anything positive on this score is concerned, the official report of the society recently declared that "there is no definite thrift education in the course, although vocational training, domestic science and other similar subjects are being added rapidly."

Owing to the influence of the thrift movement, banks, loan societies, cooperative organizations, building associations and other financial and industrial bodies now strive to inculcate thrifty habits among the people, not only in an unselfish spirit but in realization of its business significance. Thrift and extravagance are usually due to habit, formed early in life, and there is a great field for the cultivation of the more desirable habit among the young. The school savings banks of this city are an indication of the spirit that should be cultivated by all parents and teachers.

OUR UNEMPLOYED

Although it is very doubtful that the degree of unemployment at any time for the past three or four months was so great as was represented in some quarters, the reports of the state bureau of statistics shows that Lowell was particularly fortunate as compared with some sections of New England, especially the other textile centers. The quarterly report on unemployment among organized wage earners, as summarized by this bureau for the quarter ending in March, showed that but four out of the cities of Massachusetts that reported had lower percentages than Lowell. Gloucester had the highest percentage of unemployment, due in part to the unemployment of fish workers and to a strike among the sailmakers. Gloucester's percentage was reported as 21.5 per cent, and New Bedford comes a close second with 20 per cent. Lowell's unemployment was but half that of New Bedford or 10.4 per cent, and it is apparent that this has practically been entirely remedied during the past few months. The cities showing the least amount of unemployment for the period above-mentioned were, in their respective order: Quincy, which reported 2.6, Fitchburg with 4.3, and Lynn with 5.2.

Notwithstanding the high percentage of New Bedford, the report in summary up the returns said specifically: "There appeared to be no considerable amount of unemployment among the organized wage earners in the textile industry in any of the several textile centers. In other words, the temporary depression was not due so much to a general condition as to some local or sectional obstruction, and the same seems to hold true concerning all lines of industry. Lowell now embraces a very diversified list of industries, and conditions here are a fair indication of conditions generally throughout the country. The boot and shoe industry compares well with other seasons, iron and steel are booming and there is every indication of good business ahead. It must be remembered in estimating the figures compiled by any bureau that strikes contribute materially to the lists of the unemployed, and New England has had its usual share of strikes during the period above mentioned. Now, however, the labor situation seems unusually placid, and only the confirmed pessimist anticipated stagnated conditions."

RIVER NAVIGATION

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Lawrence chamber of commerce, it was voted to adopt the recommendation of the new secretary, Mr. Sherman, who had suggested that Merrimack river improvement be made the chief of the three main activities of the chamber for the coming year. The other two interests are the education and enlargement of the chamber's membership and the "expansion of a varied number of industries." The Merrimack river project is now in its crucial stage as the future depends on the co-operation of the federal government and it is all important that all the cities and smaller communities along the bank of the river should get together and resolve to do what Lawrence intends to do. Only by united effort and tireless support will the national government be moved to act promptly and the importance of the proposition urges all who are interested in this section to leave nothing undone which would ensure its success. Navigation of the Merrimack is by far the most important industrial scheme affecting the Merrimack valley at the present time, and it should not wait for the fullest measure of intelligent popular support. In other parts of the country the citizens have secured similar favors from the national government by enthusiastic effort, though it would be difficult to name any recent government activity of a like nature in which the possibilities are greater.

THE BLACKLIST CONDEMNED

The recent ruling of the United States supreme court declaring that blacklisting is an association of business men is contrary to law emphasizes another aspect of pernicious activity in business that is more general than many are ready to acknowledge. The verdict arose out of a case against an association of lumber dealers. From the evidence given it was evident that the wholesale and retail dealers had apparently legal agreement as to their methods. When any of the thousands who look out from under the roofs of charity and see it washing off of it was sent to all the efforts, the thickened ruins of what once was without comment. Quite naturally this merchant most directly concerned and in the ways of human nature he suffered in his business relationship as a result. The decision is also expected to have a bearing on the custom of some labor unions in describing certain employers as "blacklist" in official circulars.

KEEP STREETS CLEAN

In spite of all that has been said officially and unofficially in this city, a great lack of respect for cleanliness and civic tidiness is apparent among too many of our citizens. In the center of the city where one might expect order and neatness, papers and other refuse are thrown around indiscriminately, and some stores are not any too particular when unpacking cases to see that the waste is put away carefully. Undoubtedly the condition is due in part to the persistent negligence of the municipal authorities to make provision for what must be discarded and it is certain that the addition of a few more artistic waste receivers to our municipal equipment would have a salutary influence on the public. Clean up campaigns lose half their value if their lesson is neglected for fifty-one weeks of the year.

TAG DAY

The plan to set tags here indiscriminately tomorrow for the relief of the Salem sufferers is an excellent one and there is no doubt that it will be well patronized by our people. Many who cannot afford to give large sums would like to help in a lesser degree, and this would give them the opportunity they desire. If anything could intensify the first appeal of the stricken region it is the heavy rain of the past few days which must bring gloom indeed to the thousands who look out from under the roofs of charity and see it washing off of it was sent to all the efforts, the thickened ruins of what once was without comment. Quite naturally this merchant most directly concerned and in the ways of human nature he suffered in his business relationship as a result. The decision is also expected to have a bearing on the custom of some labor unions in describing certain employers as "blacklist" in official circulars.

In strange contrast with the fire-eating manifestos of some months ago were the speeches made in the shorn house of lords this week. Instead of declarations of independence and undying hatred to Irish nationality there was a very evident desire to accept the few crumbs of comfort contained in the bill for the temporary extension of Ulster. When Carson's army drilled in the presence of an inoffensive majority, 'twas much easier to bluster than now when the splendid body of Irish volunteers stand ready on the opposite side determined to prevent their country from being again thrown down from the pinnacle of hope. Parliamentary agitation and superb leadership, backed by a strong army, have always been good for Ireland.

Roosevelt is made happy by the report that in six weeks his voice will be all right. The country congratulates him, though a great many good people secretly wish that the doctor had imposed two or three years' silence as the price of ultimate cure. Let us hope, however, that as the voice improves, the quality of his recent speeches will improve also.

Alas for juvenile enthusiasm! Some safe and sane lobby must have prevailed on the weather man.

Hives that if it wasn't for her her husband would be a failure. And every husband believes that if it wasn't for him his wife would starve to death. What has become of the old-fashioned man who used to carry a cigar case? If there is a better way and an easier way, we always take the easier way. Contempt is what a barber has for a safety razor and a boy has for a manure fork. There are all sorts of hares in the world, including the generous lad who lets you buy four times and then tells you that he would retaliate only he left his money at home in his other clothes.

MANY DESERTED FELINES I see by the annual report of the Animal Rescue League, which has just appeared, that the stretch of beach between Hull and Nantasket, on the south shore, has the worst record of the report as far as deserted cats and kittens are concerned. Sixty-five of these stray felines were found there during October, November and December out of 189 found altogether at all the beaches, which does not speak very well for the humanity of summer cottagers on the Hull peninsula. The league will take unwanted animals to its receiving station at Carver street, to find good homes for them or dispose of them unobtrusively, if they are notified in time to send their agents.

VERY COLD LAW

Winter v. Winter, 145 Northwestern Reporter, 709, is a case in which is determined whether the husband, by remarrying, may obtain exemption from the liability which he incurred by reason of a former marriage. A decree of divorce had been obtained against the appellee, and later the payment of alimony was decreed. Execution on the judgment was returned unsatisfied, and a garnishee summons was thereupon issued. The garnishee was duly served, and the defendant, Leonard Winter, set up that he was again married, was living with his wife, and was the head of a family; that he had neither land, farm, lots, nor a house subject to execution as a homestead; that he and his wife were boarding, and that they had no household furniture or other property except wearing apparel. The district court discharged the garnishee, and plaintiff appealed. The supreme court of Nebraska held that the husband could not defeat the collection of alimony by remarrying and claiming the benefit of the exemption law. The court said that the law ought not to permit him to construct a shield that will protect him in his marital and domestic recklessness. By getting married to relieve himself from the burden of support, "The branch of jurisprudence which treats of marriage is most important. Marriage furnishes the basis of a permanent and Christian civilization. The duties assumed under it should be conscientiously discharged. Coercion of equity will compel the enforcement of marriage obligations, and no mere rule of law ought to be interposed by him who permits the derelict husband to escape the burden of supporting his wife and children." The court held that the object of the statute relating to exemptions was the protection of the family and not the protection of the husband, "It could never have been designed to allow a man to escape his obligations to his family. Why, then, should it not protect the family against him, as well as protect it against a creditor?"

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE ASSASSIN The unpleasant reflection that must occur to every one is that these persons who are just crazy enough to commit murder, but not for anything else, seem to be increasing in number. Assassinations are growing more frequent and the spread of democracy is not preventing them; it is encouraging them, at least according to increased opportunities. New York Times.

ANOTHER TRIBUTE

We like everything in the souvenir edition of the Lowell (Mass.) Sun, issued May 6, 1914. There are 18 pages of attractive display, in addition to much interesting text matter and of course the greater portion of the work was produced on linotypes. The Sun always was a fine looking paper, typographically, but this souvenir edition, in our opinion, surpasses any previous number.—Linotype Bulletin, N. Y.

A DRUNKEN STUDY

"There are various stages, such as 'quarter drunk,' 'half drunk,' and 'real drunk.' There are the stages of being 'vicious,' 'foxy,' 'tired,' and on a 'high lonesome,' and it is about as difficult to determine when a young lady gets to be an old maid as it is to tell when a man has taken enough alcohol to stimulate him to a 'high lonesome.' 'Jolly sober' and a 'manly drunk.'—Meriden (Conn.) Journal.

OUR EDUCATION

That education in our schools has gradually become ineffective almost to the point of failure, has for some time been admitted, however reluctantly, by many of our foremost educators. If the term can be honestly applied. And that the sex problem in one form or another enters generously into the conditions that have brought about this state of affairs, has been conceded—Haverhill Herald.

SALEM FIRE

There is no "disgraced blessing" in the loss at South Salem, which ought to have been immune from a fire which started a mile away and had to leap the wide expanse made by the railroad tracks southeast of the town. The permanent blessing that will come to Salem will be a high pressure water service and plenty of motor fire apparatus. Meanwhile the immediate blessing is the generous offer of plenty pouring its wealth of sympathy and cash from the whole nation into the laps of the stricken people—Lynn Item.

HARVEST PROSPECTS

There is every present indication that the sun and the clouds and all the elements that make the weather, are working this year for the prosperity of the North American continent. Grain prospects are of an unusually favorable character, and in the United States the outlook warrants the belief that the yield will be between 200,000,000 and 1,000,000,000 bushels. In Canada, also, the estimated surplus for export is high. Had the yield in other main sources of world supply been equally exceptional, it might easily have resulted in a glut of the wheat market, but the crops of Argentina and India, two of the largest early contributors, have fallen below expectations, and the slight increase in the Australian crop will not go far toward making up the deficiency. It therefore, the promise of a bountiful crop in North America comes to fruition, the European figures, as is likely, fall considerably below those of last year, the demand will be on an extensive scale—and prices will probably rule as high, at least, as usual.—Manchester Leader.

IS YOUNG GIFFORD MURDERER?

Jerome Opens Defence
With Attempt to Prove
Alibi for Accused

Four Witnesses Say He
Was Not the Man
Seen in Clute's Auto

MALCOLM GIFFORD, JR.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 2.—Four witnesses swore yesterday that Malcolm Gifford, Jr., on trial here charged with murdering Frank J. Clute, was not the passenger that Clute carried in his automobile the night he was slain. A fifth witness was somewhat uncertain, but was strongly of the opinion that the man he saw in the car was not Gifford. Their testimony opened the defence's case.

Not Man in Auto

The star witness for the defence was Samuel D. Gibson of Troy. He told of seeing Clute on the night of the slaying cranking his car at the spot where his body was found the next morning. The witness also declared that he saw Clute's passenger leave the car.

"Would you know that man if you saw him again?" Mr. Jerome asked. "I would," Gibson responded. "Malcolm, stand up," continued Jerome. The courtroom became quiet. The young defendant rose slowly, adjusted his cravat, shook out the creases in his trousers and looked straight at the witness.

"Is that the man?" queried Jerome.

"It is not; the passenger was an older man," Gibson replied. Six other witnesses testified the prisoner's reputation was "very good." They included Joseph H. Sawyer and Charles A. Buffum, two of Gifford's former instructors at the school he attended in Easthampton, Mass. "The close of the state's case yesterday was marked by testimony intended to show that Gifford owned an automatic revolver similar to the one that killed Clute. It was thought last night the defence would be able to close its case tomorrow. Efforts of District Attorney Alexander today were centered on proving

NEWS OF THE LEGISLATURE

House and Senate Plan to End Sessions This Week—Many Important Matters Pending

BOSTON, July 2.—The senate is making preparations to be prorogued this week, although it is not certain yet that this result will be accomplished. An order was adopted yesterday that the senate should meet at 10:30 this morning and hold two sessions today.

Various amendments were proposed to the corrupt practices bill when it came up yesterday. By Senator Hobbs, to strike out the clause which provides that no city or town committee shall expend more than $50 for any candidate for office; by Senator Burbank, to strike out the clause which limits individual contributions to $1000, and also the clause which restricts the use of unpaid automobiles by candidates; by Senator Chase, an amendment that a candidate may have two "checkers" at the polls instead of one, as the bill in its present form provides; by Senator Clark, an amendment that no person, firm or corporation holding a license to sell liquor shall make a contribution to the election expenses of a candidate.

Further consideration of the bill was then postponed until today.

Stock Transfer Tax Benten
The senate, by a tie vote, 15 to 15, refused to endorse the bill laying a tax on transfers of stock. President Coolidge voted against the bill and thus created a tie. Senator Dean gave notice that he would move reconsideration today.

The bill to repeal the Western trolley act was killed without debate. The house had previously passed the bill, but it is apparently now dead for this session, at least, and the act remains on the statute books.

The Fisher-Bills railroad bill was received from the house and will come up in the senate today on the question of ordering to a third reading.

Senator Langelier of Quincy opposed the report of the committee on ways and means that the bill to eliminate grade crossings in that city by depressing the tracks is not feasible. He set forth the importance of the bill to Quincy and the injury which would be done to the city by an elevated structure. Senator Ward of Rockland said the only question for the committee on ways and means was the added expense to the commonwealth. It would cost only about $200,000 to create the tracks, but two or three millions to depress them. The bill was rejected, 20 to 7.

Control of Employment Offices
Senator Sheehan opposed the report of the committee on ways and means to refer to the next general court the bill giving the board of labor and industries control of free and private employment offices, but the senate stood by the committee.

On motion of Senator Morgan the senate substituted for an adverse committee report a bill reducing the age and the length of service required of mayors of Boston in order that they may apply for a pension.

Senator J. P. Brennan of Cambridge opposed the bill to improve the sanitary condition of the Charles river, on the ground that it opened the door to large future expense for Cambridge. Senator McCarthy of Marlboro urged the importance of cleansing the river. The bill was ordered to a third reading on a voice vote.

The senate concurred in the amendments to the bill relative to crimes against chastity, decency, etc. These amendments were important perfecting clauses which had been omitted by mistake.

Bill on Delivering Liquor Barred
A petition from the town of Blackstone that it may take water from Uxbridge was admitted on motion of Senator Bazeley.

The senate, by a vote of 4 to 10, refused to admit a bill offered by Senator Cox to prohibit expressmen and express companies from delivering liquor in no-license cities and towns.

The senate committee on ways and means made the following reports:
Ought to pass, on the bill to appropriate $110,000 for construction of the North Beacon street bridge over the Charles river between Boston and Wintertown.

The House
The house of representatives finished its calendar yesterday. This does not mean that its work is done, however, and gives no definite assurance that prorogation will take place tomorrow. Opinions differ as to the possibility of adjournment this week, as there are a number of highly important matters awaiting construction. In any event the last hour of the legislature of 1914 are sure to be extremely busy ones.

Mr. Ellis, in opposing the bill to transfer the jurisdiction of telephone and telegraph matters from the public service commission to the gas and electric light commission, said the public service commission should be given more time to show results.

Mr. McMorrogh moved an amendment requiring the gas and electric light commissioners to devote their entire time to the business of the commission.

Mr. White opposed the amendment, saying the gas and electric commission is very efficient and should be left alone.

Mr. Hays said the bill should be passed in order that the people might get a reduction of telephone rates. He said the public service commission had done nothing to bring about a reduction.

Mr. Peck could see no reason for prizing the gas and electric commission and expressed his confidence in the public service commission.

one-tenth of its duty."

By a rising vote, 55 to 77, the bill was rejected.

The house refused to concur with the senate in an amendment to the bill to amend the building laws of Boston. Mr. McInerney immediately moved reconsideration of the refusal to concur.

Mr. Cargo objected to reconsideration. "We ought to stand firm for the proposition that three-deckers shall be at least 10 feet apart."

Mr. Wilson explained that the bill as it was passed by the house provided that wooden buildings shall be erected 20 feet apart. The amendment put on in the senate made it 10 feet apart. Reconsideration prevailed by a voice vote, and the house concurred with the senate amendment by a voice vote.

The bill to provide for the improvement of a highway in the towns of Ware and Palmer was rejected.

The house receded from its amendment to the bill for the registration of bonds.

Street Railway Merger
Mr. Gilman opposed the resolve to provide for an investigation by the public service commission of the subject of consolidating the street railways within the metropolitan district. He declared that a similar investigation conducted last year by the public service commission had "amounted to nothing."

Mr. Robinson and Mr. Casassa supported the resolve, declaring that the subject was a most important one and worthy of great study.

Sir Gilman offered an amendment to the effect that the resolve shall have no bearing on local complaints that may come to the attention of the public service commission during the investigation. The amendment was rejected by a rising vote, 47 to 65.

By a voice vote the resolve was ordered to a third reading for the appropriation of $1,600,000 for construction of the proposed west wing of the state house was rejected, 29 to 113.

The house refused to recede from its former position and the resolve for towns to deal in ice is "lost" between the two branches.

Weekend, Broderick's, tonight.

To Ward Off Summer

To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all summer, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary mercurized wax. Oily, freckled or discolored skin, so common at this season, is gently absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher skin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, the latter being applied at bedtime and washed off morning. Creams, powders and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear more conspicuous than usual these days of excessive perspiration. Just get an ounce of mercurized wax at any drug store and use like cold cream. This will help any skin at once, and in a week or so the complexion will look remarkably youthful and healthy.

Dr. Carman Says That Woman Was Killed by a Shot Fired From Outside Through His Office Window

FREEPORT, N. Y., July 1.—Evidence must have squatted on the floor. It was aimed. He ducked behind an operating table and as he did so the bullet would have taken from a pistol shoved through the broken pane of the doctor's window.

In the presence of detectives engaged by the county and by the murdered woman's husband, William D. Bailey, a wealthy New York hat manufacturer, Dr. Carman today rehearsed the murder scene. He was about to pull aside the curtain to permit Mrs. Bailey to leave his office he said when he heard a crash of glass and saw a hand with a pistol poked through the broken pane of the window. He was described as well dressed and Auburn haired.

THE BON MARCHE

Sent Large Load of Goods to the Salem Sufferers

The Bon Marche is never behind in offering its contribution for any worthy cause, and the company has responded to the appeal for aid in a very generous manner. Mr. Gilmore, the manager of this department store yesterday sent from the store as a contribution more than $500 worth of merchandise consisting of coats, dresses, sweaters, shirt waists, kimono, hats, shoes, etc., and these articles are right from the stock on the counters. Mr. Gilmore, the manager, has had these goods sent over the road in one of Stanley's transportation autos, and by the way Mr. Stanley has given free of charge the use of the auto for this shipment having sent the big truck over the road this morning, and Mr. Gilmore to make sure of the safe delivery of the goods went over the road in Mr. Stanley's private automobile to see that the goods were given to the authorized parties. This generous contribution will not fail to be thoroughly appreciated by the sufferers. Other contributions have been made by the Bon Marche, clerks, as if every dry goods house is as generous as the Bon Marche the question of suffering for clothing will soon pass away.

GOV. WALSH'S MESSAGE

ADVOCATES APPOINTMENT OF COMMISSION TO CONSIDER RECOMMENDATIONS OF TREASURER

BOSTON, July 1.—In a message to the house today Governor Walsh advocated the appointment of a commission to consider the recommendations of the state treasurer that there be a complete readjustment of the state finances by retirement of the old sinking fund bonds and the issuance of serial bonds.

Treasurer Mansfield said that in 40 years the saving in interest alone by this method would be from $25,000,000 to $40,000,000.

Hinted That He Expected Visit From Mayor Mitchel

NEW YORK, July 1.—Col. Roosevelt hinted today that he expected a visit from Mayor Mitchel in a few days.

"If he comes," said Mr. Roosevelt, "I would bet a big red apple that he will talk of municipal affairs rather than state politics. I really don't know whether he's coming down or not."

Dr. Holbrook Curtis, the throat specialist, told Col. Roosevelt today that he would have to rest six weeks. Then, after the colonel had made a few speeches as a test, the doctor said he would be able to tell more definitely just what Mr. Roosevelt could do in the campaign.

"I'll be able to make some speeches all right," said the colonel confidently.

He agreed that the six weeks' sentence was preferable to the four months' rest recently prescribed by another physician.

"Maybe the doctor will let you be a candidate for governor after all," said a questioner.

"They won't have to let me," answered the colonel. "He did not make it clear just what he meant by this remark."

FINALLY SETTLED

The case of McKinley vs. Warren, which has been in court for the past two years was finally brought to a close yesterday, when the supreme court notified Lawyer William D. Reardon of this city that the finding of Judge Jennings before whom the case was last tried, would stand.

In the case James H. McKinley of this city brought suit against Peter R. Warren of the Warren Co. to recover on the grounds that money had been advanced by Warren on sales of shares of stock in the Warren Co., the plaintiff claiming that he had been induced into the transaction through fraudulent representations.

The case first went to trial before Judge Fox in the superior court, who found for the defendant. While exceptions were taken, Judge Fox reversed his finding and the case went to trial before Judge Jennings, who found for the plaintiff in the sum of $2184. Exceptions were taken on the action of Judge Fox in reversing his finding. The matter finally reached the supreme court and Judge Jennings' finding was sustained. William D. Reardon, of this city appeared for the plaintiff.

A MODERATE SETBACK

IN EARLY TRADING—ULSTER AND MEXICAN SITUATIONS AFFECTED MARKET

NEW YORK, July 1.—Conditions abroad were probably responsible for the moderate setback registered by the local stock market in today's early dealings. International issues ruled regarding the situation in Ulster was revived. The deadlock in the Mexican negotiations also exerted an adverse influence. Losses did not exceed fractions and in most cases recoveries ensued. The only gains of note were Atlantic coast line, Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Liggett & Myers preferred, which advanced a point. Trading was fairly active, with indications of some investment demand.

Quotations again receded after the first hour's activity. The market then drifted idly with business at low ebb. Expiration of the bond conversion privilege accounted for the comparative strength of Brooklyn Rapid Transit, but such changes as were recorded also where but of no especial significance. Gains of 1 to 2 points in various industrial securities of a speculative character attracted little attention. Bonds were irregular. Rock collatorals ruled firm in the face of unfavorable May earnings.

New York Central fell a point on publication of the system's earnings for May showing a net loss of $2,367,000 and a drop of 2 points in New Haven to 63 3/4, brought that stock to within a fraction of its low record. The list as a whole was inclined to sag in sympathy.

Trading became increasingly dull in the late session and the list again inclined toward a lower level.

Representative stocks moved with some uncertainty today. Dealings were restricted, the professional element showing little disposition to make new commitments in view of impending developments. The close was heavy.

ROYAL REGATTA COTTON REPORT

WASHINGTON, July 1.—A total area of 26,000,000 acres of cotton is in cultivation in the United States according to the preliminary estimate of the department of agriculture announced today.

This compares with 27,458,000 acres, the revised estimate of acreage in cultivation a year ago 27,059,000 acres picked last year, 24,253,000 in 1912 and 26,045,000 acres in 1911.

The condition of the growing crop on June 25 was 79.5 per cent of a normal, as compared with 74.3 per cent on May 25, this year, 81.8 per cent, on June 25 last year, and 80.7 per cent the ten-year average on June 25.

The month began with one of the severest droughts ever known in the eastern portion of the cotton belt. It greatly retarded growth of early planted cotton and delayed the germination of late planted. In the western portions of the belt the first week of the month was excessively wet. This prevented any improvement in the plants and made cultivation and planting difficult.

Better conditions prevailed during the second week, the plant making good progress in the eastern and central portions of the belt, while the western portion had the most favorable weather for several weeks.

During the third week local showers in the central and eastern portions of the belt greatly improved the outlook and early planted cotton generally was reported in good condition, but later planted was backward and needed rain. Highly favorable weather continued in the western part of the belt.

The final week of the month was reported as the most favorable, thus far this season, good rains having fallen over much of the central and eastern portions of the belt, having made it excellent growth. Over the western portions warmth, with occasional showers, permitted rapid growth and the outlook greatly improved. Boll weevil were reported as numerous in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama.

The area planted by states, with last year's planted area and area picked (00's omitted) follow:

SADIE AND MARIE

Mixed Things Up in Adams St. and Baby Was Hurt

As a result of a row in Adams street last Thursday evening one assault and battery case and three cases in which men were charged with disorderly conduct were heard by Associate Justice Pickman in the second session of police court yesterday and two other assaults growing out of the same matter are scheduled to be tried later.

Sadie Ayash pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging her with assault and battery upon Maria Maria. It seems that the defendant conducts a store in Adams street and when Mrs. Maria went there last Thursday they had a slight disagreement which ended in blows. The complainant alleges that Sadie pushed her through a screen door and caused her to drop her baby which she carried in her arms. It is alleged that the baby sustained a severe injury to its collarbone. The defendant denied that she used any unnecessary force. Edward Tierney for the plaintiff and William A. Hogan for the defendant.

Disturbing the Peace
Albert Shaheen, Nicholas Ayash and John Maria were arrested on the same evening by Officer O'Neill for disturbing the peace. The officer claims that as he was patrolling his beat about 3 o'clock last night he was attracted to Liberty square by a large crowd blocking the street. Hastening to the scene he saw Ayash and Maria exchanging blows and the officer claims, Shaheen also butted in and did some striking. He placed the three men under arrest and brought them to the station where each denied that he had caused any trouble. All pleaded not guilty in court this afternoon.

At 3:30 o'clock a recess was ordered and Judge Pickman stated that he would make no decision in any of the cases until all were tried.

SENSATIONAL RISE IN THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER CAUSES GREAT ALARM

LA CROSSE, Wis., July 1.—A sensational rise in the Mississippi river here overnight caused great alarm and resulted in official warnings being sent out today by the United States weather bureau. Today the river stood at 10 feet above low mark, the highest point in years. Two feet more will let the river into the town, low places of which are already flooded. Heavy rains and swollen streams emptying into the Mississippi from above will mean a steady rise until Saturday, the weather observer predicts.

IMPOSSIBLE TO ESCAPE

ASSASSINATION OF ARCHDUKE AND WIFE CAREFULLY PLANNED—MANY BOMBS FOUND

VIENNA, Austria, July 1.—The conspiracy against the lives of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and the Duchess of Hohenberg was so well planned that it would have been impossible for them to escape from Bosnia alive according to some members of the late archduke's suite, who returned here today. A similar internal machine also was discovered in the chimney of the room occupied by the duchess at Lille, a watering place a few miles from Sarajevo, and a woman was caught with seven bombs in her possession.

The bullet that killed the archduke was an explosive one.

It has been ascertained by the authorities that Gavrieo Princip, the assassin, is the son of the proprietor of a hotel at Sarajevo and that he has passed his twentieth year, so that he may be sentenced to death for the crime.

Mayor Murphy, Commissioner Carin an automobile loaded with clothing and other things for the Salem sufferers.

Everybody at city hall is very much in earnest in the matter of raising money for the Salem relief fund and City Messenger Monahan seems to be the most energetic of them all. He has already sold 150 tickets for the benefit entertainment to be held in the Merrimack Square theatre tomorrow night and he has sent tickets by mail to a number of his friends and others whom he thinks will return the cash for them. He has mailed tickets to all of the senators and representatives in this district and if they don't return the cash P. D. Q. they needn't look for Owen's vote.

Mayor Murphy has turned over the sum of $11.75 to Treasurer O'Brien of the Salem relief committee and the grand total now is nearly $3000. The additional subscriptions received by Mayor Murphy are as follows:

Edward W. Brigham, $1; Frank W.

James Dunfee, $2; Chief Edward F.

ALFRED GIROUARD

The trial of the case of Alfred Girouard, alias William Carpenter, was Jack Sullivan, was completed today Judge Pike in the superior court at Manchester, N. H., today and the jury retired for deliberation a few minutes after 1 o'clock, the arguments of the respective attorneys and the judge's charge taking up considerable time.

It will be remembered that Girouard was arrested on Middlesex street, January 1, by Lieut. Maher of the local department and later taken to Nashua, N. H., charged with robbery.
The police court in that city had no jurisdiction over the case and he was held for the superior court in Manchester.

While on the witness stand yesterday the defendant denied that he was in Nashua when the robbery occurred and said that he was confined to the Bellevue hospital in New York city.
The state sprung a surprise in Manchester this forenoon when they produced Dr. Mark L. Fleming of the hospital as their principal witness and he informed the court that Girouard had only been at his visit on January 23, three days before his arrest here.
At 2:15 o'clock this afternoon the jury was still out.

Will Tear Down Building
The big brick building in the rear of the St. James hotel and numbered 2, 3 and 5 Middlesex Place is about to be torn down. Commissioner Donnelly addressed a letter to the owners of the property, the Dugdale heirs, several days ago, advising them that the building was in tough shape and they would either have to improve it or tear it down. The heirs decided they would tear it down and notified the commissioner to that effect.

Some Building Permits
D. M. Kazanlian has been granted a permit for the erection of a six apartment, three story building at 23 Fifth $5000.

The Lamson Co. has been granted an addition to its foundry building in its yard in Walker street. The additional alterations will include the raising of the roof and the construction of an addition for the furnace.

MONEY FOR SUFFERERS

SALEM, July 1.—Urgent need of more funds for the relief of the fire sufferers was emphasized at today's meeting of the relief committee. It was voted to reissue the appeal for assistance made by the committee last Saturday night. The appeal follows:
"The calamity which has overtaken the city of Salem in the disastrous fire of Thursday, June 25, presents grave and pressing problems for relief.
Briefly, and as far as this committee has been able to ascertain the facts, there are between fifteen and twenty thousand people, mostly wage earners, representing probably between three and four thousand families who have been rendered homeless and destitute.

"In addition to this, and of far greater importance, is the fact that the great majority are without employment, due to the destruction of such industries as the cotton mills and many important factories which provided their employment. The problem of rehabilitation will, of necessity, be a long and expensive one. This committee, believing the state and local relief committees aided by the governor and city authorities, makes this general appeal for money for the sufferers, believing after careful investigation that the extent of the disaster justifies this action. Contributions may be sent to Mr. Gardner M. Lane, treasurer at State street, Boston."

A bill providing for a rebuilding commission of five persons was filed at the state house by City Solicitor Sullivan today. It provides that the governor shall appoint a commission of the citizens of Salem to be known as the Salem rebuilding commission.
The commissioners are to serve without pay and are to have full control over rebuilding the burned district, issue permits to build and make all regulations governing the kinds of structures and define new buildings wherever necessary.
The board of health regulations regarding the clean streets are being rigidly enforced. Peter Levesque was sentenced to one month in the house of correction today for throwing waste paper in the street.
The local relief fund today exceeded $21,000.

BOSTON'S FUND FOR SALEM FIRE VICTIMS NOW
$201,000

BOSTON, July 1.—Contributions of $26,568 received this forenoon for the relief of the fire sufferers at Salem brought the total fund up to $201,000.
The largest offering, $5500, was received from a committee in Malden tag selling campaign at Salem. Among other large gifts were: City of Dayton, Ohio, $3000; Dalton, Mass., relief committee $1000; town of Peabody, $1500. An additional gift of $1000 came from the citizens of Fall River.
Three thousand dollars has already been raised by the citizens of Cambridge.

TWO BILLS TO PROVIDE SALEM WITH FUNDS SENT TO HOUSE
BY GOV. WALSH
BOSTON, July 1.—Two bills designed to provide Salem with the funds to reconstruct its public building and to re-establish other municipal agencies were sent by Gov. Walsh to the house today.

One bill authorizes the city to borrow $700,000 outside its debt limit by the issuance of bonds for a loan to run 40 years at 4 1/2 per cent. The income to be used for the construction of buildings and other municipal purposes.
The other bill provides that the state tax shall be abated for the current year, and that the city may borrow $100,000 on a ten year loan for the purpose of recuperating its revenue in anticipation of taxes. These bonds are to mature in ten years and bear interest 4 1/2 per cent.
Both bills were referred to the committee on taxation.

SPENDING MONEY

Places That Need It More Than The Merrimack Sewer—Protest
From Taxpayer

Lowell, July 1, 1914.
I wish to enter a protest through the columns of your paper against the proposed action of the city government in starting sewer construction in the estimated cost being from $32,000 to $35,000, when the citizens of the district are almost unanimously opposed to the work being done and it being generally known that there is no real necessity for the construction.
If the members of the city government are seeking a way to spend that amount of money, why do they not ride up and down Broadway from School street to Walker street, West-ford street from Chelmsford street to Wilder street, admitted that the Marlborough street to city line Mammoth road from Pawtucket square to city line, Varnum avenue from Pawtucket square to boulevard, Riverside avenue from Pawtucket square to Colonial avenue, Gorham street, from railroad crossing to Carlisle street?
The question of these streets is a disgrace to any community.
Respectfully,
A Taxpayer.

State Police Bar Bonfires

3 KILLED IN LODGING HOUSE FIRE

STATE POLICE OPPOSE ALL BONFIRE PERMITS

Col. Carmichael, Head of Fire Department, Says He Will Grant No Permits—Risk too Great in City Like Lowell

In all probability, no permits for bonfires on the night before the Fourth will be granted by the chief of the Lowell fire department and any person who lights any of the structures which have been built in the various parts of the city to usher in the glorious holiday will be liable to arrest. Statements to that effect were made by both Chief Saunders and Col. Carmichael, commissioner of the fire department, this forenoon and both declared that no permits would be issued under any consideration.

The above decision was made as a result of a letter received today from the office of the district police in Boston who says that a city like Lowell faces too great a danger in allowing bonfire piles to be ignited. Therefore, it looks as if the huge stacks built by the young men in this city will have to be torn down instead of burned amid cheers of thousands of onlookers, as in the past.

If the Fourth passes without a bonfire burning at midnight this year it will be the first time in many years, as the younger element of the city has always looked forward to these events as the biggest thing on the program for the Fourth. Col. Carmichael said that as head of the fire department he did not think it would be using proper judgment on his part to overlook the advice of the state police and issue permits for bonfires. Several large piles have already been built in this city, most prominent among them being the one near Fort Hill on the Ferry street grounds and one on State street. What action the state police would take if any of the fires was set by persons interested is not known, but persons would be liable to a fine of not less than $50 and in case property was damaged, a term of imprisonment.

The letter received today by Colonel Carmichael read as follows:

Board of Fire Inspectors
State Police
Boston, July 1, 1914.
Col. James H. Carmichael, Commissioner of Fire and Water Dept., Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir:
Your communication of recent date relative to bonfires in your city on the night before the Fourth duly received. I would advise you not to grant any permits for such fires unless they are so far away from buildings that there would be no possible danger of property catching fire as the wind would carry sparks and burning pieces of wood for a great distance. Therefore, I do not deem it advisable to have bonfires in a city like Lowell.

Yours very truly,
George C. Neal,
Deputy Inspector.

The Salem catastrophe has undoubtedly caused the state police to advise greater caution than in past years, especially where the bonfires are located near factories or thickly settled parts of the city.

LIFE WAS THREATENED

FREEMONT, N. Y., July 2.—Two weeks before Mrs. Louise Bailey was murdered in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman, someone called Dr. Carman on the telephone and threatened his life. With apparent reluctance, and more than 36 hours after the tragedy, the physician today gave this information to the district attorney. Dr. Carman refused to say whether the threatening message came from a man or a woman.

On the strength of this information, detectives continued to work on the theory that the assassin who on Tuesday night broke a window in the doctor's office, poked a revolver through the hole and fired the shot that killed Mrs. Bailey, a patient, had sought the doctor's life and not hers.

The authorities decided to postpone the coroner's inquest until after the autopsy which will be held today at the Bailey residence in Hempstead.

The discovery of a telephone device connecting the physician's office with his wife's bedroom closet, which seemed to promise important revelations last night, had brought forth nothing definite today beyond the fact that Mrs. Carman was jealous of her husband and that her scheme to overhear conversations in his office had convinced her, so she now declares that her fears were groundless.

TWO SUFFOCATED--ONE KILLED BY JUMPING

Fire in Manchester Lodging House Today — Man Disregarded Policeman's Warning and Jumped From Third Floor and Was Killed—Two Trapped on Fourth Floor and Were Suffocated — Twenty-five Escaped Over Roof to Adjoining Building

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 2.—A search of the lodging house of Mrs. David Mayo on North Elm street, which was damaged by fire early today, revealed the fact that three lives had been lost. John Reed, 25 years old, who is thought to have come from Brookline, Mass., was fatally injured when he disregarded a policeman's warning and jumped from a third story window, dying while being taken to a hospital. Mederic Caron, 30 years old, and Albert Lachance, 35 years old, were suffocated in their rooms on the top floor of the four story frame building.

Several lodgers were slightly hurt in jumping from windows. Others were taken down ladders and about 25 escaped over the roof to an adjoining building.

The fire, which started in the basement from an unknown cause, was confined to the lower part of the structure, occupied as a clothing store by Herman Feldman. The upper floors were filled with dense smoke. The loss will not exceed $10,000.

Caron Known Here
Mr. Pierre Caron of 23 Denatur avenue received word this morning of the tragic death of his brother, Mederic, aged 36 years, which occurred in Manchester, N. H., where the young man had lived for the past 20 years.

According to a telegram received by Mr. Caron his brother was burned to death in his room in the Manchester, N. H. lodging house, which was destroyed today.
Deceased was making arrangements for a short trip to this city on July 4. He is well known in Lowell, where he came on several occasions. He is survived by six sisters, Mesdames Thos. LaJole, Pierre Bouchard, John Chasse and Joseph Pelletier, all of Nashua, N. H., two brothers, Pierre of this city and Joseph Caron of Ottawa. The body may be sent to this city.

THE SALEM RELIEF

Fund Now Nearing $4,000 — Prospect of a Rapid Increase

Lowell's contributions to the Salem relief fund are nearing the $4000 mark and it is expected that the grand total will reach that mark before the day is done. The mayor's fund has gone beyond the $1000 mark and he received messages by telephone this afternoon that there was more on the way. Besides the cash a considerable amount of clothing, bedding and other things have been sent to Salem and it looks as if Lowell would do her part nobly in assisting in the relief of the sufferers.

$46 More For Fund
Commissioner Donnelly has instructed all school janitors to be careful as regards fire while the spirit of the glorious Fourth holds the boards and he has also instructed them to advise him as to repairs needed at the different schools to order that the repairs may be made during vacation. These repairs will be made by the lands and buildings department and this department, by the way, contributed $16 to the Salem relief fund today.

THE BUSINESS CONDITIONS

Prosperity and Depression Pictured in Another Senate Debate Today

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Prosperity and depression were pictured in another senate debate today. Republicans cited instances of industrial dullness and business recession while democrats asserted that business conditions were better in the United States than anywhere else in the world.

Senator Simmons started the argument when he quoted the official treasury figures showing a surplus for the fiscal year just ended.
"The treasury may be in a satisfactory condition," interjected Senator Gallinger, republican, "but the industries of the country certainly are not."
He then read from letters saying a New Hampshire shoe manufacturer had lost a $200,000 yearly contract with a Baltimore customer who found he could buy shoes cheaper in England under the new tariff. Senator Gallinger also presented correspondence to show that the wool manufacturing industry in New Hampshire had fallen off.

Senator Hollis, democrat, replied that a personal investigation in New Hampshire had convinced him that the fall was better employed there than it ever had been before.

Scene of Great Violence When Two Militant Suffragettes Were Arraigned on the Charge of Smashing Windows

CARNARVON, Wales, July 2.—A scene of great violence was created today by two militant suffragettes, Georgina Lloyd and Phyllis North, when they were brought up for trial at the local sessions on charges connected with a window-smashing campaign in June at Cryceieth in the constituency of Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd George. The prisoners fought like wildcats and it took five wardens to keep them in the prisoners' enclosure. A detective from Scotland Yard told the court that Miss North was a member of the arson squad which had set fire to the pavilion in the botanical gardens at Kew several months ago and that a short time ago she had inherited a fortune of $150,000.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Arnold Daly, one of the foremost stars of the American stage, and an excellent supporting company will appear in the photo-drama, "The Port of Missing Men," at the B. F. Keith theatre today, and it will continue to be shown twice daily during the remainder of the week. This marks Mr. Daly's first appearance in motion picture drama, and he is fortunate in having such a sterling vehicle as Mr. Merced Nicholson's splendid play. Those who have seen Daly in his portrayal of Napoleon in "Napoleon" and "The Destiny" will quickly recognize his special fitness for the part of John Armitage, the clever and daring subject of a mythical kingdom, who comes to the United States, and is imbued with the true American spirit, and who later outwits the spies of his country, does great service for the empire and yet remains loyal to his adopted land. During the course of the action, Armitage risks love, name, liberty and life itself, although his labors are not in vain, and in the end he sets the rightful ruler upon the throne of his homeland, retires to private life in America and claims an American bride. It is a story full of the unlooked-for situations and climaxes. In addition to this, other photo-dramas will be shown, and Samuel Wallace will sing some of his very latest song numbers. Admission, 10 cents, with a few seats reserved at 15 cents. Children, five cents.

THE KASINO

Quality is the Kasino's first consideration. That word covers a multitude of things. First, the Kasino built a big hall, then an absolutely smooth surface was provided, then a first class orchestra was engaged, then Kasino management stepped in and made the combination complete. Aside from the four steps mentioned, a hundred and one details presented themselves as time passed, and the Kasino management at no time forgot its patrons. Kasino's orchestra of 15 pieces furnishes the music every night and Saturday afternoon.

THE OWL THEATRE

Shouts of laughter greeted Fatty of the Keystone in the two-reel farce entitled "Fatty and the Hallucination," one of the biggest laugh-producers ever released by these clever comedians. "Toll of Villainy" is one of the best examples of up-to-date photography ever shown on a screen. The natural colors make the play much more interesting and pleasing to the eye. Others on the program are all good, while Jack Dalton's singing pleases, ending roof for comfort.

CANOBIE LAKE THEATRE

Even the cold damp weather is not keeping the crowds away from Canobie Lake park this week, for since the opening of the Homas Musical Revue at the park theatre the attraction has been too strong for anybody to withstand. The show is an exceptionally strong one and the company seems just fitted to this particular kind of an offering. The company spring a big surprise in the presentation of Betty Farrington, a pretty and petite little lady with a wonderful contralto voice, and more than a little ability in acting. Miss Farrington is new to the theatre-goers of the nearby surrounding cities and will undoubtedly prove to be one of the most popular that could have been secured. Eddie Dowling is just the same old Eddie, as popular as ever and with just a few more laughs than usual. Harry Crawford, the bonhomie comedian, gives a show of his own and his grotesque appearance alone sends the audience into roars of laughter. Walter Bergeron, Bert Monte and Al Barrow, Bob Jewett and Rocky Pondle, together with a group of chorus of pretty girls, all combine to make up a show that entertains right from the very start.

BENEFIT FOR CAR CONDUCTOR

Local Carmen Conduct Successful Affair at Lakeview

Excellent Concert in Theatre Followed by General Dancing

JOSEPH POWERS Vice President of Carmen's Union, Active Member of Committee

A very successful benefit was conducted last night at the Lakeview theatre hall and theatre for Michael Powers, the well known employee of the Bay State Street Railway Co. who recently lost one leg in a railway accident. The affair was held under the auspices of the Street Railway Employees' association and a very substantial sum was realized.

Doyle's orchestra furnished music for dancing in the hall and the spacious floor was soon to its capacity. The theatre was also well filled and all present spent a most enjoyable evening. The entertainment program was one of the best ever presented in these parts and the expeditious manner in which it was carried out reflects credit not only on the performers but those in charge. The complete program was as follows: Ed Handley's Honey Boy Minstrels in "A Night at the Club." Opening Medley Overture by Entire Company. On a Good Old Time Melancholy Ride. Let Me See Your Rainbow Smile. Good Ship Mary Ann. When I Dream of Old Erin. Andrew Doyle (assisted by Faragon Four). Dancing Around. Ed Handley. You Broke My Heart to Pass the Time Away. John Baxter. Quartet Selections. Messrs. Lindsay, Lyons, Doyle, Lind. Say. Chant of the Forge. Jackson Palmer. Valse. Joseph H. Lyons (assisted by Faragon Four). For the Bellow Sea. Guy Johnson. I Love the Ladies. George "Babe" Rogers. I Love the Whole United States. Robert W. Lindsay (assisted by Entire Company). For Galloway and His Dolls. England's Premier Ventriquist. Italian Serenaders. Confetti's String Quartet. Prof. Knight, the Marichon. In Sleight of Hand. Bachelor Girls in Minstrelsy. Interlocutor, Miss Etta Finnegan. Opening chorus. Bachelor Girls

Love Dreams. Miss Lillian McPherson. Sympathy. Miss Madeline Boland. Miss Marian Nolan. If Time Would Tell. Miss Genevieve Wynn. Hesitate. Miss Marion Nolan. In Love's Garden Just You and I. Miss Madeline Boland. I'm On My Way to Mandalay. Miss Lillian McPherson (assisted by entire company). Scotch Selections. James E. Donnelly. Solo, Selected. John Dalton. Tender solo. Edward Shea. Each number was of a pleasing nature and was warmly applauded by the large audience. Bernard Horan and Sam Wallace assisted with their singing in the dance hall and their numbers were also well received. The affair was a flattering success for the members of the association and the committee in charge which consisted of the following were warmly congratulated for their untiring efforts in bringing the benefit to such a financial success: Charles T. Flannery, chairman; Thomas Flynn, treasurer; Joseph Powers, vice president of Division 250 and Donat Primeau. Friends were present from Woburn, Wilmington, Lawrence and Nashua coming to Lowell in special cars. Messrs. Lees and Farrington, the local officials and David Bruce, superintendent of the Lawrence division also assisted by their presence. Mr. Powers, vice president of the union, said: "The affair proved a grand success, despite the inclement weather and we are grateful to all who assisted. Especially do we wish to thank the 'Bachelor' union; John P. McPherson, the printer, the A. G. Ballard Co., Harry Kitteridge, the owner of the roller coaster, the St. Patrick's File and Drum corps, the press, the officials of the road, the carmen, the stage hands' union, and all others whose generosity and co-operation made the affair possible."

REFUSED TO CARRY MAILS

SOUTH WINDSOR, CONN., CITIZENS UP IN ARMS OVER ACTION OF TROLLEY CO.

SOUTH WINDSOR, Conn., July 2.—The recent refusal of the Connecticut (trolley) Co. to continue to carry the mails has caused the citizens of this town to rise up in arms. They cannot get their mail. Today there are a number of sacks of unopened mail at the railroad depot where they have been for a day. The postmaster claims he is responsible for the delivery of the mail and as his salary is only $180 a year he feels that he cannot afford to hire help to have the sacks carried to the office, nearly a mile from the depot. He also declares that as he is engaged in other business he has not the time to make the four daily trips.

EDUCATIONAL PROBLEMS CAMBRIDGE, June 2.—Various educational problems were discussed at today's session of the American Institute of Instruction. Among the speakers on the program were C. A. Prosser, secretary of the national society for industrial education; James F. Hosick of the Chicago Normal college, and Bertha M. McConkey, assistant superintendent of schools at Springfield.

CAUSED BIG FIRE IN LYNDONVILLE, VT.—ENTIRE VILLAGE THREATENED

LYNDONVILLE, Vt., July 2.—A fire which threatened the entire business section of this village yesterday afternoon caused a loss of more than $20,000. The fire started in the wholesale storehouse of J. C. Eaton & Co. and before it was under control and burned that building, another storehouse and barn belonging to the same firm and two livery stables belonging to the Hotel Lyndon and the D. M. Silsby estate.

C. W. Thompson, who conducted the stables, estimated the loss at $500, which is covered by insurance. J. C. Eaton & Co. had the largest stock of hardware in their history and their loss on buildings and contents is more than $15,000, fully insured. At great risk the firemen rescued the horses from both stables. An explosion of powder in the storehouse shattered windows in the Lyndonville National bank and the Stern Block and caused the fire to spread to such an extent that help was called from St. Johnsbury.

MURDER OF MRS. BAILEY FINAL FIGHT ON HOME RULE BILL

Telephonic Device, With Wires From Doctor's Office to Wife's Bedroom, in Carman's House

FREDPORT, L. I., July 2.—No arrests had been made late last night of any person suspected of having shot and killed Mrs. Louise Bailey, a Hempstead matron, while she was in the office of Dr. Edwin P. Carman Tuesday night. The sheriff, the district attorney and the county detectives still are following several clues.

On information which he declared had been given him by a member of the firm that installed the instruments, Sheriff Stephen Pettit said he had discovered in the Carman home a telephonic device, the wires of which led from the doctor's office to a closet in the bedroom of his wife. According to the sheriff, Mrs. Carman admitted to him that she had had the instrument installed because she wanted to hear what went on between her husband and women patients, and that she had been much comforted by what she had overheard.

The sheriff said also that Dr. Carman, when questioned about the telephonic device, told him that his wife had admitted to him that she had had the machine put in and that she had removed the receiving end in her closet early yesterday morning and hid it in the attic.

The sheriff said that Mrs. Carman had been taken to the attic and brought the instrument to him. A revolver of small caliber was found in the physician's home yesterday.

In her talk with the sheriff yesterday Mrs. Carman told the sheriff, according to a statement made by Mr. Pettit, that she had arrived at her home about 7:30 Tuesday night. She immediately went to a room on the second floor and remained there the rest of the night. She was lying across the bed when she heard the shot fired downstairs. The sheriff added that Mrs. Carman denied ever having seen Mrs. Bailey.

Dr. Carman also was the subject of close questioning concerning the occurrence in and about the house before the mysterious hand with a revolver in it was picked through the broken window pane and a shot fired which killed Mrs. Bailey. What he told the authorities seems to have satisfied them that he had no knowledge of the person who committed the crime.

One story in circulation among the newspapers yesterday was to the effect that persons passing the physician's residence at the time of the murder saw a woman dressed in white run across the lawn immediately after the shot was fired. They believe the explanation was that of a firecracker discharged by some early celebrant of the Fourth of July.

A policeman has been stationed in front of the residence of Dr. Carman with instructions to allow no one to enter or leave the place without permission except Dr. Carman and his children. The authorities seemed inclined to the belief that whoever fired the shot intended it for the doctor rather than for his chance patient.

House of Lords Pass the Amending Bill to Second Reading

Amendments Will Be Offered in the Committee Stage

Report That Asquith Will Grant Exclusion to Ulster Not Credited

LONDON, July 2.—When the bill to amend the Irish home rule bill came up yesterday for second reading in the house of lords, the marquis of Lansdowne, the unionist leader, announced that as Ireland was one vast armed camp, it was necessary to find a way out of the calamity which was threatening.

The unionists, therefore, he said, would give the amending bill a second reading and introduce amendments during the committee stage in regard to the area to be excluded from the operations of the exclusion and the government of the excluded area.

The unionists, he concluded, would not agree to the second reading of the home rule bill itself. Lord Lansdowne added that their action in passing the second reading of the amending bill would be misunderstood and misrepresented in many quarters, but there was no other way by which breathing space could be obtained with the prospect of averting the horrors of civil war.

The amendments to be introduced in the committee stage would be directed solely to making the bill a really adequate exclusion bill. With a touch of pathos, he said: "The peers are so fast bound by the meshes of the parliament act that there is no other course open to them which would be likely to prove effective."

Most of the other speakers were equally conciliatory in tone. A notable exception was Lord Willoughby de Broke, the leader of the "Die Hard" unionists, who moved the rejection of the bill. The archbishop of York said that what the country wanted now was not the rejection of the bill, but a settlement in some form. Irish self government, he declared, was now inevitable.

The earl of Arran announced he could not vote for the second reading, because it would be a violation of the oath of the Ulster covenanters.

Lord Bryce expressed the belief that the difficulties could be surmounted. He admitted that some form of exclusion was necessary, but declared that he did not see of much importance to the time limit.

A rumor was current yesterday that 50,000 rifles had been landed on the coast of County Mayo for the national volunteers. It could not be confirmed.

LOOK FOR SETTLEMENT

LONDON, July 2.—The precise effect of the house of lords' amendment to the government's amending bill will not be known until the home rule bill reaches the committee stage next week, but favorable omens are given by the London morning newspapers from the conciliatory tone of the speeches on both sides of the house of lords yesterday for a renewal of the negotiations between the party

GAS ON THE STOMACH

Flatulence, or gas in the digestive tract is an annoying accompaniment of intestinal indigestion and constipation. As a rule it indicates that food is being retained in the stomach and intestine longer than nature intended.

When sickness pains accompany the presence of gas the need of a gentle laxative to clear away the offending food residue is imperative. If the condition of constipation is not quickly corrected a coated tongue, eruptions on the skin, headaches and backaches soon show that the poisons have found their way into the circulation.

The use of the gentle laxative pills PINKETTS, will not only banish these unpleasant symptoms quickly but, if used regularly for a reasonable time, will really correct chronic constipation.

Pinketts are not like harsh purgatives that leave the bowels dry and in the end worse than before. Pinketts gently assist nature, never gripe and are so small and easy to take that they are known as the "dainty laxative."

Your own druggist can supply you with Pinketts or they will be sent by mail postpaid by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 25c per bottle. Send for the book "The Dainty Laxative" telling how to treat constipation.

WOMAN ONCE CONVICTED OF HUSBAND'S MURDER ALLOWED AN APPEAL

NEW HAVEN, July 2.—The second trial of Mrs. Bessie Wakefield for the murder of her husband, Wm. O. Wakefield, will begin in the criminal court here July 14. This was announced yesterday.

At her previous trial Mrs. Wakefield was convicted of first degree murder and was sentenced to die on March 1 last, with James Plew, who was adjudged guilty of Wakefield's murder. Plew was executed but the supreme court granted the appeal of Mrs. Wakefield for a new trial.

ALL-DAY RAIN PROBABLE

STORM OF EASTERLY VARIETY ARRIVED LAST NIGHT—YESTERDAY WASN'T SO COLD

BOSTON, July 2.—An all-day easterly storm, during which a substantial amount of rain is expected to fall here, is the encouraging outlook for those who are planning to move to seashore and country resorts today. The rain began falling in Boston about 8 last evening and the probabilities are for a continuous precipitation for the next 24 hours. Clearing weather, with winds shifting to the southerly quarter, and somewhat higher temperature are expected by tomorrow.

POPULAR OPINION TO THE CONTRARY

There was nothing abnormally cold about yesterday and no records for July 1 were shattered. The minimum temperature here was 55 and the maximum only 67, but on several July 1's since the establishment of the local station of the weather bureau the temperature has gone lower.

SCENES OF STRIFE IN MEXICO, SHOWING HOW WAR RAGED IN CITY OF ZACATECAS

SCENES SHOWING HOW ZACATECAS WAS DEFENDED BY FEDERALS
PHOTOS © 1914 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

These pictures give a vivid idea of the battle of Zacatecas, the recent big conflict in Mexico, where the rebels won a decisive victory over the federals. The Huertista forces made a desperate stand at the forts and fortifications on the hills surrounding the city. They had prepared for months for the attack, but they were routed with heavy loss by Villa's men.

DENOUNCED BY MAYOR

BOSTON, July 2.—The motives of the committee of clergymen who conducted a meeting of protest in the First Baptist church, Cambridge, Tuesday night, when the removal of Commissioner Henry J. Cunningham was urged because of law violations in the University city, were denounced yesterday by Mayor Good of Cambridge. He declared that the movement was backed by those opposed to the present democratic administration and was organized for purposes of notoriety. He stated that he had asked Rev. Mr. Macnair for the evidence of the violation but the latter refused. "I do not intend to be scared or coerced by their threats or actions," said the mayor. "Commissioner Cunningham and myself are doing all in our power to have things right in Cambridge. It is easy enough to make charges but when we ask for the evidence Mr. Macnair and his associates do not come forward with it."

having a law passed that directed the chief of the labor bureau to publish weekly conditions of employment in the labor market in public places in Massachusetts. It is his present intention to have these two great departments of the government labor and commerce, publish weekly for general distribution the conditions of labor. A short time ago the secretary of labor said that 86,000 men were wanted in the wheat fields of the west. If this condition could be brought to the attention of those in other sections of the country where business may not be so good, who are looking for employment or some specific information concerning wages, labor conditions and such as he thinks a great deal of good may be accomplished. His efforts in this direction are meeting with success.

WHAT OF OUR CHARTER?

If the report of the grand jury on the case of the Lowell commissioners charged with exceeding their appropriations is to be considered final then the citizens of Lowell may as well conclude that it is not possible to enforce any criminal statute provided to promote good government at city hall.

The charges of violating the charter by exceeding the appropriations date back to 1912 and then applied to but one commissioner. The matter was formally brought to the attention of District Attorney Higgins who called in expert accountants from the state bureau of statistics to go all over the city accounts bearing upon the case in order to ascertain whether the evidence against this particular administrator was well founded and whether there was any truth in the charges of similar violation which this administrator made against some of his colleagues.

The grand jury in its report admits that there is evidence that certain aldermen exceeded the appropriations made for their respective departments. This evidence alone under the provision of the charter should convict unless there was some extraordinary reason involving the health of the city or the prevention of some calamity. It is well known that there was no such reason for exceeding appropriations in any department, and equally plain that the charter was violated in pursuance of an old custom that has been piling up debt against the city for nearly a score of years and against which the citizens seem to be entirely helpless.

It was to remedy this evil that the provision in question was inserted in the new charter with a penalty of a heavy fine or imprisonment attached. But now according to the report of the grand jury this clause of the charter cannot be enforced for if, as the grand jury alleges, there would be no probability of a conviction in this case there never would be a conviction in any similar case for the reason that no more conclusive evidence is ever likely to be secured.

It appears that the grand jury has practically assumed the responsibility of nullifying an important provision of our charter. What redress have the citizens of Lowell? Of what use is a charter framed to enforce good government if it is to be set aside in this manner?

What are the people of Lowell to do in such a case? Will they have to let this provision of the new charter remain as a dead letter or go to the legislature to have it modified and made mild enough to suit the gentlemen of the grand jury so that there will be nothing to bring about any long trial at considerable expense to the county or to threaten any guilty official with a severe penalty for malfeasance in office?

In spite of the finding of the grand jury and the failure of two district attorneys to enforce this law we still believe that the law is right and that those who violate it should be punished in accordance therewith.

But judging from what has just happened it appears that with the present grand jury and county officials in office, our aldermen can go on exceeding their appropriations ad libitum. This is certainly a unique state of affairs.

It would appear to be necessary to change our charter so that it may be enforced without appealing to the grand jury or the county officials. This might be done by a provision that each commissioner furnish a bond as a guarantee that he will live up to the charter or else forfeit a certain amount proportionate to the gravity of his offence.

THE THRIFT MOVEMENT

The present time is certainly a prolific time for all manner of uplift societies, industrial agitations and similar movements, and the list grows larger daily. Nevertheless, there is good in most of them and there is work in abundance for those who promote their peculiar propaganda. One such society which, though organized but eight months or so, has been extremely successful in arousing general interest is the American Society for Thrift, which aims at educating the masses to the advantage of economy and wise management in the everyday things of life. If, as has been frequently charged, the high cost of modern living may be attributed for the most part to popular extravagance, thrift would lessen the burden materially and any influence which would teach thrift habits to the public would be immensely beneficial.

The American Society for Thrift was organized in October, 1913. Shortly after its organization its officers wisely saw that it would be extremely difficult to change the habits of the masses so the energies of the body were directed towards the educating of the young in the principles of prudent living and systematic saving. One of its first activities was the agitating of small vegetable gardens near the home, and later on it was deemed expedient to teach thrift scientifically in the higher schools and colleges. It was discovered on investigation that the tendency of school and college graduates was for more towards wild speculation than towards habits of thrift. So far as the teaching of anything positive on this score is concerned, the official report of the society recently declared that "there is no definite fruit education in the courses of secondary and vocational training, domestic science and other similar subjects are being added rapidly."

Due to the influence of the thrift movement banks, loan societies, co-operative organizations, building associations and other financial and industrial bodies now strive to inculcate thrift habits among the people, not only in an unselfish spirit but in recognition of its business significance. Thrift and extravagance are usually due to habit, formed early in life, and there is a great field for the cultivation of the more desirable habit among the young. The school savings banks of this city are an indication of the spirit that should be cultivated by all parents and teachers.

OUR UNEMPLOYED

Although it is very doubtful that the degree of unemployment at any time for the past three or four months was so great as was represented in some quarters, the reports of the state bureau of statistics shows that Lowell was particularly fortunate as compared with some sections of New England, especially the other textile centres. The quarterly report on unemployment among organized wage earners, as summarized by this bureau for the quarter ending in March, showed that but four out of the cities of Massachusetts that reported had lower percentages than Lowell. Gloucester had the highest percentage of unemployment, due in part to the unemployment of fish workers and in part to a strike among the sailmakers. Gloucester's percentage was reported as 21.6 per cent, and New Bedford comes a close second with 20 per cent. Lowell's unemployment was but half that of New Bedford or 10.4 per cent, and it is apparent that this has practically been entirely remedied during the past few months. The cities showing the least amount of unemployment for the period above-mentioned were, in their respective order: Quincy, which reported 3.6, Fitchburg with 4.9, and Lynn with 5.2.

Notwithstanding the high percentage of New Bedford, the report in summing up the returns said specifically: "There appeared to be no considerable amount of unemployment among the organized wage earners in the textile industry in any of the several textile centres." In other words, the temporary depression was not due so much to a general condition as to some local or sectional obstruction, and the same seems to hold true concerning all lines of industry. Lowell now embraces a very diversified list of industries, and conditions here are a fair indication of conditions generally throughout the country. The boot and shoe industry compares well with other seasons, iron and steel are booming and there is every indication of good business ahead.

RIVER NAVIGATION

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Lawrence chamber of commerce, it was voted to adopt the recommendation of the new secretary, Mr. Sherman, who had suggested that Merrimack river improvement be made the chief of the three main activities of the chamber for the coming year. The other two interests are the education and enlargement of the chamber's membership and the "expansion of a varied number of industries." The Merrimack river project is now in its crucial stage as the future depends on the co-operation of the federal government and it is all important that all the cities and smaller communities along the bank of the river should get together and resolve to do what Lawrence intends to do. Only by united effort and tireless support will the national government be moved to act promptly and the importance of the proposition urges all who are interested in this section to leave nothing undone which would ensure its success. Navigation of the Merrimack is by far the most important industrial scheme affecting the Merrimack valley at the present time, and it should not wait for the fullest measure of intelligent popular support. In other parts of the country the citizens have secured similar favors from the national government by enthusiastic effort, though it would be difficult to name any recent government activity of a like nature in which the possibilities are greater.

THE BLACKLIST CONDEMNED

The recent ruling of the United States supreme court declaring that blacklisting by an association of business men is contrary to law emphasizes another aspect of pernicious activity in business that is more general

than many are ready to acknowledge. The verdict arose out of a case against an association of lumber dealers. From the evidence given it was evident that wholesale and retail dealers had an apparently legal agreement as to their business methods. When any of the merchants broke the agreement a notice of it was sent to all the others, without comment. Quite naturally this notice created a prejudice against the merchant most directly concerned, and in the ways of human nature he suffered in his business relationship as a result. The decision is also expected to have a bearing on the custom of some labor unions in describing certain employers as "unfair" in official circulars.

KEEP STREETS CLEAN

In spite of all that has been said officially and unofficially in this city, a great lack of respect for cleanliness and civic tidiness is apparent among too many of our citizens. In the centre of the city where one might expect order and neatness, papers and other refuse are thrown around indiscriminately, and some stores are not any too particular when unpacking cases to see that the waste is put away carefully. Undoubtedly the condition is due in part to the persistent negligence of the municipal authorities to make provision for what must be discarded and it is certain that the addition of a few more artistic waste receivers to our municipal equipment would have a salutary influence on the public. Clean up campaigns lose half their value if their lesson is neglected for fifty-one weeks of the year.

TAG DAY

The plan to sell tags here indiscriminately tomorrow for the relief of the Salem sufferers is an excellent one and there is no doubt that it will be well patronized by our people. Many who cannot afford to give large sums would like to help in a lesser degree, and this would give them the opportunity they desire. If anything could intensify the first appeal of the stricken region it is the heavy rain of the past few days which must bring gloom indeed to the thousands who look out from under the roofs of charity and see it washing the blackened ruins of what once was home. Now for earnest volunteers to sell tags. Lowell will make a generous response.

In strange contrast with the fire-eating manifestos of some months ago were the speeches made in the shorn house of lords this week. Instead of declarations of independence and undying hatred to Irish nationality there was a very evident desire to accept the few crumbs of comfort contained in the bill for the temporary exclusion of Ulster. When Carson's army drilled in the presence of an inoffensive majority, 'twas much easier to bluster than now when the splendid body of Irish volunteers stand ready on the opposite side determined to prevent their country from being again thrown down from the pinnacle of hope. Parliamentary agitation and superb leadership, backed by a strong army, have always been good for Ireland.

Roosevelt is made happy by the report that in six weeks his voice will be all right. The country congratulates him, though a great many good people secretly wish that the doctor had imposed two or three years' silence as the price of ultimate cure. Let us hope, however, that as the voice improves, the quality of his recent speeches will improve also.

MANY DESERTED FELINES

I see by the annual report of the Animal Rescue League, which has just appeared, that the stretch of beach between Hull and Nantasket, on the south shore, has the worst record of the report as far as deserted cats and kittens are concerned. Sixty-five of these stray felines were found there during October, November and December out of 150 found altogether at all the beaches, which does not speak very well for the humanity of summer cottagers on the Hull peninsula. The league will take unwanted animals to its receiving station at Carver street to find good homes for them or dispose of them painlessly, if they are notified in time to send their agents.

VERY COLD LAW

Winter v. Winter, 145 Northwestern Reporter, 709, is a case in which it is determined whether the husband, by remarrying, may obtain exemption from the liability which he incurred by reason of a former marriage. A decree of divorce had been obtained against the appellee, and later the payment of alimony was decreed. Execution on the judgment was returned unsatisfied, and a garnishee summons was thereupon issued. The garnishee was duly served, and the defendant Leonard Winter set up that he was again married, was living with his wife, and was the head of a family; that he had no other land, town lots, nor a house subject to execution as a homestead; that he and his wife were boarding, and that they had no household furniture or other property except wearing apparel. The district court discharged the garnishee, and plaintiff appealed. The supreme court of Nebraska held that the husband could not defeat the collection of alimony by remarrying and claiming the benefit of the exemption law. The court said that the law ought not to permit him to construct a shield that will protect him in his marital and domestic recklessness. By getting married again he ought not to be permitted to relieve himself from the burden of support. "The duties assumed under it should be conscientiously discharged. Courts of equity will compel the enforcement of marriage obligations, and no mere rule of law sought to be interpreted to him will permit the derelict husband to escape the burden of supporting his wife and children." The court held that the object of the statute relating to exemptions was the protection of the family and not the protection of the husband. "It could never have been designed to allow a man to escape his obligations to his family. Why, then, should it not protect the family against him as well as protect it against a creditor?"

THE ASSASSINS
The unpleasant reflection that most occur to every one is that these persons who are just crazy enough to commit murder, but not for anything else, seem to be increasing in number. Assassinations are growing more frequent and the spread of democracy is not preventing them; it is encouraging them, or at least affording increased opportunities.—Newport News.

ANOTHER TRIBUTE
We like everything in the souvenir edition of the Lowell (Mass.) Sun, issued May 6, 1914. There are 45 pages of attractive display, in addition to much interesting text matter, and of course the greater portion of the work was produced on linotypes. The Sun always was a fine looking paper, typographically, but this souvenir edition, in our opinion, surpasses any previous number.—Linotype Bulletin, N. Y.

A DRUNKEN STUDY
There are various stages, such as "quarter drunk," "half drunk," and "real drunk." There are the stages of being "drunk," "foxy," "tipsy," and on a "high longhorn," and it is about as difficult to determine when a young lady gets to be an old maid as it is to tell when a man has taken enough alcohol to stimulate to pass the line between a "jolly" and a "gentlemanly drunk."—Meriden (Conn.) Journal.

OUR EDUCATION
That education in our schools has gradually become ineffective almost to the point of failure, has for some time been admitted, however reluctantly, by many of our foremost educators—if in the face of such circumstances the term can be honestly applied. And that the sex problem in one form, at least, enters generally into the conditions that have brought about this state of affairs, has been conceded.—Haverhill Herald.

SALEM FIRE
There is no "disguised blessing" in the loss at South Salem, which ought to have been immune from a fire which started a mile away and had to leap the wide space made by the railroad tracks southeast of the tunnel. The permanent blessing that will come to Salem will be a high pressure water service and plenty of motor fire apparatus. Meanwhile the immediate blessing is the generous horn of plenty pouring its wealth of sympathy and cash from the whole city into the laps of the stricken people.—Lynn Item.

HARVEST PROSPECTS
There is every present indication that the sun and the clouds and all the elements that make for beautiful harvests are working this year for the prosperity of the North American continent. Grain prospects are of an unusually favorable character, and in the United States the outlook warrants the belief that the yield will be between 3,000,000,000 and 4,000,000,000 bushels. In Canada, also, the estimated surplus for export is high. That the yield in other main sources of world supply been equally exceptional, it might easily have resulted in a glut of the wheat market; but the crops of Argentina and India, two of the largest early contributors, have fallen below expectations, and the slight increase in the Australian crop will not go far toward making up the deficiency. If, therefore, the promise of abundant crops in North America comes to fruition, and the European harvest, as is likely, fall considerably below those of last year, the demand will be on an extensive scale—and prices will probably rise as high, at least, as usual.—Manchester Leader.

Four Witnesses Say He
Was Not the Man
Seen in Clute's Auto

MALCOLM GIFFORD, JR.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 2.—Four witnesses swore yesterday that Malcolm Gifford, Jr., on trial here charged with murdering Frank J. Clute, was not the passenger that Clute carried in his automobile the night he was slain. A fifth witness was somewhat uncertain, but was strongly of the opinion that the man he saw in the car was not Gifford. Their testimony opened the defence's case.

Not Man in Auto

The star witness for the defence was Samuel D. Gibson of Troy. He told of seeing Clute on the night of the slaying cranking his car at the spot where his body was found the next morning. The witness also declared that he saw Clute's passenger leave the car.

"Would you know that man if you saw him again?" Mr. Jerome asked. "I would," Gibson responded.

"Malcolm, stand up," continued Jerome. The courtroom became quiet. The young defendant rose slowly, adjusted his cravat, shook out the creases in his trousers and looked straight at the witness.

"Is that the man?" queried Jerome.

"It is not; the passenger was an older man," Gibson replied.

Six other witnesses testified the prisoner's reputation was "very good." They included Joseph H. Sawyer and Charles A. Bufum, two of Gifford's former instructors at the school headquartered in Easthampton, Mass.

"The close of the state's case yesterday was marked by testimony intended to show that Gifford pawned an automatic revolver similar to the one that killed Clute.

It was thought last night the defense would be able to close its case tomorrow.

It has been our aim for the past decade to make a toilet soap that would be a universal article, that would appeal to and satisfy all requirements.

To that end we have devoted all our energy and ability to embody this idea into Sweetheart. We have used all the known aids to skin health, Glycerine, Cold Cream, Benzoin and Vegetable Oils, in the proper combination or formula to make a perfect toilet soap.

We have so far succeeded that now Sweetheart Toilet Soap is in daily use in more homes than any other toilet soap.

that a revolver similar to the one with which Frank J. Clute was killed, was pawned by Malcolm Gifford, Jr., in Northampton, Mass., last winter. The pawned revolver was offered in evidence.

Warren T. Risley, a pawnbroker of Northampton, testified that he had loaned $7 on a revolver some time last winter and that he issued a ticket to a person who signed it "M. Gifford." He was not asked if Malcolm Gifford, Jr., was the one who signed the ticket.

William J. Kinsler, a New York handwriting expert, then testified that the person who signed the pawn ticket for the revolver and the one whose signature appeared on a check and a baggage receipt signed by Gifford were identical.

On the first day of April, 1913, somewhere between 9 and 10 o'clock, five shots in rapid succession were heard on the high road not 20 minutes' walk out of Albany. Soon after the motorman of a passing electric notified an automobile, vacant, but with lights burning, standing on the road. Early the next morning the car was still there and passing citizens noticed blood stains on the seat and in the discolored dust beneath.

A trail of blood led them into the bushes, where a dead body, later identified as that of the chauffeur, Frank J. Clute, lay concealed in the bushes. The next morning the car was still there and passing citizens noticed blood stains on the seat and in the discolored dust beneath.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Judging from the number of applications received by the reserve bank organization committee for the establishment of foreign branches the committee believe many of the largest banks in leading commercial centers of the United States expect to invade the foreign field.

Latin America seems to be the section specially favored by American bankers. The demand of American manufacturers and jobbers for American banks in the big trade centers of the southern republics has been insistent and enterprising bankers are preparing to meet the demand.

AMERICAN TROOPS ALONG TEXAS BORDER THINK INTERVENTION IS SURE, AS REFUGEES ARRIVE

EL PASO, July 2.—United States soldiers stationed along the border here as well as Americans who are crossing the border from Mexico into Texas for safety believe that intervention is now absolutely sure. FUNERAL OF MURDERED ARCHDUKE AND WIFE

An Imposing Demonstration Accompanied Landing of Bodies at Trieste, Austria—City Draped in Black—Military Honors

TRIESTE, Austria, July 2.—An imposing demonstration today accompanied the landing here from Austrian battleship Viribus Unitis of the bodies of the assassinated Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his consort, the Duchess of Hohenberg. The entire community thronged the shore or took up positions on board craft in the harbor at an early hour.

At San Carlo square a large space had been kept clear for the two catafalques which were draped in gold and black. On the left stood the generals, admirals and other officials of the army and navy, with the commander of the Austro-Hungarian navy, Rear-Admiral Oskar Hanza, at their head. On the right were the governor of the maritime provinces, Prince Hohenlohe-Schillingensfeld and many other state and municipal officers in brilliant uniforms. An enormous gathering of members of various societies and delegations were present. From the square the bodies were taken to the railroad station; the hearse being drawn by six black horses.

Longest Procession Ever Seen
Seven coaches filled with wreaths headed the procession, which was the longest ever seen in this city. Behind the hearse marched the members of the Households of the Archduke and Duchess, the provincial governor and a long procession of naval and military officers, civil officials and delegations of all kinds, with two companies of soldiers in the rear.

On its way to the southern railway station, whence the bodies were to be conveyed to Vienna, the procession passed between dense masses of people. All the men stood with uncovered heads and most of the women wore mourning. Lines of infantry and blue-jackets aided by municipal guards and firemen were drawn up along the whole route.

All Buildings Draped
The buildings were mostly draped with black and all the business houses were closed. The coffins reached the railway station at 9.30 a. m. and military honors were there rendered by a detachment of a composite regiment of Bosnian and Herzegovinian.

Navy petty officers placed the coffins on a railway car which had been arranged as a mortuary chapel. Bishop Trypion Pedersoli then uttered a blessing and the doors of the cars were sealed, and the train departed for Vienna, where it is expected to arrive at 10 o'clock this evening.

The solemn ceremony of blessing the bodies of the murdered archduke and duchess is to be performed at four o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the parish church of the Hofburg in the presence of Emperor Francis Joseph, the members of the imperial family, Prince Henry of Prussia and other royal personages.

The children of the dead archduke and duchess are to arrive in Vienna on Saturday.

The 10th anniversary of the G. A. R. circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., observed yesterday afternoon and evening in Gardner Parker hall, Billerica, with an appropriate program and musical numbers by local and out-of-town talent. The affair was a decided success and much credit is due those in charge for the excellency of the different numbers.

During the afternoon there was speaking on the work of the circle by Mrs. Brown of California, the national department president; Mrs. Brooks of Maine, Maine state department president; Mrs. Sarah Murphy of Billerica, the organizer of the local circle; Mrs. Brewster, president; Dr. Charles Foster and Marcus Cowdry, both of Billerica.

From 6 until 7 o'clock in the evening a reception was held with excellent music furnished by the Middlesex County Training school band after which recitations and songs were given in a pleasing manner. Mrs. Black of Bedford was the pianist.

LAUDS VERA CRUZ HEROES

SECRETARY DANIELS MENTIONS BAY STATE MEN FOR HEROISM IN TWO DAYS' FIGHTING

BOSTON, July 2.—Major General George Barnett, commandant of the U. S. Marine corps, announced to the service yesterday that Secretary Daniels of the navy has just written special letters of commendation to the officers and enlisted men who were distinguished for gallantry during the two days' fighting of Vera Cruz last April.

Among those mentioned by Major Barnett as having received letters of commendation is Capt. Walter N. Hill, a Massachusetts man, who led to the front a detachment of marines from the Charlestown navy yard. Major Barnett reports that Captain Hill is commended by the secretary for "eminent and conspicuous conduct in both days' fighting."

Captain Hill is yet in Mexico, where he is watching the settlement records. His father, Edwin Hill, is a lawyer practicing in Boston and living in Jamaica Plain.

The same order commands eight marines for their heroic rescue, under heavy fire, of Corporal Daniel A. Hager, of the Electric Light company. The world is already familiar with Hager's homecoming—triumphant though in death. Hager is a resident of Quincy, Mass., and is still in Mexico.

Private Rufus L. Percy, a Vermont boy, also in the fighting, was rescued by his companion, Private Lee Mahr, Secretary Daniels commends Private Mahr for "conspicuous courage, coolness and skill."

Young Man Arrested in Lawrence While Disposing of Stable Horse Hired in This City

Francis X. Archambault was arraigned before Judge Enright in the local police court today charged with the larceny of a horse valued at $75, a carriage value at $25 and a harness valued at $15, all the property of Frank Dimodana, who conducts a stable in Merrimack street. The defendant pleaded not guilty and was held in the sum of $200 for his appearance tomorrow morning.

Archambault, who claims Montreal as his home city, has been in Lowell for several weeks selling furniture, polish, etc. Yesterday afternoon he went to Mr. Dimodana's stable and asked to hire a horse and buggy for about a half-hour. He was given a horse and ton buggy and a few hours later the local police received a telephone from Lawrence reporting that Officer Marshall of that city had arrested a young man while attempting to dispose of a horse and buggy for $50. The defendant at first claimed that he had bought the horse but when questioned by the police of the down-river city he admitted that the turnout was owned by a Lowell stable man. Dimodana was located and told that he was just beginning to get anxious about his team. Lieut. Maher was sent to Lawrence and he brought the man and vehicle to this city.

When asked to plead in court today Archambault said that he took the team but did not steal it and the case was continued till tomorrow for further investigation.

Prosecution Rested Its Case Against Malcolm Gifford, Jr.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 1.—The prosecution rested its case against Malcolm Gifford, Jr., charged with slaying Frank J. Ciole, shortly after noon to-day. Court then adjourned for the luncheon recess.

William Travers Jerome, Gifford's chief counsel, announced his intention of making the usual motions to take the case from the jury on the ground of lack of proof. He also said he would formally attack the jurisdiction of families in connection with the prisoner's arrest. In the event of the denial of all these motions Mr. Jerome was prepared to outline the defense and place his first witnesses on the stand.

DEE IS A GOOD BALL PLAYER

"Shorty" Boots Them
Once in Awhile but Who Doesn't?

The Lynn Boy a Factor in Lowell's Victories
This Season

"Shorty" Dee, the Lynn boy playing shortstop for the Lowell club, is a sterling infielder as has been demonstrated on more occasions than one. Just to show that this statement is impartial and that the writer is not doing press agent duty for "Shorty" we'll size up the Lowell shortstop.

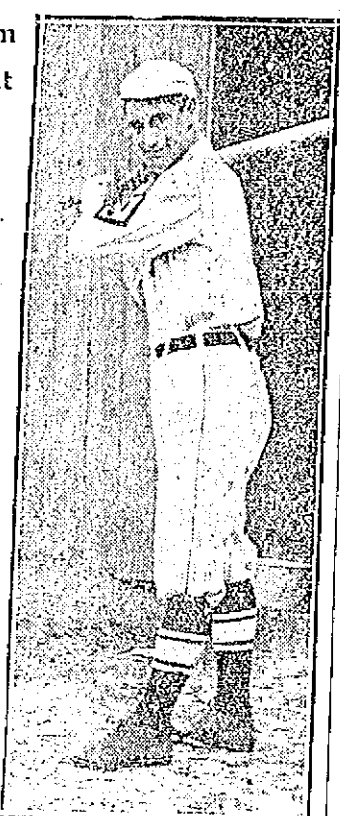

To begin with, Dee is a pretty shrewd ball player. He knows the game from all angles and takes advantage of every slip that the opposing team makes.

"Shorty" is a good fielder, although, of course, he boots them once in a while the same as all the rest of them. And sometimes his boots come in the wrong time when runs are the result. However, there isn't a ball player in any league who doesn't commit errors occasionally. It is very seldom that the Lynn boy pulls a bonhead play on the defensive.

At the bat he is an excellent lead-off man. He looks them over well and plays his pitcher. If the opposing pitcher is wild "Shorty" makes him more nervous by his tactics at the plate. He has drawn many passes this season just through playing the pitcher.

Now that we've named his good points we'll take a look at his weak ones. "Shorty" is too much of an individual player on the paths. Once in a while he takes a nap and gets caught flat-footed off a station and he has tried to steal a base on some occasions when it was inadvisable.

Then again Dee takes too much upon himself in the field oftentimes. Although it is always better policy to have too many players after a ball than not any yet a player who keeps running out of his position is certain to split a patent some day, and demoralize his fellow infielders.

But after everything is said and done "Shorty" Dee is a mighty good ball player and a big factor in the success of the Lowell club. His weak points are far outnumbered by his ability on the ball field and Manager Gray is fortunate in having the boy from Lynn in his infield.

"BIG THREE" WHO ARE MEN BEHIND THE CUP CHALLENGER SHAMROCK IV

This picture was snapped on board Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht the Erin previous to a recent trial of the new Shamrock IV. Sir Thomas, the owner, is on the left, next comes Charles Nicholson, the designer, and on the right is W. P. Burton, England's most famous amateur skipper, who will handle the boat in the cup races. They are all very much pleased with the showing made by the challenger in her trials against the Shamrock III and predict a victory over the American defender.

CLOUDS OF GRASSHOPPERS

Derivative Section About Saratoga, N. Y., Where Winged Plagues Are Swept Up By the Quirt

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 2.—Great clouds of grasshoppers were blown into this village yesterday from nearby rural towns where they have been devastating the farms for several weeks.

Many crops have been entirely ruined, particularly in the town of Wilton, where all means of fighting the plague have proved unavailing. Shopkeepers swept up the grasshoppers yesterday in quart pails.

10 INNING GAME

Haverhill Scores 6-5
Victory Over the Local Team

Three lonely hits were all that Lowell could collect off Southern yesterday afternoon at Dan Clooney's sand lot down in Haverhill and although Daniel's boys helped the local team out remarkably by four large, juicy errors, Lowell was beaten out in the tenth inning by the score of 6-5.

Yelle pounded the pill over the right field fence in the tenth session, thereby breaking up the contest. Smith, the Haverhill first sacker, banged out two home runs. Weaver, Dukette and Dee were the only local players to hit safely. The score:

BUNTING CLUB

To Hold Another Track Meet—Bunting Track Team Practicing

The Bunting club expects to hold one of the nicest track meets held in Lowell this year on July 26th, this being their second attempt in that direction. Although Duffy has been declared a professional by the Canadian amateur authorities and cannot therefore run here, the Bunting club will try to get together a fine lot of runners nevertheless. Madden, Keronen, and Hennigan are among those who have been written to.

The races will all be amateur and sanctioned by the N. E. A. A. U. They will also be handicap affairs. Besides the modified marathon the following events will be run: Pole vault, broad jump, one mile run, 550 yards race, 440 yards race, 220 yards race, and 100 yards race. Entry blanks can be procured at 25 Wood street, from George Emley, the secretary. A fine concert will be given during the afternoon by a big band.

The Bunting club track team now has quite a few men who practice most every night on the track. The club has decided to give the track team, anybody who wants to join the track team can apply to Alfred Armstrong, who is on the grounds any evening.

ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

In spite of the rain here today the Lowell club went to Fitchburg. Word was received by telephone that indications denoted fair weather and that the rain had held up in that town. The players took the noon train with very poor grace for they all thought the weather man had given them a day of rest.

Fifteen errors were made in the four games played by the National leagues yesterday. The two games were played in the New England league and 17 misplays were the result. The three games played off in the Colonial league contained 25 muffs and wild pitches.

Elmer Collins, the Lynn pace follower, who was injured at the Revere track Tuesday, is not so badly hurt as at first thought. His skull is not fractured and although it will be some time before he once more mounts a bicycle, the physicians say he will recover.

The track and field games which are to be held at the Sacred Heart picnic on the afternoon of the Fourth are attracting a great deal of attention from local athletes. The various events promise to be closely contested.

The Giants are well in the lead in the National league. McGraw's team is 41-2 games ahead of the Cubs. In the American league race the Athletics have only a 2-1-2 game lead on the Detroit Tigers while Indianapolis reigns supreme among the outlaws by the narrow margin of a half game over Chicago. Burckett's boys are leading Lawrence by 11-2 games. Lowell is six full games behind Worcester.

The only member of the Union Boat club of Boston to qualify in the world famous Henley-on-the-Tames rowing regatta yesterday in the single sculls was Dr. Ayer, who sprang a surprise on the dopsters. The Henley regatta has been an annual event in England's athletic history since 1833.

Francis Outmet, the Brookline golfer who returned home yesterday after his shot at the English golf championships, offered no bid for his fallure. If more athletes would follow the example of Outmet and say nothing, win, lose or draw, it would look much better for themselves as well as for the particular branch of sports they are entered in.

Arthur Duffy and Pieper Donovan will furnish the feature event at the outing of the old time athletes to be held at Holliston a week from Sunday. Duffy and Donovan will speed it up for 50 yards. Both of these old time sprinters has covered the century in 33-5 seconds.

Phiney Boyle meets K. O. Eggers tonight in the main bout at the University A. C. of Cambridge. The local boxer is in good shape and expects to return with at least a draw. Eggers is a tough nut to crack, however. The New Yorker is the same featherweight who was held for manslaughter last winter down in New Orleans when his opponent died shortly after their battle. Eggers was later released, the court holding him blameless.

Dukette worked very smoothly at second yesterday and got one of the three hits. The ex-collegian looks like a ball player. He handles himself well in the field and takes a healthy swing at the bat. If he should happen to get hitting before the return of Captain Burke the second bag job would be all up in the air.

Worcester's double defeat at the hands of Lawrence yesterday must have sent Jess Burckett into spasms. With Lawrence already creeping close to his shoulder yesterday's games meant a lot to both clubs. Harry Aubrey was one of the big factors in piling up the Lawrence runs.

Gardner Brooks is beginning to be well known outside of New England. He has been offered a bout with Jabez White by an Albany promoter and a Butte, Montana club is also after his services. Hector McInnis is still arranging his matches.

TIGHT SKIRTS DOOMED THE OBLATE FATHERS

WILL SOON BECOME A THING OF THE PAST, SAYS MRS. TAYLOR

CHICAGO, July 2.—Tight fitting skirts will soon become a thing of the past, according to Mrs. Hobart Chatfield-Chatfield Taylor, who arrived in Chicago yesterday after a six months' trip abroad, and in one breath discussed styles, while in the next told of exciting experiences at the hands of custom officials, who tore bird of paradise feathers from her hat only to return them with apologies the next day.

"Possibly you can tell what are to be the coming styles in woman's dress?" Mrs. Taylor was asked.

"We get the styles here just as soon as they do abroad," she answered, "but one thing is certain, the tight skirt is doomed. All the skirts now being made abroad are full; plaits, too, are being much worn."

"I really don't know," she replied. "I have not seen any indication of that. One sees little hats everywhere."

And the Mrs. Taylor launched into the narration of the attack on her hat by a woman customs official. "She simply tore the feathers from my hat as if I was trying to escape a customs officer," she said. "She put them out all right, but I protested to Mr. Taylor and he said that he thought that since the feathers had been bought in Chicago they could be brought back into this country."

"The women said they couldn't, and that if I did not want to lose them the only thing for me to do was to send them to some friend who lived abroad. I was willing to do that without any further fuss, but Mr. Taylor said he knew he was right and got into communication with some officials in Washington."

"The next day we went back to the custom house and they said they had found a new ruling; that they were wrong about the matter, and added they were sorry for what had occurred. Then they returned the feathers to us."

Mrs. Taylor left Chicago January 16, and has passed most of her time in Paris, Egypt and Italy.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

Twenty-five years ago, Fourth of July the rain came down and the fireworks display was postponed. The other attractions were pulled off successfully and although blessed with a $3000 appropriation for the observance of the day the committee in order to give a real show ran patriotically into the hole for about $500 which was subsequently made good from the city treasury. It was a grand celebration and somewhat briefly I'll relate it to you as told by the old Sun:

The Sun opens up its account of the celebration with the following:

"They came from all quarters. My sons and my daughters. Responding to Liberty's call. They're all my relations. Though born of all nations. Today they're Americans all."

Continuing its introductory report the Sun says:

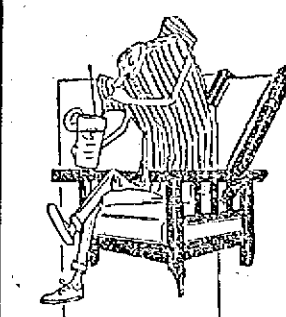

"Waves of 'soup' dashed over this town, Wednesday night and Thursday. The majority of our citizens successfully floated on the top of the waves but there were hundreds that went down. The celebration of the Fourth of July with an enthusiasm that landed some of them in the lock up. Our country cousins who came to town couldn't swim worth a cent on the waves and they saw the elephant or dozens of them through the bottoms of amber-hued bottles. It was a pretty good sort of a Fourth, nevertheless, and the people enjoyed the parade, the ball game, the oration, the reading of the Declaration of Independence, the regatta, the balloon, and the band concert in all the city parks. Some terrible accidents punctuated the celebration but they were not as numerous as in some other years."

"The celebration started Wednesday night, at its old starting place, post-office square (now Merrimack square) and the whole town kept it up until Thursday night. Through the long hours of Wednesday night the fish-horn brigades whooped things up in great style and all kinds of explosives drove the sleep god into the outskirts and kept him there until the bands of patriots had fired themselves out. No attempt was made by the police to check the noise; they might as well have tried to check Niagara."

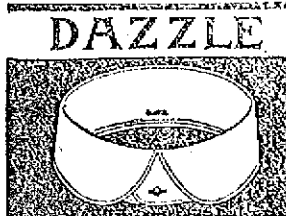

In Merrimack Square

As the old Sun remarked the fun used to start in post office square, so-called because the postoffice was there located in the Hildreth building where Mitchell, the Tailor, now measures them up and so it continued for years. Killpatrick Brothers sold fireworks in the old Sun building and McDonald Brothers sold them across the street, and both kept open all night. As a result there was something doing every minute in the square, and woe-betide the rollicking parties who had the misfortune to pass through the square in carriages or wagons. One night before the Fourth, almost 25 years ago some of the members of a down town club secured a heavy barrel and placing a lot of dynamite crackers under it let them go when the police weren't looking. One portion of the barrel landed on the roof of the Howe building; another found a resting place on the roof of the Grosvenor building, then the Wellman block, while all the top windows in all of the buildings in the square were shattered to smithereens, and the explosion was voted complete success. "Joe" Blackford, the eccentric pig, was janitor of the old Sun building in the old days. Joe was famous in those days, and on the "night before" Joe annually paid the penalty of fame. Talk about the life of a dog, the meanest mongrel that ever slaked for a bone had it all over poor Joe on the night before Fourth. The only reason that Joe stood around and endured it all was the fact that if the Sun building burned down he'd lose his job. One "night before," Joe determined to get rid of his tormentors at any cost, and late that afternoon when the working force had left and Manager Reddy was safely out of the way, Joe labored for a couple of hours, carrying huge logs of John Harington's coal up onto the roof. When darkness came and the crowd began to shoot torpedoes and firecrackers up at Joe's window, the latter stealthily climbed up to the roof and started pegging down huge lumps of coal as fast as his two hands would let them go, and regardless of where or on whom they landed. The first man hit was a special cop who received half a ton of coal or thereabouts, right on top of his "bean." With a roar, he dashed up into the Sun building followed by a mob, while a chorus of "Cheese it, Joe," from the crowd below warned the poet that something was about to happen. Joe arrayed in a worried look and a night shirt, with hands and night shirt besmeared with coal, was just descending the stairs from the roof when the special grabbed him and then followed a joint debate that put Henry Cabot Lodge's oration into the background, for real eloquence. The cop finally permitted Joe to go in peace to his room, and quiet had just been restored when, as Joe entered the room, some one slid a cannon cracker in through the open door. It was off with a bounding shout and out came Joe, with the tails of his night shirt spread like the wings of an aeroplane, and he never stopped going until he reached the sidewalk, where another special cop quickly grabbed him on a charge of indecent exposure, while a fusillade of torpedoes at his bare feet compelled him to do a tango as he explained the situation to the special.

A Moving Picture Scrap

In the old days a party of young men from the Aero district annually celebrated the "night before" by going about town armed with sling-shots from which some of them could shoot torpedoes with the accuracy of a rifle. The real first class marksman of the bunch was the late Danny Smith, once a well known shoemaker in Suffolk street, and all artistic shots were reserved for Danny's accurate aim. Did you ever get hit with a torpedo shot from a sling-shot? Did you ever pick up a live wire? It's the same thing, only you recover from the effects of the torpedo. One "night before," almost a quarter of a century ago while Danny and the bunch were loitering around the corner of Merrimack and Central streets awaiting a good shot, along came "Rete" Stevens of Centralville with his famous buckboard loaded with a merry crowd of rollickers, also well loaded, who were making the welkin ring and were throwing fire-crackers at the bystanders as they passed. "Rete's" buckboard had about ten seats and held three on a seat and "Rete" held the reins over four or six horses. I forget the exact number, and they dashed into the square on the gallop with "Rete" who had a voice like a steam calliope urging them along. As the buckboard passed the sling-shot bunch, one of the crowd hurled a huge cannon cracker into their midst with some merry remarks as the cracker exploded. "Sack 'Rete," cried the sling-shot bunch to Danny Smith, and the latter elevating his little weapon which contained a fine, healthy torpedo, let go. Bang! the torpedo caught "Rete" behind the ear and exploded. With a yell that resembled the Collinsville siren whistle of today, "Rete" dropped the reins and turning eluded the man sitting behind him squarely in the face. The man struck, swaying on his nearest neighbor and ho in turn on the man next to him. In an instant the horses freed from the restraint of the reins increased their speed and galloped madly through the square, while every man on the buckboard was swinging at the man nearest to him with "Rete" being blown with one hand and trying to recover the reins with the other. The horses didn't stop until they got into Belvidere, while those who had a chance jumped from the buckboard and the others fought it out until the arrival of the police put an end to the wild ride of the midnight crew. It was certainly some shot.

The Big Parade

One of the great features of the Fourth of July celebration of a quarter of a century ago was the morning parade with participants from out-of-town. The old Sun's account of the parade, was in part, as follows:

"At 8 o'clock, Thursday morning, the procession started from Fletcher street. Mounted Policemen Cavley and Brecourt dashed ahead and cleared the way of teams. They came the stalwart Police Captain Howland at the head of his troop of mounted officers, the pick of the force. Chief Marshal Cook conspicuous of the fact that he was the biggest man in town for the time being, headed a splendid staff. The roster of the parade was as follows:

Lewis MacBrayne on Deck

The Sun had the following account of the oration exercises: "Henry Cabot Lodge gave the oration in Huntington hall. A large audience listened to it. Lewis MacBrayne, a high school pupil, read the Declaration of Independence and there were musical numbers by the Lowell Choral Society, under the direction of Solon W. Stevens, Esq. Music was furnished by the American orchestra which came from the Fall River boat for the purpose, returning yesterday."

And Lewis, MacBrayne, from that day, became an ardent admirer of Henry Cabot Lodge and the republican party and is yet.

Up in a Balloon

One of the features of the celebration of 25 years ago was the balloon ascension, of which the old Sun had the following:

"Councilman William Westall, City Messenger House, and Secretary Jos. Smith of the overseers of the poor risked their precious lives with Prof. Allen, the aeronaut, in the balloon. The ascension was from the North common at 4:45 in the afternoon and several thousand people saw it shoot up. Prof. Allen allowed his airship to slip her moorings 15 minutes ahead of time in order that they might rise above a storm that was coming down from the north. A current of air carried the bag of gas and its live freight in a southeasterly direction and after soaring through the dark clouds for two hours a descent was made in Middleton, a small town near Andover."

On the Common

They had a midway on the South common even 25 years ago, although according to the old Sun's police court column some of the booth proprietors took a chance and sold liquor, one man getting caught. The old Sun says: "Fourth afternoon 5000 people went on the South common to see the athletic sports. The booths did a rushing business in cool drinks and sandwiches and the various schemes for pulling in nickels and dimes were well patronized by the good natured crowd. There was a great deal of drunkenness on the common Thursday night."

"Several booths were dealing out beer but only one man was caught at it. Until far into yesterday morning the place was unafraid of the police, getting caught. The old Sun says: "Fourth afternoon 5000 people went on the South common to see the athletic sports. The booths did a rushing business in cool drinks and sandwiches and the various schemes for pulling in nickels and dimes were well patronized by the good natured crowd. There was a great deal of drunkenness on the common Thursday night."

"The athletic events and their winners were as follows:
Three running jumps—William Foley, 1st; Thomas Quinn, 2d.
100 yard dash—J. J. McCann, 1st; W. Foley, 2d; J. Maguire, 3d.

The Rod and Gun Club

The Lowell Rod and Gun club of quarter of a century ago; not Assistant Postmaster Ed. Cheney's famous organization, the "Lowell Rotten Gun Club," but another organization, observed the holiday by holding a shoot at clay pigeons, of which the old Sun had the following:

"About 20 members of the Lowell Rod and Gun club had a trap shooting contest on Rogers Fort Hill park in the afternoon. The event was 21 throw, 31 clay pigeons from three traps, 15 of which were single shots and three pair double shots. The prize was won as follows: Bates and Faulkner, 1st; Burton and Prescott, 2d; Boynton and Loveloy, 3d; Wheeler and Smith 4th; Knowles, 5th; Perry and Brocker, 6th; Gregg and Little, 7th; Defoe and

On the River

The Sun of quarter of a century ago devotes most of its space in its report of the Fourth of July celebration to an account of the races on the Merrimack river. These races were considered the best ever held on this river up to that time. The old Sun says in part:

"Those who went up the river to see the boat races in the afternoon saw some great sights although they got wet enjoying them. A stiff breeze blew down stream which generated thousands of hissing white caps when the boats came from the north. Dr. O. P. Porter, A. M. Ricker and F. W. Wier, Esq., steamed up to the starting point opposite the head of Broadway. A heavy storm was gathering far up in the mountains but the heavy rain and came on and on, pushing the boats up stream and in less time than it takes to write it the races were opened. Councilman Hartwell keeping an eye on the score."

"The single paddling canoe race was the first. Walter E. Perkins of Lowell, Mr. Smith of Hallowell, N. J., and W. H. Head of Worcester were the entrants. Perkins got the lead and held it to the end of the quarter mile. Smith, second. Prizes, silver ornaments. Time, 7 minutes, 40 seconds."

Drury Lane's Won

"There was great fun in the four-oared scull race," continues the old Sun, "the entries being all local. The rivalry between the crews was great and each had friends in boats and along the shore. The entries were: Sports, Anchora, Drury Lanes, G. G. G. Centralville Blues and Franklin's. The prizes were $25, $15 and $10. When the word was given the Franklin's took the lead with the other five about even, half a length behind. On the first turn the Franklin's turned first and started spurt for the lower stake boat. TAG DAY COMMITTEE WILL COVER LOWELL

JAMES O'SULLIVAN

WILLIAM D. BROWN

Plan for Effective Campaign for the Salem Sufferers—Total Last Night Reported by Treasurer O'Hearn $3415.40—The List of Women's Societies Invited to do Tag Duty

Tomorrow, Friday, July 3, having been designated as Tag day in Lowell, about 40 women, representing different organizations, gathered in the mayor's reception room at city hall this forenoon and organized for the tag work which will be carried on tomorrow and Saturday. The rain did not dampen the enthusiasm of the women and girls who responded to the invitations sent out by the Tag day committee, James O'Sullivan, chairman; John H. Murphy, secretary, and William D. Brown, treasurer. The women organized with Miss Bessie B. Hadley as chairman, Edith C. Pulsifer, secretary, and Alice H. Bacheller, treasurer. Miss Rose A. Dowd will have charge of the down town section and she will have as her captains and assistants Mrs. Helen Donaldson and the Misses Alice Sheehan, Alice Masterson, Bessie Gillaspay, Loretta Whiteley, Annie McKissock, Rose C. Geary, Lou C. O'Sullivan, Vera E. Graves and Alice Besse. Other captains and helpers in other sections will include Mrs. Carl Noyes, Miss Ida Flint, Mrs. John E. Graham (who will spend the day at the depot), Miss Green, Mrs. O'Connor, Mrs. Sheridan, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Farrell and several others.

More volunteers are needed and a meeting will be held in the mayor's reception room at city hall tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock. The two central stations where tags will be supplied are the reception room at city hall and the board of trade office. The collectors will carry boxes suspended about their necks and when the collectors approach you they will attach a little tag to the lapel of your coat. If you are wearing the tag you will not be asked to contribute the second time.

There was scant preparation for the meeting held today, and had the men more time greater detail would have been indulged in. The meeting, however, was a big success and all of those present displayed great enthusiasm. The tag day committee was very much impressed with the way the women took hold of the affair and Chairman O'Sullivan paid the women a compliment in the very beginning of the meeting by declaring, with great emphasis, that it would be impossible for the men to make a success of tag day without the assistance of the women, for the women are the real workers. There might have been a touch of blarney to it, but Mr. O'Sullivan meant it just the same.

Meeting Called to Order
It was 10:25 o'clock when Chairman O'Sullivan called to order and he thanked the women for their splendid response to the invitation extended by the tag day committee. It was right here that Mr. O'Sullivan paid the pretty compliment to the women. He said there was no need of enlarging upon conditions in Salem as the press had attended to that. He threw the meeting open for suggestions and a number were offered. Discussion was general, Mayor Murphy and others joining in offering suggestions. There was some difference of opinion as to the boxes to be carried by the collectors. The mayor suggested that perhaps some of the women object to carrying the boxes, but Miss Hadley and others believed that the boxes were very essential. It was finally decided to order 500 boxes. The collectors will devote themselves to street collections tomorrow (weather permitting) and on Saturday they will visit offices and stores.

Names of Those Present

The women and girls present at today's meeting were asked to register and the following names were given: Mrs. John E. Graham, Bessie B. Hadley, Jenny P. Bradt, Elizabeth Lockhart, Belle E. Smith, Isabel M. Ellis, Maud P. Green, Rosalia T. Evans, M. L. McSweeney, Alice B. Geary, Elizabeth C. Kennedy, Alice H. Bacheller, Annie L. McKissock, Ida J. Flint, Rose A. Dowd, Mary E. Tobin, Alice Masterson, Mrs. P. Farrell, Mrs. Geo. M. Randall, Mrs. Maria O'Connor, Mrs. Nora T. Sheridan, Loretta V. Whiteley, Alice A. Sheehan, Bessie E. Gillaspay, Helen M. Donaldson, Mrs. S. W. Hands, Edith C. Pulsifer, Vera E. Graves, Mrs. J. W. Cole, Mrs. Carl Noyes.

Lowell men and women are contributing very generously to the relief fund for the Salem sufferers, but the need for assistance in the stricken city is much greater than at first believed and it will be necessary for everybody to strain a point and give just a little more. Thousands of persons have not only lost their homes, generally unimpaired, but the destruction of the large mills have deprived them of their work. Thousands are living in tents and must be cared for until work and shelter can be obtained for them.

READY TO DISCUSS PEACE

Huerta Envoys Prepared to Meet Rebel Representatives — Deny Federal Officers Executed

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 2.—Communication between the two warring factions in Mexico which it is hoped eventually will lead to conferences for the establishment of peace was begun today when the delegation representing General Huerta formally addressed to the three South American mediators a note to be transmitted to the constitutionalist representatives in Washington. In this the Huerta delegates declare their willingness to discuss measures of peace with the constitutionalists and bring to an end the civil strife which has been devastating their country for the last year.

The Huerta declaration wrote in response to a note from the mediators delivered to them as well as the American delegation suspending the sessions of mediation because the international side of the controversy had been adjusted and calling attention to the correspondence with General Carranza in which he asked for more time to consult his subordinates about a peace conference. The Huerta delegates replied in two separate communications, one setting forth their own approval and gratification at the amicable settlement of the international conflict and the other intended for transmission to the constitutionalists explaining in effect their readiness to begin informal conferences for the selection of a provisional president and the solution of kindred problems of an internal character. The disposition of the American forces now at Vera Cruz has been left for consideration until the time the two factions agree on the new provisional government. While the protocol already signed cover many phases of the international situation and the mediators and Huerta delegates regard the controversy as settled, it is generally recognized that until a provisional government is actually agreed on and a date set for recognition of the new government American troops will not be withdrawn and international questions not finally settled.

DENIES THAT FEDERAL OFFICERS WERE EXECUTED

MEXICO CITY, July 2.—Minister of War Blanquet denies a rumor in circulation in the office that General Jose Velasco, the federal commander at San Luis Potosi, General Lazaro Vilar, who has been mentioned as a possible selection of the peace mediators at Niagara Falls for the provisional presidency, and General Ignacio Bravo, commander of the garrison of Mexico City, had been arrested on a charge of conspiracy and summarily executed. The war minister says the government has full confidence in the loyalty of these officers. The war office announces that the constitutionalists operating around Nacua, where the electric plant which supplies light and power to Mexico City is located, had been routed.

A NEW SALMON

New Variety Developed
by Pacific Coast Zoologist—Get Me?

The cross-breeding of salmon has been accomplished by Dr. E. Victor Smith, assistant professor in the department of zoology in the University of Washington. Hundreds of the new breed are developing from fry to fish at the state hatchery at Auburn. It is a cross between the king and silver salmon.

The experiments started last October. The king eggs treated with silver sperm developed fry that died in great numbers, many of them showing strange malformations. On the other hand, the silver eggs treated with king sperm developed a hardy breed having characteristics of both the original varieties. It is hoped that it will possess the canning qualities of the silver and the pink tint of the king; but this is a matter which cannot be decided for months to come.

Dr. Smith will now turn his attention to cross-breeding the hump, dog and sockeye salmon with the king and silver varieties, and with one another. He lays stress at present upon the purely scientific results of his experiments, but admits that they may have great economic value.

"Cross-breeding of fish has been tried before," said Dr. Smith yesterday. "European scientists a few years ago developed crosses between different species of trout. No general definite results have ever been published. It is possible that the great number of species of trout may be due to successive periods of cross-breeding. If so, I believe the experiments now under way will be successful."

At the request of the United States fish commissioner, and with his aid, Dr. Smith is making a study in connection with the breeding experiments of the food of salmon. "Before the government can take any intelligent steps in the conservation and care of this great resource," he said, "it is imperative that we know the life history about the fish. We know a great deal about the salmon, but we haven't been able yet to trace its feeding habits when young."

"Salmon when young eat small crustaceans. We have found that these minute arthropods form the principal diet of young herring. The herring, which occur in great numbers in the Northern Pacific, eat up the food supply of the salmon. But then we have found that a little later, the salmon eat the small herring. So it is to determine whether any useless fish in the sea eat the same feed as fish that are useful to us, and of great economic importance, that these experiments are being conducted. The number of any kind of fish is determined largely by the food supply. If it is determined that useless fish are reducing the food supply of the salmon, it will next be in order to plan for its conservation or the killing of the invading fish."—New York Sun.

TO BAR U. S. AGENTS

France May Exclude Them for Refusal to Disclose Amount Paid by American for Dresses

PARIS, July 2.—The opinion prevalent here today that United States treasury agents would in future be excluded from France in consequence of the exposure of their methods in the course of an appeal by Henry Munroe, a banker against a jail sentence and a fine for refusing to disclose the amounts paid in France by Miss Dolan of Brookline, Mass., for dresses seized by the American customs house on their arrival in Boston.

The French foreign office some time ago made representations to the state department at Washington in regard to the irregularity of the United States in maintaining secret agents in France, who were not recognized by the American embassy or consulate general.

Much comment, some of it in angry terms, appeared in the press today about what is called the "business spy system of the United States." Arthur David Monet, president of the chamber of commerce of Paris, today refused to request the minister of commerce to ask the chamber of deputies to withdraw its opposition to an appropriation for the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco. He says he will do nothing until the United States ceases its vexatious and unreasonable interference with the importations of French goods.

OPEN FRIDAY NIGHT

AMERICAN CREWS WIN GRAND CHALLENGE CUP

The Chief Event of Royal Regatta
Taken by Three Trans-Atlantic
Eight Oared Crews, Union Boat
Club, Harvard and Winnipeg

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 2.—

The three trans-Atlantic eight-oared crews—the Union Boat club of Boston, Harvard university 2d eight and Winnipeg, Can., defeated their English rivals today in the race for the grand challenge cup, the chief event of the royal regatta. The only heat remaining to be decided this afternoon was that between Jesus college, Cambridge, and the Mayence Rowing club of Germany.

In the semi-finals, tomorrow, Harvard will meet Winnipeg and Boston will encounter either Jesus or Mayence.

The American representatives fared badly in the individual sculling for the Harbord sculls as James B. Ayer of the Boston Union Boat club, the only one left in after the first round was eliminated today by the giant Italian Giuseppe Sinigaglia.

"Doh" Dibble of Hamilton, Ontario and representing the Don Rowing club, Toronto, American and Canadian amateur champion, was, however, successful over the English champion J. Lawrence Tann and will represent the trans-Atlantic oarsmen in the final for the famous diamond sculls.

The heat, which had caused some discomfort yesterday, passed away during the night, and the temperature was many degrees cooler today.

A strong headwind, however, put fast times out of the question. For the spectators the conditions were ideal and the crowd, which included many Americans and Canadians, was even greater than yesterday.

The day's program opened with the first heat in the Grand, between Winnipeg and Thames. This was won quite easily by the Canadians in 7 minutes, 35 seconds.

Boston beat the London eight all the way in the next heat of the same event. The Americans led by a length and a half at the half distance and finished quite fresh four lengths ahead in 7 minutes, 45 seconds.

The Boston crew was composed as follows: Bow, G. Balch, E. Farley, R. Tappan, S. A. Sargent, J. E. Waide, L. Williamson, P. Withington; stroke, R. Cutler; coxswain, C. Ables.

In the next heat Harvard defeated Leander but did not have such an easy time as Boston. The race was an exciting one. Leander led at the start, rowing 35 to Harvard's 37 but Harvard went up level at the island, where the crews were coming into the straight. Then the Americans took the lead and won the fastest heat of the day by a length in seven minutes, 37 seconds. They were quite fresh at the finish but Leander showed distress before reaching the grand stand in front of which they were a beaten crew.

The Harvard crew was: Bow, L. Saltonstall, J. Talcott, F. Meyer, H. Middendorf, J. Middendorf, D. Morgan, L. Curtis; stroke, Charles Luna; coxswain, H. L. Kregar.

Ayer rowed a plucky race against Sinigaglia in the Diamonds but was beaten easily by three lengths, although his opponent steered badly. Sinigaglia's time was 9.30.

Williams beat his compatriot Fripp by only a quarter of a length in 5.52. Dibble, on the other hand, rowed a very fast race and defeated Tann easily by a length in 5.55.

MARCONI'S GREAT FEAT

He Expects to Talk From Wales
to New York by Wireless—Inventor Confident of Success

LONDON, July 2.—Godfrey Isaacs of the American Marconi company, giving evidence before the Dominion's Royal commission today, said that Signor Marconi contemplates telephone by wireless to New York from Carnarvon, Wales (a distance of about 3300 miles), as soon as a few mechanical arrangements have been made at the latter place. He hopes that this will be before the end of the present year.

Mr. Isaacs added that he did not hesitate to say that when wireless stations between Buenos Ayres and Great Britain will have been constructed Signor Marconi will be able to telegraph and telephone to the Argentine at the same time.

He said that Signor Marconi proposes to establish as soon as possible a wireless press service between Canada and London, to be operated at a rate of a half penny (one cent) a word and a speed of 300 words a minute.

John Bottomley, secretary of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company, said last night that while telephonic communication between Great Britain and the United States is one of the things which the company hopes to establish, it is not a matter for the immediate future.

"Experiments are being made on the other side," he said, "and the matter is largely in the hands of company officials there. On this side we have not yet begun to prepare for it. We have not installed any instruments and don't know yet where they will be installed. Nothing definite can be said as to the time it will take. When these new developments come they often come very quickly, but so far we have not made a start here."

Mr. Bottomley said he knew nothing about the proposed service between Great Britain and Buenos Ayres, nor about the establishment of a news service between England and Canada. Those matters, he said, would not be handled by the company in the United States.

HOLD UP MAN SENTENCED

Alfred Wm. Girouard of Nashua
Arrested Here by Lt. Maher—
Given 25 Years in State Prison

Alfred William Girouard, who was arrested here January 31 of this year for the Nashua police was tried at Manchester, N. H. superior court and sentenced today to not less than fifteen nor more than 25 years' imprisonment in the state prison at Concord, N. H.

The charges upon which he was tried were the holdup and robbery of two storekeepers at the point of a revolver in Nashua. In one, a grocery conducted by Mr. Richards, Girouard went into the store, revolver in hand, and robbed the proprietor of $50. He next robbed a drug store taking all the money in the cash register and holding Mr. Danseau, who was in charge, at bay by a loaded revolver. Inspector Maher of this city testified at the trial. The arrest by the Lowell inspector was one of the cleverest made here for years. With a meagre description of the man, Lieut. Maher recognized him leaving a restaurant at the Middlesex street station and at once placed him under arrest. Girouard had a police record previous to these events having been convicted for breaking and entering in 1903. He had also spent some time in the insane asylum at Bridgewater so that he is altogether a dangerous character.

ANTI-TRUST PROGRAM

Democrats to Press Trust Legislation—Congress May Not Adjourn Until September 1

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Having formally resolved in party conference to remain in Washington until the administration anti-trust program is finally disposed of, democratic leaders in the senate were determined today to press the proposed legislation to a conclusion. These measures include the trade commission bill, the Clayton anti-trust bill and the railway securities bill. The majority plan to press for a vote on the trade commission bill at the earliest possible moment. To that end the senate is to be asked to begin holding night sessions next week. The hope is now entertained by some of the leaders that congress can adjourn not later than Sept. 1 with the trust program completed.

FEMINIST TREND IS BAD

In Its Effect Upon Morals, Says
Dr. Richardson of Boston University—Change is Needed

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 2.—

The feminist movement, which encourages women to "imitate the vices as well as the manners of men," cannot help but have a deleterious effect upon the public welfare, said Dr. Frank C. Richardson, professor of nervous diseases at Boston University, speaking before the American Institute of Homoeopathy, in 10th annual convention. He advocated legislation to correct the extremes to which femininity is going in dress and modern dances. Fashions are indecent.

In their zealous exploitation of the white slave traffic, social evil, eugenics and such, legislatures and reformers

15 OFFICERS "PLUCKED"

Navy Board Retires Men Distinguished in Service—DAN-IELS TO ASK REPEAL OF LAW

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Fifteen naval officers, several of them captains with distinguished records, ended their active careers yesterday upon the recommendation of the dreaded "plucking board." Secretary Daniels made public the names of those selected for compulsory retirement this year, with a formal announcement that he expected to ask for the repeal of the law of 1892 under which the annual "plucking" is done.

The officers, with their present stations, follow:
Captain John H. Gibbons, commanding battleship Utah.
Captain Frank W. Kellogg of Watertown, Conn., commanding battleship North Carolina.
Captain John C. Leonard, commanding battleship Nebraska.
Commander George N. Hayward, cutter Hannibal.
Commander John B. Patton, commanding battleship Tennessee and receiving ship at New York.
Commander Provost Babla, en route to United States from Asiatic station.
Commander William S. Whitted, inspector Cramp shipyard, Philadelphia.

Lieutenant-Commander Walter M. Falkner, collier Leonidas.
Lieutenant-Commander Ulysses S. Macy, in charge of navy recruiting station, Philadelphia.
Lieutenant-Commander Carlton R. Rear, gunboat El Canoe.
Lieutenant-Commander J. W. Schoenfeld, battleship Minnesota.
Lieutenant Franklin W. Osburn, Jr., gunboat Castine.
Lieutenant William J. Moses, cruiser Raleigh.

In addition to the plucking board's list, Secretary Daniels announced that the following six officers had been placed on the retired list at their own request.
Captain Harrison A. Bispham, navy yard, Philadelphia; Commander Emmett R. Pollock, battleship Vermont; Commander Irvin V. Gilles, battleship Michigan; Commander Raymond Stone, battleship New Jersey; Commander Simon P. Fullenwider, battleship Connecticut; and Commander Edwin H. De Lacy, waiting orders, Washington.

A number of other officers had asked for voluntary retirement and had all the applications been accepted the board would have been relieved of the necessity of "plucking." But last year the president decided not to permit the voluntary retirement of any officer who has not had 20 years' service after graduation from the naval academy. The law requires the creation of 40 vacancies annually, with 15 compulsory retirements if necessary. Included in the list of "plucked" this year are the names of some officers who have been so prominent in naval circles as to cause great surprise among their colleagues at their retirement. Captain Gibbons has been superintendent of the naval academy and naval attaché to the American embassy in London, assignments given to officers of the highest professional ability. Captain Hill is one of the younger school of officers, who became prominent through his outspoken criticism of defects in the equipment of armor on the older battleships, which led to radical changes in the designs.

AWAKENED BY DREAM

NATICK WOMAN FOUND REAL THIEF IN HOUSE AND HELD HIM UNTIL POLICE ARRIVED

BOSTON, July 2.—Dreaming that a burglar was strangling her, Miss Emma Emanuelson of Lincoln street extension, Natick, awoke early yesterday morning to find that a thief was really in the house, and, running down stairs, she held up the intruder with a revolver until the hired man, Edward Goddard, brought the police.

The man proved to be Robert A. Hanna of Natick. The police had been searching for him since Monday, when he escaped from the station. At that time the police were holding him for trial on burglary charges.

Awakened by the dream, Miss Emanuelson heard noises in the pantry. She aroused the hired man in the next room, grabbed a revolver and started down stairs.

The burglar jumped out the window as she entered the pantry. Goddard ran around the house and cut him off just after the man had shattered the glass in the pantry window by diving through it. Goddard then went for the police while Miss Emanuelson stood guard over the prisoner.

Hanna was arraigned in court yesterday morning before Judge M. F. Kennedy. He was held for the grand jury under $1000 bonds. June 21 he was arrested, charged with two counts of chicken stealing and one count of breaking and entering. He has been before the court several times.

RULING ON PROHIBITION
West Virginia Court Has a Decision on Status of Club Members' Liquor on the First Day

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 2.—The first court decision affecting liquor since the state prohibitory amendment became operative, was handed down yesterday by the supreme court of appeals. It was held no violation of the law for a member of a club to take upon the club premises liquor for his own use without storage on the premises or for service to his friends.

The court had been asked to permanently enjoin the governors of the Edgewood club of Charleston from putting into effect a resolution preventing members from keeping their own liquor at the club.

NEW HAVEN, July 2.—Believing him to be penniless, Mrs. Emma A. Merriam provided for Jas. Fielding at her home here for years. Yesterday it was brought out in the probate court that Fielding, who died recently, left $19,330 in cash, a large part of which was found stuffed into an old suitcase, which he had kept in his room, while the remainder was in banks as was shown by the several bank books discovered with the money in the suitcase.

Mrs. Merriam submitted to the court a bill for Fielding's board and was allowed $275.

SHAMROCK IV SHOWS UP STRONGLY IN TRIAL RACES WITH PREDECESSOR

If the trial races between the two Shamrocks are any criterion Lipton's new challenger will put up a great fight for the America's cup when she races over here in September. So far the new boat has run away from her predecessor at every meeting, and as various improvements have been made in her hull and rigging she is getting hotter all the time. The picture shows the two boats setting their rigging preliminary to starting on a thirty mile jaunt.

engagements for the next few days at least.

Mrs. Ralph McDaniel presided and the chief speaker was Miss Eleanor O'Brien, a teacher in the Brighton high school. She called attention to the fact that two-thirds of the graduates of the high schools today are girls who are being prepared for life and for citizenship with the boy graduates. She also related her experiences as a relief worker in Salem.

A meeting of the league will be held early next week to decide the matter of extending over another month the time for keeping the headquarters open.

SALEM RELIEF FUND NEARING $4000 MARK

Reports From Bank Depositories Show Addition of Over $400 Added to Fund Today—Treasurer O'Hearn's Statement

Lowell's contributions to the Salem relief fund are nearing the $4000 mark and it is expected that the grand total will reach that mark before the day is done. The mayor's fund has gone beyond the $1000 mark and he received messages by telephone this afternoon that there was more on the way. Besides the cash a considerable amount of clothing, bedding and other things have been sent to Salem and it looks as if Lowell would do her part nobly in assisting in the relief of the sufferers.

Lowell Baseball Association
While sitting at his desk at city hall this morning, busily engaged in counting tickets for the Salem relief fund entertainment tonight, City Messenger Monahan was called to the telephone and his genial face lighted up when he heard from the fellow at the other end. It was Manager Gray of the Lowell

Service and Economy—These are the twin pillars that hold up this great business.

SERVICE—as we interpret it, means striving earnestly every day to deserve the commendation of our patrons by showing cheerfully and unflinchingly our great assortment of goods.

ECONOMY—with us is not an idle word. We turn it into deeds. For we are constantly seeking ways and means by which good merchandise can be offered at lowest prices. The woman who has a certain allowance to spend naturally wants to make it go as far as possible.

Baseball association and he told Mr. Monahan that the association wanted 20 tickets for tonight's entertainment.

Looking For Tips
Mayor Murphy is in receipt of a communication from J. Reginald Davidson, industrial commissioner for the city of Vancouver, asking for information concerning the methods employed in this city to induce new industries to establish here. The commissioner says he has heard very favorable reports from Lowell and he wants the mayor to give him a few particulars.

A Mild Call Down
A man who doesn't go to city hall very often dropped in this morning because he was interested in the arrangements about to be made for Tag Day and his first observation had to do with the countless men who were flying about the building, some of them portaging chairs to the reception room for the women who gathered there while others were doing the "heavy looking on." "I should think," said the man in question, "that the city messenger and his janitors would have respect enough for their positions to wear their coats, especially when the hall is filled with women. I'm not the least bit cranky, as a rule, but I do believe in the fitness of things. I should think the mayor would see to it that attenders of the hall would not go about in their shirt sleeves when the hall is filled with visitors."

$46 More For Fund
Commissioner Donnelly has instructed all school janitors to be careful as regards fire while the spirit of the glorious Fourth holds the boards and he has also instructed them to advise him as to repairs needed at the different schools in order that the repairs may be made during vacation season. These repairs will be made by the lands and buildings department and this department, by the way, contributed $46 to the Salem relief fund today.

TWO SUFFOCATED—ONE KILLED BY JUMPING

Fire in Manchester Lodging House Today — Man Disregarded Policeman's Warning and Jumped From Third Floor and Was Killed—Two Trapped on Fourth Floor and Were Suffocated — Twenty-five Escaped Over Roof to Adjoining Building

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 2.—A search of the lodging house of Mrs. David Mayo on North Elm street, which was damaged by fire early today, revealed the fact that three lives had been lost. John Reed, 25 years old, who is thought to have come from Brookline, Mass., was fatally injured when he disregarded a policeman's warning and jumped from a third story window, dying while being taken to a hospital. Mederic Caron, 30 years old, and Albert Lachance, 35 years old, were suffocated in their rooms on the top floor of the four story frame building.

Several lodgers were slightly hurt in jumping from windows. Others were taken down ladders and about 25 escaped over the roof to an adjoining building.

The fire, which started in the basement from an unknown cause, was confined to the lower part of the structure, occupied as a clothing store by Herman Feldman. The upper floors were filled with dense smoke. The loss will not exceed $10,000.

Caron Known Here
Mr. Pierre Caron of 28 Decatur avenue received word this morning of the tragic death of his brother, Mederic, aged 36 years, which occurred in Manchester, N. H., where the young man had lived for the past 20 years.

According to a telegram received by Mr. Caron his brother was burned to death in his room in the Manchester, N. H. lodging house, which was destroyed today.

Deceased was making arrangements for a short trip to this city on July 1. He is well known in Lowell, where he came on several occasions. He is survived by six sisters, Mesdames Thos. Lajole, Pierre Bouchard, John Chasse and Joseph Pelletier, all of Nashua, N. H., two brothers, Pierre of this city and Joseph Caron of Ottawa. The body may be sent to this city.

CHIEF SAUNDERS BUSY

Has Issued 140 Permits to Keep and Sell Fireworks—The Police Regulations

Chief Saunders of the fire department has been a busy man during the past week or two granting permits to keep and sell fireworks to storekeepers throughout the city. To date the chief has issued no less than 140 of these permits, a larger number than was granted in the year 1913. This, undoubtedly, is due to the fact that the state police made known the fact that they would prosecute all persons who violated the laws and regulations governing the keeping, storage and selling of fireworks and firecrackers.

Up to the present time very little noise or damage has been caused by the use of Fourth of July articles of any kind and this fact is much appreciated by Chief Saunders as well as Supt. Welch of the police department. All officers in the employ of the latter department will be notified to use every precaution to see that the laws are not violated and Supt. Welch has pointed out a few important items in the acts referring to July 4th celebrations which he hopes will be obeyed.

The following are of interest at the present time:
"Except on the fourth day of July and the 17 day of June, the use or discharge of fireworks or firecrackers without a permit from the chief of the fire department is prohibited."
"At no time is any explosive or firecracker to be set off within 300 feet of a hospital. No fireworks or firecrackers shall be sold to children under 13 years of age."
"It shall be unlawful to sell or explode a blank cartridge or any firecracker exceeding two inches in length and three-eighths in diameter."
"It is unlawful to throw or fly any balloons of any description. Whoever violates this act shall be liable to a fine of not more than $100 or imprisonment of one month, or both."

Third Edition STATE POLICE OPPOSE ALL BONFIRE PERMITS

Col. Carmichael, Head of Fire Department, Says He Will Grant No Permits—Risk too Great in City Like Lowell

In all probability no permits for bonfires on the night before the Fourth will be granted by the chief of the Lowell fire department and any person who lights any of the structures which have been built in the various parts of the city to usher in the glorious holiday will be liable to arrest. Statements to that effect were made by both Chief Saunders and Col. Carmichael, commissioner of the fire department, this forenoon and both declared that no permits would be issued under any consideration.

The above decision was made as a result of a letter received today from the office of the district police in Boston who says that a city like Lowell faces too great a danger in allowing bonfire piles to be ignited. Therefore, it looks as if the huge stacks built by the young men in this city will have to be torn down instead of burned amid cheers of thousands of onlookers, as in the past.

If the Fourth passes without a bonfire flaming at midnight this year it will be the first time in many years, as the younger element of the city has always looked forward to these events as the biggest thing on the program for the Fourth. Col. Carmichael said that as head of the fire department he did not think it would be using proper judgment on his part to overlook the advice of the state police and issue permits for bonfires. Several large piles have already been built in this city, most prominent among them being the one near Fort Hill on the Perry street grounds and one on State street. What action the state police would take if any of the fires was set by persons interested is not known, but persons would be liable to a fine of not less than $50 and in case property was damaged, a term of imprisonment.

The letter received today by Colonel Carmichael read as follows:

Board of Fire Inspectors
State Police
Boston, July 1, 1914.
Col. James H. Carmichael, Commissioner of Fire and Water Depts., Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir:
Your communication of recent date relative to bonfires in your city on the night before the Fourth July received.

COMMITTEE OF SEVENTY
A meeting of 70 appointed by the municipal council to formulate plans for the relief of the Salem sufferers will meet in the mayor's reception room at city hall at 10 o'clock tomorrow forenoon.

BILL TO HELP SALEM
BOSTON, July 2.—A bill to permit Salem to abate taxes in the burned district and to authorize the city to borrow $100,000 outside the debt limit to recuperate in part its revenue derived from taxation was reported by the legislative committee on taxation today. Prompt action on the bill is expected by the legislature.

TAKE GYARCOL NOW
For rheumatism, sore, stiff, aching joints.

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC COMMERCE
WASHINGTON, July 2.—Branch offices of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce are about to be established at Boston and Seattle. F. I. Roberts will be in charge of the former and William B. Henderson, the latter. Offices previously have been established in Chicago, New Orleans and San Francisco.

I would advise you not to grant any permits for such fires unless they are so far away from buildings that there would be no possible danger of property catching fire as the wind would carry sparks and burning pieces of wood for a great distance. Therefore, I do not deem it advisable to have bonfires in a city like Lowell.
Yours very truly,
George C. Neal,
Deputy Inspector.

The Salem catastrophe has undoubtedly caused the state police to advise greater caution than in past years, especially where the bonfires are located near factories or thickly settled parts of the city.

NEW KING OF SERBIA

ALEXANDER, SECOND SON OF AGED KING PETER, FACES A CRISIS

BELGRADE, Serbia, July 2.—King Alexander, second son of the aged King Peter, who succeeded his father recently upon the latter's voluntary abdication, faces an acute situation with Austria. The assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife was laid to a Serbian plot, and Serbians living in Bosnia, which is under the rule of the Austrians, were molested or killed after the double killing. So bitter is the feeling that war talk is heard.

D. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Arnold Daly, one of the foremost stars of the American stage, and an excellent supporting company, will appear in the photo-drama "The Port of Missing Men," at the D. F. Keith theatre today, and it will continue to be shown twice daily during the remainder of the week. This marks Mr. Daly's first appearance in motion picture drama, and he is fortunate in having such a sterling vehicle as Mr. Meredith Nicholson's splendid play. Those who have seen Daly in his portrayal of Napoleon in Bernard Shaw's "Destiny" will quickly recognize his special fitness for the part of John Armistage, the clever and daring subject of a mythical kingdom who comes to the United States and is imbued with the true American spirit, and who later outwits the spies of his country, does great service for the empire, and yet remains loyal to his adopted land. During the course of the action Armistage risks love, name, liberty and life itself, although his labors are not in vain, and in the end he sees the rightful ruler upon the throne of his adopted land, retires to private life in America and claims an American bride. It is a story full of the untold-for-actuations and climaxes. In addition to this other photo-plays will be shown, and Samuel Wallace will sing some of his very latest song numbers. Admission, 10 cents, with a few seats reserved at 15 cents. Children, five cents.

THE KASINO

Quality is the Kasino's first consideration. That word covers a multitude of things. First, the Kasino built a big hall with an absolutely smooth surface was provided, then a first-class orchestra was engaged, then Kasino management stepped in and made the combination complete. Aside from the four steps mentioned, a hundred and one details presented themselves as time passed, and the Kasino management at no time forgot its patrons. Miner's orchestra of 10 pieces furnishes the music every night and Saturday afternoon.

THE OWL THEATRE

Shouts of laughter greeted Patty of the Keystone in the two-reel farce entitled "Patty and the Heiress," one of the biggest laugh-producers ever released by these clever comedians. "Toils of Villainy" is one of the best examples of up-to-date photography ever shown on a screen. The natural colors make the plot much more interesting and pleasing to the eye. Others on the program are all good, while Jack Dalton's singing pleases, stirring root for comfort.

CANOE LAKE THEATRE

Even the cold rainy weather is not keeping the crowds away from Canoe Lake park this week. For since the opening of the Roman Musical Revue at the park theatre the attraction has been too strong for anybody to withstand. The show is an exceptionally strong one, and the company seems just suited to this particular kind of an offering. The company singing a big surprise in the presentation of Miss Eileen Kingston, a pretty and petite little lady with a wonderful contralto voice and more than a little ability in acting. Miss Kingston is now in the theatre, goes of the nearby surrounding hills, and will undoubtedly prove to be one of the most popular that could have been secured. Eddie Dowling is just the same old Eddie as popular as ever and with just a few more laughs than usual. Harry "Lanky" Crawford, the humorous comedian, gives a show of his own, and his grotesque appearance alone sends the audience into fits of laughter. Walter Rorer, Bert Mordy, and Al Bellow, Bob Jones and Donald Pendleton, together with a couple of chorus of pretty girls, all combine to make up a show that entertains right from the very start.

A very successful benefit was conducted last night at the Lakeview dance hall and theatre for Michael Conner, the well-known employee of the Boy State Street Railway Co. who recently lost one leg in a railway accident. The affair was held under the auspices of the Street Railway Employees' association and a very substantial sum was realized.

Daly's orchestra furnished music for dancing in the hall and the spacious floor was taxed to its capacity. The theatre was also well filled and all present spent a most enjoyable evening. The entertainment program was one of the best ever presented in these parts and the expedition manner in which it was carried out reflects credit not only on the performers but those in charge. The complete program was as follows:

Flannery, chairman; Thomas Flynn, Treasurer; Joseph Powers, vice president of Division 250 and Donat Primeau.
 Friends were present from Woburn, Wintthrop, Lawrence and Nashua continue to Lowell in special cars. Messrs. Love and Paragon, the local officials and Lawrence division also assisted by their presence.
 Mr. Powers, vice president of the union said: "This affair was a grand success, despite the inclement weather, and we are grateful to all who assisted.  REFUSED TO CARRY MAILS
 SOUTH WINDSOR, CONN., CITIZENS UP IN ARMS OVER ACTION OF TROLLEY CO.
 SOUTH WINDSOR, Conn., July 2.—The recent refusal of the Connecticut (trolley) Co. to continue to carry the mails has caused the citizens of this town to rise up in arms. They cannot get their mail. Today there are a number of sacks of unopened mail at the railroad depot where they have been for a day.

 The postmaster claims he is responsible for the delivery of the mail and as his salary is only $180 a year he feels that he cannot afford to hire help to have the sacks carried to the office, nearly a mile from the depot. He also declares that as he is engaged in other business he has not the time to make the four daily trips.
 EDUCATIONAL PROBLEMS
 CANTRIDGE, June 2.—Various educational problems were discussed at today's session of the American Institute of Instruction. Among the speakers on the program were C. A. Prosser, secretary of the national society for industrial education; James F. Hosick of the Chicago Normal college, and Bertha M. McConkey, assistant superintendent of schools at Springfield.

VIENNA, July 2.—A movement has been started by certain supporters of the late Archduke Francis Ferdinand, who was assassinated with his wife, to urge the claims of little Prince Maximilian, the archduke's son, as heir to the throne. When the archduke contracted his morganatic marriage he renounced the claim to the throne of any issue. With his death Archduke Charles Francis Joseph becomes the heir apparent.

CAUSED BIG FIRE IN LYNDONVILLE, VT.—ENTIRE VILLAGE THREATENED

LYNDONVILLE, Vt., July 2.—A fire which threatened the entire business section of this village yesterday afternoon caused a loss of more than $20,000. The fire started in the wholesale storehouse of J. C. Eaton & Co. and before it was under control and burned that building, another storehouse and barn belonging to the same firm and two livery stables belonging to the Hotel Lyndon and the D. M. Sibley estate.

C. W. Thompson, who conducted the stables, estimated the loss at $5000, which is covered by insurance. J. C. Eaton & Co. had the largest stock of hardware in their history and their loss on buildings and contents is more than $15,000, fully insured.

At great risk the firemen rescued the horses from both stables.

An explosion of powder in the storehouse shattered windows in the Lyndonville National bank and the Stern Block and caused the fire to spread to such an extent that help was called from St. Johnsbury.

TRANSFER BALL CLUB

RICHMOND, Va., July 2.—A deal was closed here last night, contingent upon the sanction of the International and Virginia leagues, whereby the Baltimore team in the International league will be transferred to Richmond. MURDER OF MRS. BAILEY

Telephonic Device, With Wires From Doctor's Office to Wife's Bedroom, in Carman's House

FRIDPORT, L. I., July 2.—No arrests had been made late last night of any person suspected of having shot and killed Mrs. Louise Bailey, a Hempstead matron, while she was in the office of Dr. Edwin P. Carman Tuesday night. The sheriff, the district attorney and the county detectives are following several clues.

On information which he declared had been given him by a member of the firm that installed the instrument, Sheriff Stephen Pettit said he had discovered in the Carman home a telephonic device, the wires of which led from the doctor's office to a closet in the bedroom of his wife. According to the sheriff, Mrs. Carman admitted to him that she had had the instrument installed because she wanted to hear what went on between her husband and women patients, and that she had been much comforted by what she had overheard.

The sheriff said also that Dr. Carman, when questioned about the telephonic device, told him that his wife had admitted to him that she had had the machine put in and that she had removed the receiving end in her closet early yesterday morning and hid it in the attic.

The sheriff said that Mrs. Carman at his request had gone to the attic and brought the instrument to him. A revolver of small caliber was found in the physician's home yesterday.

In her talk with the sheriff yesterday Mrs. Carman told the sheriff, according to a statement made by Mr. Pettit, that she had arrived at her home about 7:10 Tuesday night. She immediately went to a room on the second floor and remained there the rest of the night. She was lying across the bed when she heard the shot fired downstairs. The sheriff added that Mrs. Carman denied ever having seen Mrs. Bailey.

Dr. Carman also was the subject of close questioning concerning the occurrence in and about the house before the mysterious hand with a revolver in it was poked through the broken window pane and a shot fired which killed Mrs. Bailey. What he told the authorities seems to have satisfied them that he had no knowledge of the person who committed the crime.

One story in circulation among the townpeople yesterday was to the effect that persons passing the physician's residence at the time of the murder saw a woman dressed in white run across the lawn immediately after the shot was fired. They believe the explosion was that of a firecracker discharged by some early celebrant of the Fourth of July.

A policeman has been stationed in front of the residence of Dr. Carman with instructions to allow no one to enter or leave the place without permission except Dr. Carman and his children. The authorities seemed inclined to the belief that whoever fired the shot intended it for the doctor rather than for his chance patient.

FINAL FIGHT ON HOME RULE BILL

House of Lords Pass the Amending Bill to Second Reading

Amendments Will Be Offered in the Committee Stage

Report That Asquith Will Grant Exclusion to Ulster Not Credited

LONDON, July 2.—When the bill to amend the Irish home rule bill came up yesterday for second reading in the house of lords, the marquis of Lansdowne, the unionist leader, announced that as Ireland was one vast armed camp, it was necessary to find a way out of the calamity which was threatening.

The unionists, therefore, he said, would give the amending bill a second reading and introduce amendments during the committee stage in regard to the area to be excluded from the operations of the home rule bill, the duration of the exclusion and the government of the excluded area.

The unionists, he concluded, would not agree to the second reading of the home rule bill itself. Lord Lansdowne added that their action in passing the second reading of the amending bill would be understood and misinterpreted in many quarters, but there was no other way by which breathing space could be obtained with the prospect of averting the horrors of civil war.

The amendments to be introduced in the committee stage would be directed solely to making the bill a really adequate exclusion bill. With a touch of pathos, he said: "The peers are so fast bound by the meshes of the parliament act that there is no other course open to them which would be likely to prove effective."

Most of the other speakers were equally conciliatory in tone. A notable exception was Lord Willoughby de Broke, the leader of the "Die Hardis," who moved the rejection of the bill. The archbishop of York said that what the country wanted now was not the rejection of the bill, but a settlement in some form. Irish self government, he declared, was now inevitable.

The earl of Arran announced he could not vote for the second reading, because it would be in violation of the oath of the Ulster volunteers.

Lord Bryce expressed the belief that the difficulties could be surmounted. He admitted that some form of exclusion was necessary, but declared that he did not attach much importance to the final limit.

A figure was current yesterday that 50,000 rifles had been laid on the coast of County Mayo for the nationalist volunteers. It could not be confirmed.

LOOK FOR SETTLEMENT

LONDON, July 2.—The precise effect of the house of lords' proposed amendment to the government's amending bill will not be known until the home rule bill reaches the committee stage next week, but favorable opinion, as drawn by the London morning newspapers from the conciliatory tone of the speeches on both sides of the house of lords yesterday for a renewal of the negotiations between the party

GAS ON THE STOMACH

Flatulence, or gas in the digestive tract is an annoying and common complaint. As a rule it indicates that food is being retained in the stomach and intestines longer than nature intended.

When colicky pains accompany the presence of gas the need of a gentle laxative to clear away the offending food residue is imperative. If the condition of constipation is not quickly corrected a coated tongue, eruptions on the skin, headaches and backaches soon show that the poison have found their way into the circulation.

The use of the gentle laxative pills Pinkettes will not only banish these unpleasant symptoms quickly but, if used regularly for a reasonable time, will really correct chronic constipation.

Pinkettes are not like harsh purgatives that leave the bowels dry and in the end worse than before. Pinkettes gently assist nature, never gripe and are so small and easy to take that they are known as the dainty laxative.

Your own druggist can supply you with Pinkettes or they will be sent by mail postpaid, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 25c per bottle. Send for the book "The Dainty Laxative," telling how to treat constipation.

ALL-DAY RAIN PROBABLE

STORM OF EASTERLY VARIETY ARRIVED LAST NIGHT—YESTERDAY WASN'T SO COLD

BOSTON, July 2.—An all-day easterly storm, during which a substantial amount of rain is expected to fall here, is the discouraging outlook for those who are planning to move to seashore and country resorts today. The rain leaders which it is believed will result in an agreement.

The Daily Mail asserts that Premier Asquith's attitude has undergone a modification and that he now is ready to grant exclusion to Ulster by statute instead of by the ballot, but any such proposition would stir the ire of the nationalists and overthrow the ministry.

Popular opinion to the contrary, there was nothing abnormally cold about yesterday and no records for July 1 were shattered. The minimum temperature here was 56 and the maximum only 67, but on several July 1's since the establishment of the local station of the weather bureau the temperature has gone lower.

BIG AUTO TURNS TURTLE

SEVEN PERSONS, ALL RELATIVES, INJURED, ONE PERHAPS FATAL—TWO CHILDREN UNDER CAR

NORTH WILBRAHAM, July 2.—Seven persons were injured, one perhaps fatally, and three seriously, when a light automobile turned turtle on the state highway on Butters Hill last night.

The injured are: Mrs. Abraham Stoltz of Monson, aged 27; internal injuries, cuts and bruises about the face and hands.

Irwin Padrat of Palmer, aged 3; broken thigh and cuts and bruises about the head and body.

Mrs. Abner Padrat, aged 28; hip probably broken and cuts and bruises about the face and body.

Abner Padrat, aged 32; bruises and cuts about the face and hands, injured back and sprained wrist.

Selma Padrat, aged 4; contusions and abrasions about the face and body.

Fannie Stoltz of Monson, aged 3; bruises and lacerations about the head and body.

Morris Zimmerman, aged 31, of Palmer; bruises about the face and body with abrasions and lacerations.

All of the injured are relatives. They were taken in passing automobiles to the Ludlow hospital.

According to an eyewitness, the machine, when half-way down the hill, darted to the left side of the road and, as a wheel caught in a gully, turned turtle, throwing the occupants to the roadway.

A passing motorist went to their assistance and rescued two of the children from beneath the car.

Mr. Padrat is proprietor of a clothing store in Palmer and Mr. Zimmerman owns a grocery store in the same town.

Mrs. Stoltz is the wife of a Monson merchant. Mrs. Stoltz's condition is critical.

These pictures give a vivid idea of the battle of Zacatecas, the recent big conflict in Mexico, where the rebels won a decisive victory over the federals. The Huertista forces made a desperate stand at the forts and fortifications on the hills surrounding the city. They had prepared for months for the attack, but they were routed with heavy loss by Villa's men.

DENOUNCED BY MAYOR

BOSTON, July 2.—The motives of the committee of clergymen who conducted a meeting of protest in the First Baptist church, Cambridge, Tuesday night, when the removal of Commissioner Henry J. Cunningham was urged because of law violations in the University city, were denounced yesterday by Mayor Good of Cambridge.

He declared that the movement was backed by those opposed to the present democratic administration and was organized for purposes of notoriety. He stated that he had asked Rev. Mr. Macnair for the evidence of the violation but the latter refused.

"I do not intend to be scared or coerced by their threats or actions," said the mayor. "Commissioner Cunningham and myself are doing all in our power to have things right in Cambridge. It is easy enough to make charges but when we ask for the evidence Mr. Macnair and his associates do not come forward with it."

having a law passed that directed the chief of the labor bureau to publish weekly conditions of employment in the labor market in public places in Massachusetts. It is his present intention to have these two great departments of the government labor and commerce, publish weekly for general distribution the conditions of labor. A short time ago the secretary of labor said that $6,000 men were wanted in the wheat fields of the west. If this condition could be brought to the attention of those in other sections of the country where business may not be so good, who are looking for employment or some specific information concerning wages, labor conditions and such as he thinks a great deal of good may be accomplished. His efforts in this direction are meeting with success.

WHAT OF OUR CHARTER?

If the report of the grand jury on the case of the Lowell commissioners charged with exceeding their appropriations is to be considered final then the citizens of Lowell may as well conclude that it is not possible to enforce any criminal statute provided to protect good government at city hall.

The charges of violating the charter by exceeding the appropriations made date back to 1912 and then applied to but one commissioner. The matter was formally brought to the attention of District Attorney Higgins, who called in expert accountants from the state bureau of statistics to go all over the city accounts bearing upon the case in order to ascertain whether the evidence against this particular alderman was well founded and whether there was any truth in the charges of similar violation which this alderman made against some of his colleagues.

The grand jury in its report admits that there is evidence that certain aldermen exceeded the appropriations made for their respective departments. This evidence alone under the provision of the charter should convict unless there was some extraordinary reason involving the health of the city or the prevention of some calamity. It is well known that there was no such reason for exceeding appropriations in any department, and equally plain that the charter was violated in pursuance of an old custom that has been piling up debt against the city for nearly a score of years and against which the citizens seem to be entirely helpless.

It was to remedy this evil that the provision in question was inserted in the new charter with a penalty of a heavy fine or imprisonment attached.

But now according to the report of the grand jury this clause of the charter cannot be enforced for if, as the grand jury alleges, there would be no probability of a conviction in this case, there never would be a conviction in any similar case for the reason that no more conclusive evidence is ever likely to be secured.

It appears that the grand jury has practically assumed the responsibility of nullifying an important provision of our charter. What redress have the citizens of Lowell? Of what use is a charter framed to enforce good government if it is to be set aside in this manner?

What are the people of Lowell to do in such a case? Will they have to let this provision of the new charter remain as a dead letter or go to the legislature to have it modified and made mild enough to suit the gentlemen of the grand jury so that there will be nothing to bring about any long trial at considerable expense to the county or to threaten any guilty official with a severe penalty for malfeasance in office?

In spite of the finding of the grand jury and the failure of two district attorneys to enforce this law we still believe that the law is right and that those who violate it should be punished in accordance therewith.

But judging from what has just happened it appears that with the present grand jury and county officials in office, our aldermen can go on exceeding their appropriations at liberty. This is certainly a unique state of affairs.

It would appear to be necessary to change our charter so that it may be enforced without appealing to the grand jury or the county officials. This might be done by a provision that each commissioner furnish a bond as a guarantee that he will live up to the charter or else forfeit a certain amount proportionate to the gravity of his offence.

THE THRIFT MOVEMENT

The present time is certainly a propitious time for all manner of uplift societies, industrial agitations and similar movements, and the list grows larger daily. Nevertheless, there is good in most of them and there is work in abundance for those who promote their peculiar propaganda. One such society which, though organized but eight months or so, has been eminently successful in arousing general interest is the American Society for Thrift, which aims at educating the masses to the advantage of economy and wise management in the everyday things of life. If, as has been frequently charged, the high cost of modern living may be attributed for the most part to popular extravagance, thrift would lessen the burden materially and any influence which would teach thrifty habits to the public would be immensely beneficial.

The American Society for Thrift was organized in October, 1913. Shortly after its organization its officers wisely saw that it would be extremely difficult to change the habits of the masses, so the energies of the body were directed towards the educating of the young in the principles of prudent living and systematic saving. One of its first activities was the agitating of small vegetable gardens near the home, and later on it was deemed expedient to teach thrift scientifically in the higher schools and colleges. It was discovered on investigation that the tendency of school and college graduates was far more towards wildcat speculation than towards habits of thrift. So far as the teaching of anything positive on this score is concerned, the official report of the society recently declared that "there is no definite thrift education in the courses, although vocational training, domestic science and other similar subjects are being added rapidly."

Owing to the influence of the thrift movement, banks, loan societies, co-operative organizations, building associations and other financial and industrial bodies now strive to inculcate thrifty habits among the people, not only in an unsolicited spirit but in realization of its business significance. Thrift and extravagance are usually due to habit, formed early in life, and there is a great field for the cultivation of the more desirable habit among the young. The school savings banks of this city are an indication of the spirit that should be cultivated by all parents and teachers.

OUR UNEMPLOYED

Although it is very doubtful that the degree of unemployment at any time for the past three or four months was so great as was represented in some quarters, the reports of the state bureau of statistics shows that Lowell was particularly fortunate as compared with some sections of New England, especially the other textile centers. The quarterly report on unemployment among organized wage earners, as summarized by this bureau for the quarter ending in March, showed that but four out of the cities of Massachusetts that reported had lower percentages than Lowell. Gloucester had the highest percentage of unemployment, due in part to the unemployment of fish workers and to a strike among the sailmakers. Gloucester's percentage was reported as 21.5 per cent., and New Bedford comes a close second with 20 per cent. Lowell's unemployment was but half that of New Bedford or 10.4 per cent. and it is apparent that this has practically been entirely remedied during the past few months. The cities showing the least amount of unemployment for the period above-mentioned were, in their respective order: Quincy, which reported 3.6, Fitchburg with 4.3, and Lynn with 5.2.

Notwithstanding the high percentage of New Bedford, the report in summing up the returns said specifically: "There appeared to be no considerable amount of unemployment among the organized wage earners in the textile industry in any of the several textile centers. In other words, the temporary depression was not due so much to a general condition as to some local or sectional obstruction, and the same seems to hold true concerning all lines of industry. Lowell now embraces a very diversified list of industries, and conditions here are a fair indication of conditions generally throughout the country. The boot and shoe industry compares well with other seasons, iron and steel are booming and there is every indication of good business ahead."

It must be remembered in estimating the figures compiled by any bureau that strikes contribute materially to the lists of the unemployed, and New England has had its usual share of strikes during the period above mentioned. Now, however, the labor situation seems unusually placid, and only the confirmed pessimist anticipated stagnated conditions.

RIVER NAVIGATION

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Lawrence chamber of commerce, it was voted to adopt the recommendation of the new secretary, Mr. Sherman, who had suggested that Merrimack river improvement be made the chief of the three main activities of the chamber for the coming year. The other two interests are the education and enlargement of the chamber's membership and the "expansion of a varied number of industries." The Merrimack river project is now in its crucial stage as the future depends on the co-operation of the federal government and it is all important that all the cities and smaller communities along the bank of the river should get together and resolve to do what Lawrence intends to do. Only by united effort and tireless support will the national government be moved to act promptly and the importance of the proposition urges all who are interested in this section to leave nothing undone which would ensure its success.

Navigation of the Merrimack is by far the most important industrial scheme affecting the Merrimack valley at the present time, and it should not wait for the fullest measure of intelligent popular support. In other parts of the country the citizens have secured similar favors from the national government by enthusiastic effort, though it would be difficult to name any recent government activity of a like nature in which the possibilities are greater.

THE BLACKLIST CONDEMNED

than many are ready to acknowledge. The verdict arose out of a case against an association of lumber dealers, from the evidence given it was evident that the wholesale and retail dealers had an apparently legal agreement as to their business methods. When any of the merchants broke the agreement a notice of it was sent to all the others, without comment. Quite naturally this notice created a prejudice against the merchant most directly concerned, and in the ways of human nature he suffered in his business relationship as a result. The decision is also expected to have a bearing on the custom of some labor unions in describing certain employers as "unfair" in official circulars.

KEEP STREETS CLEAN

In spite of all that has been said officially and unofficially in this city, a great lack of respect for cleanliness and civic tidiness is apparent among too many of our citizens. In the center of the city where one might expect order and neatness, papers and other refuse are thrown around indiscriminately, and some stores are not any too particular when unpacking cases to see that the waste is put away carefully. Undoubtedly the condition is due in part to the persistent negligence of the municipal authorities to make provision for what must be discarded and it is certain that the addition of a few more artistic waste receptacles to our municipal equipment would have a salutary influence on the public. Clean up campaigns lose half their value if their lesson is neglected for fifty-one weeks of the year.

TAG DAY

The plan to sell tags here indiscriminately tomorrow for the relief of the Salem sufferers is an excellent one and there is no doubt that it will be well patronized by our people. Many who cannot afford to give large sums would like to help in a lesser degree, and this would give them the opportunity they desire. If anything could intensify the first appeal of the stricken region it is the heavy rain of the past few days which must bring gloom indeed to the thousands who look out from under the roofs of charity and see it washing the blackened ruins of what once was home. Now for earnest volunteers to sell tags. Lowell will make a generous response.

In strange contrast with the fire-eating manifestos of some months ago were the speeches made in the shorn house of lords this week. Instead of declarations of independence and undying hatred to Irish nationality there was a very evident desire to accept the few crumbs of comfort contained in the bill for the temporary exclusion of Ulster. When Carson's army drilled in the presence of an indolent majesty, it was much easier to bluster than now when the splendid body of Irish volunteers stand ready on the opposite side determined to prevent their country from being again thrown down from the pinnacle of hope. Parliamentary agitation and superb leadership, backed by a strong army, have always been good for Ireland.

Roosevelt is made happy by the report that in six weeks his voice will be all right. The country congratulates him, though a great many good people secretly wish that the doctor had imposed two or three years' silence as the price of ultimate cure. Let us hope, however, that as the voice improves, the quality of his recent speeches will improve also.

Alas for juvenile enthusiasm! Some safe and sane lobby must have prevailed on the weather man.

MANY DESERTED FELINES

I see by the annual report of the Animal Rescue League, which has just appeared, that the stretch of beach between Hull and Nantasket, on the south shore, has the worst record of the report as far as deserted cats and kittens are concerned. Sixty-three of these stray felines were found during October, November and December out of 180 found altogether at all the beaches which does not speak very well for the humanity of summer cottagers on the Hull peninsula. The league will take unwanted animals to its receiving station at Carver street, to find good homes for them or dispose of them painlessly, if they are notified in time to send their agents.

VERY COLD LAW

Winter v. Winter, 145 Northwestern Reporter, 709, is a case in which is determined whether the husband, by remarrying, may obtain exemption from the liability which he incurred by reason of a former marriage. A decree of divorce had been obtained against the appellee, and later the payment of alimony for the support of his wife and child was decreed. Executed on the judgment was returned unsatisfied, and a garnishee summons was thereupon issued. The garnishee was duly served, and the defendant Leonard Winter set up that he was again married, was living with his wife, and was the head of a family; that he had neither land, town lots, nor a house subject to exemption as a homestead; that he and his wife were boarding, and that they had no household furniture or other property except wearing apparel. The district court discharged the garnishee, and plaintiff appealed. The supreme court of Nebraska held that the husband could not defeat the collection of alimony by remarrying and claiming the benefit of the exemption law. The court said that the law ought not to permit him to consider himself a shield that will protect him in his marital and domestic recklessness. By getting married again he ought not to be permitted to relieve himself from the burden of support. "The branch of jurisprudence which treats of marriage is most important. Marriage furnishes the basis of a permanent and Christian civilization. The duties assumed under it should be conscientiously discharged. Courts of equity will compel the enforcement of marriage obligations, and no mere rule of law sought to be interpreted by him will permit the derelict husband to escape the burden of supporting his wife and children." The court held that the object of the statute relating to exemptions was the protection of the family and not the protection of the husband. "It could never have been designed to allow a man to escape his obligations to his family. Why, then, should it not protect the family against him, as well as protect it against a creditor?"

THE ASSASSIN

The unpleasant reflection that must occur to every one is that these persons who are just crazy enough to commit murder, but not for anything else, seem to be increasing in number. Assassinations are growing more frequent and the spread of democracy is not preventing them. It is encouraging them, or at least affording increased opportunities.—Newport News.

ANOTHER TRIBUTE

We like everything in the souvenir edition of the Lowell (Mass.) Sun, issued May 6, 1914. There are 43 pages of attractive display, in addition to much interesting text matter, and of course the greater portion of the work was produced on Linotype. The Sun always was a fine looking paper, typographically, but this souvenir edition, in our opinion, surpasses any previous number.—Linotype Bulletin, N. Y.

A DRUNKEN STUDY

"There are various stages, such as 'quarter drunk,' 'half drunk,' and 'real drunk.' There are the stages of being vivacious, foxy, tipsy, and on a 'high lonesome,' and it is about as difficult to determine when a young lady gets to be an old maid as it is to tell when a man has taken enough alcohol to stimulate to pass the line between a 'jolly sober' and a 'gentlemanly drunk.'"—Meriden (Conn.) Journal.

OUR EDUCATION

That education in our schools has gradually become ineffective almost to the point of failure, has for some time been admitted, however reluctantly, by many of our foremost educators. It is in the face of such circumstances the term can be honestly applied. And that the sex-problem in one form, at least enters generously into the conditions that have brought about this state of affairs, has been conceded.—Haverhill Herald.

SALEM FIRE

There is no "disguised blessing" in the loss at South Salem, which ought to have been imagined from a fire which started a mile away and had to leap the wide space made by the railroad tracks southeast of the tunnel. The permanent blessing that will come to Salem will be a high pressure water service and plenty of motor fire apparatus. Meanwhile the immediate blessing in the generous horn of plenty pouring its wealth of sympathy and cash from the whole nation into the laps of the stricken people.—Lynn Item.

HARVEST PROSPECTS

There is every present indication that the sun and the clouds and all the elements that make for bountiful harvests are working this year for the prosperity of the North American continent. Frost prospects are of an unusually favorable character, and in the United States the outlook warrants the belief that the yield will be between 500,000,000 and 7,000,000,000 bushels. In Canada, also, the estimated surplus for export is high. Had the yield in other main sources of world supply been equally exceptional, it might easily have resulted in a glut of the wheat market, but the crops of Argentina and India, two of the largest early contributors, have fallen below expectations, and the slight increase in the Australian crop will not go far toward making up the deficiency. It is therefore, the promise of abundant crops in North America comes to fruition, and the European figures, as is likely, fall considerably below those of last year, the demand will be on a very extensive scale—and prices will probably rule as high, at least, as usual.—Manchester Leader.

IS YOUNG GIFFORD MURDERER?

Jerome Opens Defence
With Attempt to Prove
Alibi for Accused

Four Witnesses Say He
Seen in Clute's Auto

ALBANY, N. Y., July 2.—Four witnesses swore yesterday that Malcolm Gifford, Jr., on trial here charged with murdering Frank J. Clute, was not the passenger that Clute carried in his automobile the night he was slain. A fifth witness was somewhat uncertain, but was strongly of the opinion that the man he saw in the car was not Gifford. Their testimony opened the defence's case.

Not Man in Auto

The star witness for the defence was Samuel D. Gibson of Troy. He told of seeing Clute on the night of the slaying cranking his car at the spot where his body was found the next morning. The witness also declared that he saw Clute's passenger leave the car.

"Would you know that man if you saw him again?" Mr. Jerome asked.

"I would," Gibson responded.

"Malcolm, stand up," continued Jerome. The courtroom became quiet.

The young defendant rose slowly, adjusted his cravat, shook out the creases in his trousers and looked straight at the witness.

"Is that the man?" queried Jerome.

"Yes," replied Gibson.

"It is not; the passenger was an older man," Gibson replied.

Six other witnesses testified the prisoner's reputation was "very good." They included Joseph H. Sawyer and Charles A. Buffum, two of Gifford's former instructors at the school headquartered in Easthampton, Mass.

"The close of the state's case yesterday was marked by testimony intended to show that Gifford pawned an automatic revolver similar to the one that killed Clute.

It was thought last night the defence would be able to close its case tomorrow.

Efforts of District Attorney Alexander today were centered on proving that a revolver similar to the one with which Frank J. Clute was killed, was pawned by Malcolm Gifford, Jr., in Northampton, Mass., last winter. The pawned revolver was offered in evidence.

Warren T. Risley, a pawnbroker of Northampton, testified that he had loaned $7 on a revolver some time last winter and that he issued a ticket to a person who signed it "M. Gifford." He was not asked if Malcolm Gifford, Jr., was the one who signed the ticket.

William J. Kinsley, a New York handwriting expert, testified that the person who signed the pawn ticket for the revolver and the one whose signature appeared on a check and a baggage receipt signed by Gifford were identical.

On the first day of April, 1913, somewhere between 9 and 10 o'clock, five shots in rapid succession were heard on the high road not 20 minutes' walk out of Albany. Soon after the motorist of a passing electric noticed an automobile, vacant, but with lights burning, standing on the road. Early the next morning the car was still there and passing citizens noticed blood stains on the seat and in the discolored dust beneath.

A trail of blood led them into the bushes, where a dead body, later identified as that of the chauffeur, Frank J. Clute, lay concealed in the bushes. The vest pocket empty. Four days later a blood-stained pair of gloves, size 7-8, was found in New York, was found near the scene of the murder.

AMERICAN TROOPS ALONG TEXAS BORDER THINK INTERVENTION IS SURE, AS REFUGEES ARRIVE

1—U.S. REGULARS ON BORDER. 2—AMERICANS FLEEING FROM MEXICO ACROSS EL PASO BRIDGE. PHOTO © 1914 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.

EL PASO, July 2.—United States soldiers stationed along the border here as well as Americans who are crossing the border from Mexico into Texas for safety believe that intervention is now absolutely sure. With the breakup of the A. B. C. peace conference it is figured that the United States will soon have to step in and march to Mexico City as well as send its troops across the border.

FUNERAL OF MURDERED ARCHDUKE AND WIFE

An Imposing Demonstration Accompanied Landing of Bodies at Trieste, Austria—City Draped in Black—Military Honors

TRIESTE, Austria, July 2.—An imposing demonstration today accompanied the landing here from Austrian battleship Viribus Unitis of the bodies of the assassinated Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his consort, the Duchess of Hohenberg. The entire community thronged the shore or took up positions on board craft in the harbor at an early hour.

At San Carlo square a large space had been kept clear for the two catafalques which were draped in gold and black. On the left stood the generals, admirals and other officials of the army and navy, with the commander of the Austro-Hungarian navy, Rear-Admiral Oskar Hanse, at their head. On the right were the governor of the maritime province, Prince Hohenlohe-Schillinghusen and many other state and municipal officers in brilliant uniforms. An enormous gathering of members of various societies and deputations were present. From the square the bodies were taken to the railroad station; the hearse being drawn by six black horses.

Longest Procession Ever Seen
Seven coaches filled with wretches

headed the procession, which was the longest ever seen in this city. Behind the hearse marched the members of the households of the Archduke and Duchess, the provincial governor and a long procession of naval and military officers, civil officials and delegations of all kinds, with two companies of soldiers in the rear.

On its way to the southern railway station, whence the bodies were to be conveyed to Vienna, the procession passed between dense masses of people. All the men stood with uncovered heads and most of the women were mourning. Lines of infantry and blue-jackets aided by municipal guards and firemen were drawn up along the whole route.

All Buildings Draped

The buildings were mostly draped with black and all the business houses were closed. The coffins reached the railway station at 3.30 a. m. and military honors were there rendered by a detachment of a composite regiment of Bosnians and Herzegovians.

Navy petty officers placed the coffins on a railway car which had been arranged as a mortuary chapel. Bishop Tryphon Pedersoli then uttered a blessing and the doors of the cars were sealed, and the train departed for Vienna.

Come to the Demonstration and See the Only Real Stains.

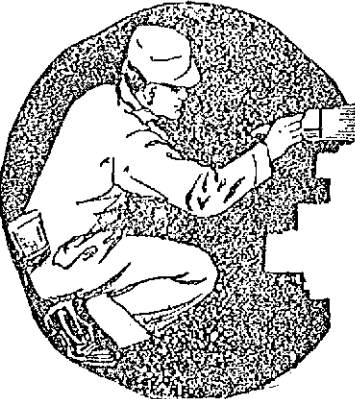

Don't judge whiting-staining by the crude and tawdry colors made by the cheap builders and painters, which are nothing but coarse paints (thinned with kerosene or some other inflammable kerosene). They give you no idea of the beautiful, velvety coloring effects of Cabot's Creosote Stains. Cabot's colors are soft, transparent—bringing out the natural beauty of the wood—and lasting. Creosote is "the best wood preservative known," and reduces inflammability. Result: the most artistic and economical coloring for shingles, siding, and other exterior wood-work.

Prices in 5 gal. tins, gal. 50c, 75c, 85c, according to the colors.

GUILTY OF THREATENING

Frederick C. Gale, Treasurer of F. C. Gale & Co., Convicted in Boston Court

BOSTON, July 2.—Frederick C. Gale, treasurer of the F. C. Gale & Co. corporation, dealing in jewelry and silverware, was found guilty by Judge Parmenter in the municipal court yesterday afternoon of threatening bodily harm to Jacob L. Jackson, a merchant tailor at 12 West street. Judge Parmenter continued the case for disposition at 12 West street.

Jackson said that Gale, on June 5, entered his office and accused him of writing anonymous letters to Mrs. Gale in which he accused the defendant of improper conduct. He said Gale threatened to cut the witness' tongue out and "try it on the street" and offered him $100 if he would just come where Gale could take a punch at him. Two employees of Jackson corroborated his story.

Gale testified that since he was a witness for a woman who had an action against Jackson the latter had hit it in for him and has answered his wife and himself. He said he warned Jackson not to write any more letters to Mrs. Gale, but did not threaten him. Gale lives at 556 Newbury street.

LAUDS VERA CRUZ HEROES

SECRETARY DANIELS MENTIONS MAY STATE MEN FOR HEROISM IN TWO DAYS' FIGHTING

BOSTON, July 2.—Major General George Barnett, commandant of the U. S. Marine corps, announced to the service yesterday that Secretary Daniels of the navy has just written special letters of commendation to the officers and enlisted men who were distinguished for gallantry during the two days' fighting of Vera Cruz last April.

Among those mentioned by Major Barnett as having received letters of commendation is Capt. Walter N. Hill, a Massachusetts man, who led to the front a detachment of marines from the Charlestown navy yard. Major Barnett reports that Captain Hill is commended by the secretary for "eminent and conspicuous conduct in both days' fighting."

Captain Hill is yet in Mexico, where he is watching the extension of the canal. His father, Edwin Hill, is always practicing in Boston and living in Jamaica Plain.

The same order commends eight marines for their heroic rescue, under heavy fire, of Corporal Daniel A. Hagerty and Electrician, Gisborne. The world is already familiar with Hagerty's homecoming—triumphant though in death. Gisborne is a resident of Quincy, Mass., and is still in Mexico.

Private Rufus E. Percy, a Vermont boy, shot in the fighting, was rescued by his companion, Private Lee Mahr. Secretary Daniels commends Private Mahr for "conspicuous courage, coolness and skill."

WOMEN PRISONERS FOUGHT LIKE WILDCATS

Scene of Great Violence When Two Militant Suffragettes Were Arraigned on the Charge of Smashing Windows

CARNARVON, Wales, July 2.—A scene of great violence was created today by two militant suffragettes, Georgina Lloyd and Phyllis North, when they were brought up for trial at the local sessions on charges connected with a window-smashing campaign in June at Criccieth in the constituency of Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd George. The prisoners fought like wildcats and it took five wardens to keep them in the prisoners' enclosure. A detective from Scotland Yard told the court that Miss North was a member of the arson squad which had set fire to the pavilion in the botanical gardens at Kew several months ago and that a short time ago she had inherited a fortune of $450,000.

BOB KELLY A GREAT FIELDER

Lowell First-sacker Play- ing a Remarkable Game Around the Bag

If He Develops Into a Fair Batter Local Club Certain to Sell Him

BOB KELLY

Bob Kelly, the youngster playing the initial sack for Lowell this season, is one of the greatest fielding guardsians of the base hit bag that has been seen in the "little old league" for years.

He was picked up by Manager Gray on the recommendations offered by many baseball experts who watched him perform in the semi-pro games around New York. The Yankees took hold of Kelly last fall but left him a free agent shortly after on account of his inexperience.

Kelly has helped out the local club wonderfully by his marvelous work on the defensive. Although not exceptionally tall Bob had a faculty of reaching out for or up to as the case may be, and pulling down with his pegs for putouts.

There was just one fault with his fielding when he joined the club last spring and that fault he seldom demonstrates nowadays. Kelly at first seemed to think that the team was without a first baseman and tried to cover grounders which should have been left to the second sacker. He also played in on many bunts which did not belong to him. This fault of trying to cover too much ground, however, has fortunately been remedied and he is playing the bag in well high perfect form.

His stick work during the first few weeks of the season was very poor. Although he is not a good batter now he has improved to a big extent over his early season showing. Kelly pulls away a great deal while taking his swing and is usually weak against left handers.

If the youngster can get to hitting the ball for even a fair average the Lowell management will have no difficulty in disposing of him to some club in the big show.

MISUSE OF LETTERHEADS $319,771 FOR SALE

SENATORS OVERMAN AND CHILTON WERE PRINCIPAL WITNESSES BEFORE COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Senators Overman and Chilton were principal witnesses today before a committee investigating charges of misuse of official letterheads for promotion of a North Carolina gold mining project. Mr. Overman testified he bought $2000 of stock in the mine when a treasury expert told him the property was worth sixty millions. Mr. Chilton testified he owned $2500 of the stock.

Senator Overman testified that his stenographer had written for a promoter letters highly commendatory of the project without his knowledge upon letterheads of the rules committee. The stenographer corroborated this and a messenger told of giving some of the letterheads to the promoter, by whom the senator testified, his son-in-law was employed as an attorney.

Senator Chilton said he knew nothing of the use of letterheads until later, when he found the promoter had been using it.

C. H. Martin, a clerk to the rules committee, testified he bought $2000 worth of stock before the letter appeared. John W. Hickey, clerk to the census committee, said he had ordered about 20 copies of the letter on committee paper at the request of the promoter. He testified he had bought 1000 shares on margin through a local broker before the letter was written and lost it. He saw nothing unusual in the request for 30 copies.

FITCHBURG SIGNS TWO PLAYERS
FITCHBURG, July 2.—Manager Lake of the Fitchburg team yesterday gave "Back" Ryan, an outfielder, his unconditional release. Lake signed Nye, a first baseman, and Dwyer, an outfielder, and they played yesterday. Nye was with Lowell and Haverhill early in the season and also played with Brockton in the Colonial league. Dwyer comes from Villanova college.

TOTAL CONTRIBUTIONS RAISED TO DATE—$1,178 ADDITIONAL FROM BROCKTON

BOSTON, July 2.—Contributions today brought the total of the Salem fund up to $319,771. Among the largest gifts received today were $1,178 additional from the citizens of Brockton, and subscriptions of $1,000 each from citizens of Brockton, Mrs. Emma J. Sincik, the Hamilton, Ohio, chamber of commerce, and Maria Wheatland, citizens of Marblehead (additional gift), American Sugar Refining Co. and J. M. Forbes & Co. One gift of $1000 was received from a person who merely gave the initials "C. E."

TRADING WAS LIGHT

AT OPENING OF MARKET—WILL DISCUSS WILSON-MORGAN CONFERENCE

NEW YORK, July 2.—Irregularity was the only feature of the operations on the stock exchange today. Trading was exceedingly light, even compared with recent conditions. Changes in the leader's consisted of minor gains in U. S. Steel, the Harrisons and Amal, with unimportant declines in Reading and St. Paul. A sale of 100 shares of United Drygoods at $3, a fraction under its last quotation was recorded.

The dullness of the early session was accentuated by the fact that no transactions in such important issues as Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania were recorded during the first hour. Street discussion with much interest the visit of J. P. Morgan to the White House. Although it was unofficially stated that Mr. Morgan's meeting with the president had no connection with New Haven affairs, that stock soon dropped to the lowest record in its history, namely 43 3/4. Announcement of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton receivership was received with expressions of relief. Bonds were irregular.

The list did little more than mark time in the early afternoon. Changes of note were few, N. P. showing some heaviness, while S. P. was relatively firm. Indications that the banks are to close heavily on the weekly cash movement had no effect on local monetary conditions.

Prices manifested a downward trend in the early afternoon but recovered later. Amalgamated was the feature of the more active stocks with a gain of a point on better prices for the metal. A nine point rise in Sears Roebuck was the feature of the special group.

The usual anti-holiday conditions prevailed today in the stock market. Trading was light and limited to professional. Sentiment was uncertain at the outset but inclined to moderate optimism later. The close was steady.

CAVE IS FOUND

Cavern Discovered in Arizona Resembles Gothic Structure

What is described as one of the world's most remarkable natural caverns was uncovered accidentally by miners in Shattuck, Ariz., recently. Other similar caverns have been opened in the Bisbee district. In one of the older parts of the Copper Queen mine one of these has become famous locally as the auditorium in which a fraternal organization met in solemn convocation in the earlier days of the camp. All of these, however, are insignificant before the one more recently discovered.

The doomed interior looks like the rotunda of a cathedral and is lined with crystal and coral-like formations that make it glitter. The geologist in the employ of the mining company upon whose property the cavern was discovered describes the cavern in the Engineering and Mining Journal. Its walls were first discovered by a drift on a 300-foot level, which fortuitously struck it in its lowest and in a central point. A drift a few feet on either side would have passed beneath it, and have left it, perhaps, unknown for years. In shape it is a huge lens, approximately following the bending planes of the enclosing limestone at an inclination of about 35 degrees, and its length, covering a horizontal projection. Its upper extremity is 173 feet above the 300-foot level and the diameter of its circular projection is 340 feet. The vertical distance between roof and floor, where its height is greatest, has been roughly estimated at 80 feet.

"One's first impression of this great cavern, now electrically lighted, with its stalactite-studded dome, is that of the shadowy interior of a Gothic cathedral. Close examination reveals myriad forms of calcite, crystalline and amorphous, with all its vagaries of structure and color. It is apparent from the structure that a lime-impregnated solution had filled portions of the cavern subsequent to the original formation of the stalactites and stalagmites; left its quota as a mineral deposit, coral-like deposits on the stalagmites and afterward drained away. In many cases a second generation of stalagmites has formed, and in places there is evidence that this alteration of arid and subaqueous deposition has taken place several times.

"A unique occurrence is shown, known in local parlance as 'cat-clo wiggles'; these curious, serpentine growths, ranging from one-eighth to half an inch in diameter, emanate from the limestone hanging wall in the most amazing spirals and volutes or shoot out at every conceivable angle. Each one, as described by Professor Alexander H. Phillips of Princeton university, seems to be a complex parallel growth of elongated and curved rhombohedrons."

OLD FASHIONED LOVE SAWED PRISON BARS

MORE OF IT AND LESS EUGENICS IS WHAT WE NEED, SAYS DR. HORNER

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 2.—Less eugenics and more old-fashioned love is what the race needs, said Dr. J. R. Richey Horner, of the Cleveland Homoeopathic Medical college, who today read a paper on sex hygiene before the bureau of sanitary science of the American institute of homeopathy.

"Eugenics and education go hand in hand," Dr. Horner said. "Children, however, should be given instruction before the age of nine and the instruction should be given individually rather than in classes. The child should be taught to like his mother in respect, else he will hold his mother in respect. If laws for eugenics are passed they must be universal, else they will not count for much."

CANCELLED WIRE CONTRACTS

NEW YORK, July 2.—Charles A. Wilson, general superintendent of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., testified at the inter-state commerce commission hearing today that within the past four or five years the company had cancelled leased wire contracts amounting to four or five hundred thousand dollars a year because of irregular use of the wire. "All kinds of things are being attempted on the wires all the time," he said.

Mr. Wilson said a close watch was kept by the company to ascertain the character of messages sent over the wires. Many of the contracts cancelled, he said, were for wires used to transmit race track or bucketshop news.

Dr. Blue would not indicate today what measures would be recommended to rid New Orleans of the disease.

Downpour of Rain Saved Town From Fate Similar to One Salem Suffered

DANVERS, July 2.—This town was saved by the heavy downpour of rain this morning from a fate similar to the one Salem suffered a week ago today. Shortly after 1 a. m. a menacing fire was discovered in the large wooden factory of the R. M. S. Leather company at 10 Harbor street, Danversport. It rapidly spread to the big lumber yard of the Calvin Putnam Lumber company at 128 Liberty street, and help was quickly called, after a general alarm was sounded here from Salem, Peabody and Beverly.

An early estimate of the total damage by the flames set it at $50,000.

A man living in a cottage on Harbor street, diagonally opposite the R. M. S. Leather company's factory, which is conducted by Irving Skelton and Henry Russell, was awakened by crackling of flames and upon looking from a window he saw the fire which enveloped the leather factory. He pulled in the alarm. Almost immediately upon his arrival Chief Engineer Michael H. Barry of the local fire department ordered a general alarm.

Despite the efforts of the entire local fire department the flames reached out to the Calvin Putnam Lumber company's yards, which adjoin the company's yards at 128 Liberty street. Three large tenement houses around the corner from Harbor street, River street, several houses in Harbor street, the Widen-Lord Tanning company works at 123 Liberty street and several other large sheds, a mill and other factories in the vicinity were seriously menaced by the flames. Chief Harry communicated with night Captain of Police Thomas E. Blodgett, who telephoned to Peabody, Salem and Beverly for help.

Great Scare for Neighbors

Shortly before 2 this morning the flames promised to race on up to the "square" at Danvers. Residents rushed from their homes in their excitement, which was great, inasmuch as they had not yet fully recovered from the fright they received from witnessing the Salem conflagration, just a week ago this afternoon and evening. Within a short time the flames had swept over an acre and a half. The illumination was visible for several miles around. But the rain had been pouring down in torrents for several hours and the roofs of the buildings were water-soaked. The steady downpour was the chief factor in preventing the further spread of the fire.

The R. M. S. Leather company's factory was a mass of ruins almost before the local firemen got down to their work. They were obliged to confine their efforts to preventing the neighboring buildings from being destroyed. Several great piles of lumber were burning fiercely and the dryhouse and a shed filled with shingles and clapboards were also in flames. Several streams were played upon these.

The big mill of the lumber company, which is considered a "fireproof" building, was kept wet down in an effort to check the flames. The mill, which is in the rear of the yard, far from the burning lumber, was finally saved.

Because of the excellent work by the local firemen, directed by Chief Barry, aided by the rainstorm, the fire was well in hand when the firemen arrived from Peabody, Salem and Beverly, and their services were not required. All the neighboring factories and dwellings were saved.

Charles P. Seale is president and Isaac D. Pope is treasurer and general manager of the lumber company. They could not accurately estimate their loss this morning. It is partially covered by insurance.

After two hours' hard work the firemen had the flames under control. The rainy air was thick for a time with burning embers and sparks, which landed on the roofs of adjoining buildings, and had these buildings not been thoroughly wet down by the rain almost nothing could have prevented a dangerous spread of the fire.

The ruins were smoldering this morning early and firemen were at the scene doing the final work of extinguishing the embers.

In Seizure of Panama Canal Du Bois Says Colombia Should Get $25,000,000

HALSTEAD, Pa., July 2.—In a statement issued last night dealing with the proposed Colombian treaty James T. DuBois, who was United States minister to Colombia under the Taft administration, takes issue with the views recently expressed by Col. Roosevelt, who was president at the time Panama was seized. Mr. DuBois, who was sent to Colombia by President Taft to arrange a settlement treaty, denies Mr. Roosevelt's declaration that the people of Panama were a unit in demanding the revolution. He says that "a handful of men who were to be the direct beneficiaries of the revolution conceived it." He claims Colombia should get $25,000,000 in indemnity.

DEE IS A GOOD BALL PLAYER "BIG THREE" WHO ARE MEN BEHIND THE CUP CHALLENGER SHAMROCK IV

"Shorty" Boots Them Once in Awhile but Who Doesn't?

The Lynn Boy a Factor in Lowell's Victories This Season

"Shorty" Dee, the Lynn boy playing shortstop for the Lowell club, is a sterling infielder as has been demonstrated on more occasions than one. Just to show that this statement is impartial and that the writer is not doing press agent duty for "Shorty" we'll size up the Lowell shortstop.

To begin with, Dee is a pretty shrewd ball player. He knows the game from all angles and takes advantage of every slip that the opposing team makes.

"Shorty" is a good fielder, although, of course, he boots them once in a while the same as all the rest of them. And sometimes his boots come in the wrong time when runs are the result. However, there isn't a ball player in any league who doesn't commit errors occasionally. It is very seldom that the Lynn boy pulls a bonehead play on the defensive.

At the bat he is an excellent lead-off man. He looks them over well and plays his pitcher. If the opposing pitcher is wild "Shorty" makes him more nervous by his tactics at the plate. He has drawn many passes this season just through playing the pitcher.

Now that we've named his good points we'll take a look at his weak ones. "Shorty" is too much of an individual player on the paths. Once in a while he takes a nap and gets caught flat-footed at a station and he has tried to steal a base on some occasions when it was inadvisable.

Then again Dee takes too much up on himself in the field oftentimes. Although it is always better policy to have too many players after a ball than not any yet a player who keeps running out of his position is certain to split a putout some day, and demoralize his fellow infielders.

But after everything is said and done "Shorty" Dee is a mighty good ball player and a big factor in the success of the Lowell club. His weak points are far outnumbered by his ability on the ball field and Manager Gray is fortunate in having the boy from Lynn in his infield.

LIPTON NICHOLSON BURTON

This picture was snapped on board Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht, the Erin previous to a recent trial of the new Shamrock IV. Sir Thomas, the owner, is on the left, next comes Charles Nicholson, the designer, and on the right is W. P. Burton, England's most famous amateur skipper, who will handle the boat in the cup races. They are all very much pleased with the showing made by the challenger in her trials against the Shamrock III and predict a victory over the American defender.

10 INNING GAME

Haverhill Scores 6-5 Victory Over the Local Team

Three lonely hits were all that Lowell could collect off Sothorn yesterday afternoon at Dan Clohecy's sand lot down in Haverhill and although Daniel's boys helped the local team out remarkably by four large, juicy errors, Lowell was beaten out in the tenth inning by the score of 6-5.

Yelle pounded the pill over the right field fence in the tenth session, thereby breaking up the contest. Smith, the Haverhill first sacker, banged out two home runs. Weaver, Dukette and Dee were the only local players to hit safely. The score:

ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

In spite of the rain here today the Lowell club went to Fitchburg. Word was received by telephone that conditions denoted fair weather and that the rain had held up in that town. The players took the noon train with very poor grace for they all thought the weather man had given them a day of rest.

Fifteen errors were made in the four games played by the National league teams yesterday. Five games were played in the New England league and 17 misplays was the result. The three games played off in the Colonial league contained 25 muffs and wild pegs.

Elmer Collins, the Lynn pace follower, who was injured at the Revere track Tuesday, is not so badly hurt as at first thought. His skull is not fractured and although it will be some time before he once more mounts a bicycle, the physicians say he will recover.

The track and field games which are to be held at the Sacred Heart picnic on the afternoon of the Fourth are attracting a great deal of attention from local athletes. The various events promise to be closely contested.

The Giants are well in the lead in the National league. McGraw's team is 44-12 games ahead of the Cubs. To the American league race the Detroit Tigers while Indianapolis remains supreme among the outlaws by the narrow margin of a half game over Chicago. Burckett's boys are leading Lawrence by 1-2 games. Lowell is six full games behind Worcester.

The only member of the Union Boat club of Boston to qualify in the world famous Henley-on-the-Thames rowing regatta yesterday in the single sculls was Dr. Jyer, who sprang a surprise on the dogstays. The Henley regatta has been an annual event in England's athletic history since 1859.

Francis Oulmet, the Brookline golfer who returned home yesterday after his shot at the English golf championships, offered no ill for his failure. If more athletes would follow the example of Oulmet and say nothing, win, lose or draw, it would look much better for themselves as well as for the particular branch of sports they are entered in.

Arthur Duffy and Peeper Donovan will furnish the feature event at the outing of the old time athletes to be held at Holliston a week from Sunday. Duffy and Donovan will speed it up for 50 yards. Both of these old time sprinters has covered the century in 93.5 seconds.

Phinney Boyle meets K. O. Eggers tonight in the main bout at the University A. C. of Cambridge. The local boxer is in good shape and expects to return with at least a draw. Eggers is a tough nut to crack, however. The New Yorker is the same featherweight who was held for manslaughter last winter down in New Orleans when his opponent died shortly after their battle. Eggers was later released, the court holding him blameless.

Dukette worked very smoothly at second yesterday and got one of the three hits. The ex-collegian looks like a ball player. He handles himself well in the field and takes a healthy swing at the ball. If he should happen to get hitting before the return of Captain Burke the second bag job would be all up in the air.

Worcester's double defeat at the hands of Lawrence yesterday must have sent Jesse Burckett into spasms. With Lawrence already creeping close to his shoulder yesterday's games meant a lot to both clubs. Harry Aubrey was one of the big factors in pulling up the Lawrence runs.

Gardner Brooks is beginning to be well known outside of New England. He has been offered a bout with James White by an Albany promoter and a Butte, Montana club is also after his services. Hector Melnis is still arranging his matches.

LIFE WAS THREATENED

Dr. Carman, in Whose Office Mrs. Bailey Was Murdered, Makes Statement

FREEDPORT, N. Y., July 2.—Two weeks before Mrs. Louise Bailey was murdered in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman, someone called Dr. Carman on the telephone and threatened his life. With apparent reluctance, and more than 36 hours after the tragedy, the physician today gave this information to the district attorney. Dr. Carman refused to say whether the threatening message came from a man or a woman.

On the strength of this information, detectives continued to work on the theory that the assassin who on Tuesday night broke a window in the doctor's office, pointed a revolver through the hole and fired the shot that killed Mrs. Bailey, a patient, had sought the doctor's life and not hers.

The authorities decided to postpone the coroner's inquest until after the autopsy which will be held today at the Bailey residence in Hempstead.

The discovery of a telephone device connecting the physician's office with his wife's bedroom closet, which seemed to promise important revelations last night, had brought forth nothing definite today beyond the fact that Mrs. Carman was jealous of her

CLOUDS OF GRASSHOPPERS
Devonshire Section About Saratoga, N. Y. Where Winded Plagues are Swept Up by the Quirt
SARATOGA, N. Y., July 2.—Great clouds of grasshoppers were blown into this village yesterday from nearby rural towns where they have been devastating the farms for several weeks.
Many crops have been entirely ruined, particularly in the town of Wilton, where all means of fighting the plague have proved unavailing. Shopkeepers swept up the grasshoppers yesterday in quart pails.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Prosperity and depression were pictured in another senate debate today. Republicans cited instances of industrial dullness and business recession while democrats asserted that business conditions were better in the United States than anywhere else in the world.
Senator Simmons started the argument when he quoted the official treasury figures showing a surplus for the fiscal year just ended.
"The treasury may be in a satisfactory condition," interjected Senator Gallinger, republican, "but the industries of the country certainly are not."
He then read from letters saying a New Hampshire shoe manufacturer had lost a $200,000 yearly contract with a Baltimore customer who found he could buy shoes cheaper in England under the new tariff. Senator Gallinger also presented correspondence to show that the wool manufacturing industry in New Hampshire had fallen off.
Senator Hollis, democrat, replied that a personal investigation in New Hampshire had convinced him that labor was better employed there than it ever had been before.

THE FISHER-ELLIS BILL SAYS HE WAS MISQUOTED

SUBSTITUTE WAS OFFERED IN THIS SENATE BY PRES. CALVIN COOLIDGE
BOSTON, July 2.—A substitute was offered in the senate today by President Calvin Coolidge to take the place of the Fisher-Ellis bill which would separate the Boston & Maine road from the New York, New Haven & Hartford system, but giving the state an option on the Boston & Maine track now held for the New Haven by the Boston Railroad Holding Co.
President Coolidge's bill differed from the Fisher-Ellis bill in that it provided no option on the Boston & Maine stock. Mr. Coolidge said he had offered his bill because the New Haven officials had declared themselves opposed to the Fisher-Ellis bill and that they would not accept the bill even if it passed the legislature.
WASHINGTON, July 2.—Dr. J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, today declared that he was misquoted in reports which represented him as having said:
"We need a large army because with our great variety of interests we are naturally the most middle-class nation in the world."

BUNTING CLUB

To Hold Another Track Meet—Bunting Track Team Practicing

The Bunting club expects to hold one of the nicest track meets held in Lowell this year on July 26th, this being their second attempt in that direction. Although Duffy has been declared a professional by the Canadian amateur authorities and cannot therefore run here, the Bunting club will try to get together a fine lot of runners nevertheless. Madden, Keronen, and Hennigan are among those who have been written to.

The races will all be amateur and sanctioned by the N. E. A. A. U. They will also be handicap affairs. Besides the modified marathon the following events will be run: Pole vault, broad jump, one mile run, 550 yards race, 440 yards race, 220 yards race, and 100 yards race. Entry blanks can be procured at 35 Weed street, from George Pinsky, the secretary. A fine concert will be given during the afternoon by a big band.
The Bunting club track team now has quite a few men who practice most every night on the track. The club has decided to give the track team a new uniform. Anybody who wants to join the track team can apply to Alfred Armstrong who is on the grounds any evening.

WILL SOON BECOME A THING OF THE PAST, SAYS MRS. TAYLOR

CHICAGO, July 2.—Tight fitting skirts will soon become a thing of the past, according to Mrs. Hobart Chaffield-Chaffield Taylor, who arrived in Chicago yesterday after a six months' trip abroad, and in one breath discussed styles, while in the next told of exciting experiences at the hands of custom officials, who tore bird of paradise feathers from her hat only to return them with apologies the next day.
"Possibly you can tell what are to be the coming styles in woman's dress?" Mrs. Taylor was asked.
"We get the styles here just as soon as they do abroad," she answered, "but one thing is certain, the tight skirt is doomed. All the skirts now being made abroad are full; platts, too, are being much worn."
"I really don't know," she replied. "I have not seen any indication that that. One sees little hats everywhere."
And the Mrs. Taylor launched into the narration of the attack on her hat by a woman customs official. "She simply tore the feathers from my hat as if I was trying to escape a customs fee," she said. "She got them out all right, but I protested to Mr. Taylor and he said that he thought that since the feathers had been bought in Chicago they could be brought back into this country."
"The women said they couldn't, and that if I did not want to lose them the only thing for me to do was to send them to some friend who lived abroad. I was willing to do that without any further fuss, but Mr. Taylor said he knew he was right and got into communication with some officials in Washington."
"The next day we went back to the custom house and they said they had found a new ruling; that they were wrong about the matter, and added they were sorry for what had occurred. Then they returned the feathers to us."
Mrs. Taylor left Chicago January 10, and has passed most of her time in Paris, Egypt and Italy.

Plan for Effective Campaign for the Salem Sufferers—Total Last Night Reported by Treasurer O'Hearn $3415.40—The List of Women's Societies Invited to do Tag Duty

Tomorrow, Friday, July 3, having been designated as Tag day in Lowell, about 40 women, representing different organizations, gathered in the mayor's reception room at city hall this forenoon and organized for the tag work which will be carried on tomorrow and Saturday. The rain did not dampen the enthusiasm of the women and girls who responded to the invitations sent out by the Tag day committee, James O'Sullivan, chairman; John H. Murphy, secretary, and William D. Brown, treasurer. The women organized with Miss Bessie B. Hadley as chairman, Edith C. Pulsifer, secretary, and Alice H. Dowd, treasurer. Miss Rose A. Dowd will have charge of the down town section and shall have as her captains and assistants Mrs. Helen Donaldson and the Misses Alice Sheehan, Alice Masterson, Bessie Gillaspie, Loretta Whitely, Anne McKissock, Rose C. Geary, Lou C. O'Sullivan, Vera E. Groves and Alice Besse. Other captains and helpers in other sections will include Mrs. Carl Noyes, Miss Ida Flint, Mrs. John E. Graham (who will spend the day at the depot), Miss Green, Mrs. O'Connor, Mrs. Sheridan, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Farrell and several others.

More volunteers are needed and a meeting will be held in the mayor's reception room at city hall tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock. The women are to wear tags which will be supplied at the reception room at city hall and the board of trade office. The collectors will carry boxes suspended about their necks and when the collectors approach you they will attach a little red tag to the lapel of your coat. If you are wearing the tag you will not be asked to contribute the second time. There was scant preparation for the meeting held today, and had the women more time greater detail would have been included in. The meeting, however, was a big success and all of those present displayed great enthusiasm. The tag day committee was very much impressed with the way the women took hold of the affair and Chairman O'Sullivan paid the women a compliment in the very beginning of the meeting by declaring, with great emphasis, that it would be impossible for the men to make a success of tag day without the assistance of the women, for the women are the real workers. There might have been a touch of blarney to it, but Mr. O'Sullivan meant it just the same.

Meeting Called to Order
It was 10:25 o'clock when Chairman O'Sullivan called to order and he thanked the women for their splendid response to the invitation extended by the tag day committee. It was right here that Mr. O'Sullivan paid the pretty compliment to the women. He said there was no need of enlarging upon conditions in Salem as the press had attended to that. He threw the meeting open for suggestions and a number were offered. Discussion was general. Mayor Murphy and others joining in offering suggestions. There was some difference of opinion as to the boxes to be carried by the collectors. The mayor suggested that perhaps some of the women would object to carrying the boxes, but Miss Hadley and others believed that the boxes were very essential. It was finally decided to order 300 boxes. The collectors will devote themselves to street collections tomorrow (weather permitting) and on Saturday they will visit offices and stores.

Names of Those Present
The women and girls present at today's meeting were asked to register and the following names were given: Mrs. John E. Graham, Bessie B. Hadley, Jenny P. Bradt, Elizabeth Lockhart, Belle E. Smith, Isabel M. Ellis, Maud E. Green, Rosalie T. Burns, M. L. McSorley, Alice B. Besse, Elizabeth C. Kennedy, Alice H. Bachelder, Annie L. McKissock, Ida J. Flint, Rose A. Dowd, Mary E. Tobin, Alice Masterson, Mrs. P. Farrell, Mrs. Geo. M. Randall, Mrs. Maria O'Connor, Mrs. Nora T. Sheridan, Loretta V. Whiteley, Alice A. Sheehan, Bessie E. Gillaspie, Helen M. Donaldson, Mrs. S. W. Hands, Edith C. Pulsifer, Vera E. Groves, Mrs. J. W. Cole, Mrs. Carl Noyes.

Lowell men and women are contributing very generously to the relief fund for the Salem sufferers, but the need for assistance in the stricken city is much greater than at first believed and it will be necessary for everybody to strain a point and give just a little more. Thousands of persons have not only lost their homes, generally uninsured, but the destruction of the large mills have deprived them of their work. Thousands are living in tents and must be cared for until work and shelter can be obtained for them.

Mayor's Fund Over $1000
Additional sums to the mayor's fund are announced as follows:

John H. Murphy, secretary of the Lowell board of trade, and a member of the tag day committee, announced this forenoon that the American Window Cleaning company had proffered the use of an automobile to the committee and that the kind offer had been accepted. The car will be used by Mr. Murphy and O'Sullivan. Mr. Brown will use his own automobile.
Treasurer P. O'Hearn this morning stated that the total received up till last night was $3,415.40. He wished it known that all amounts sent to him whether large or small would be published in the press.
At the request of the Lowell municipal council the residents of Chelmsford have fallen in line on the matter of subscriptions for the Salem fire victims and their donations are being sent to the treasurer of the committee

Additional sums to the mayor's fund are announced as follows:

READY TO DISCUSS PEACE

Huerta Envoys Prepared to Meet Rebel Representatives — Deny Federal Officers Executed

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 2.—Communication between the two warring factions in Mexico which it is hoped eventually will lead to conferences for the establishment of peace was begun today when the delegation representing General Huerta formally addressed to the three South American mediators a note to be transmitted to the constitutionalist representatives in Washington. In this the Huerta delegates declare their willingness to discuss measures of peace with the constitutionalists and bring to an end the civil strife which has been devastating their country for the last year.

The Huerta declaration wrote in response to a note from the mediators delivered to them, as well as the American delegation suspending the seasons of mediation because the latter had been adjusted and calling attention to the correspondence with General Carranza in which he asked for more time to consult his subordinates about a peace conference. The Huerta delegates replied in two separate communications, one setting forth their own approval and ratification of the anti-conflict and the other intended for transmission to the constitutionalists explaining in effect their readiness to begin informal conferences for the solution of a provisional president and the solution of kindred problems of an

New Variety Developed by Pacific Coast Zoologist—Got Me?

The cross-breeding of salmon has been accomplished by Dr. E. Victor Smith, assistant professor in the department of zoology in the University of Washington. Hundreds of the new breed are developing from fry to fish at the state hatchery at Auburn. It is a cross between the king and silver salmon.

The experiments started last October. The king eggs treated with silver sperm developed fry that died in great numbers, many of them showing strange malformations. On the other hand, the silver eggs treated with king sperm developed a hardy breed having characteristics of both the original varieties. It is hoped that it will possess the canning qualities of the silver and the pink tint of the king; but this is a matter which cannot be decided for months to come.

Dr. Smith will now turn his attention to cross-breeding the hump, dog and sockeye salmon with the king and silver varieties, and with one another. He lays stress at present upon the purely scientific results of his experiments, but admits that they may have great economic value.

"Cross-breeding of fish has been tried before," said Dr. Smith yesterday. "European scientists a few years ago developed crosses between different species of trout. No general definite results have ever been published. It is possible that the great number of species of trout may be due to successive periods of cross-breeding. If so, I believe the experiments now under way will be successful."

At the request of the United States fish commissioner, and with his aid, Dr. Smith is making a study in connection with the breeding experiments of the food of salmon. "Before the government can take any intelligent steps in the conservation and care of this great resource," he said, "it is imperative that we know the life history about the fish. We know a great deal about the salmon, but we haven't been able yet to trace its feeding habits when young."

"Salmon when young eat small crustaceans. We have found that these minute arthropods form the principal diet of young herring. The herring, which occur in great numbers in the Northern Pacific, eat up the food supply of the salmon. But then we have found that, a little later, the salmon eat the small herring. So it is to determine whether any useless fish in the sea that are useful to us, and of great economic importance, that these experiments are being conducted. The number of any kind of fish is determined largely by the food supply. If it is determined that useless fish are reducing the food supply of the salmon, it will next be in order to plan for its conservation or the killing of the invading fish."—New York Sun.

TO BAR U. S. AGENTS

France May Exclude Them for Refusal to Disclose Amount Paid by American for Dresses

PARIS, July 2.—The opinion prevailed here today that United States treasury agents would in future be excluded from France in consequence of the exposure of their methods in the course of an appeal by Henry Munroe, a banker against a jail sentence and a fine for refusing to disclose the amounts paid in France by Miss Dolan of Brookline, Mass., for about what is called the "business spy system of the United States."

Arthur David Monet, president of the chamber of commerce of Paris, today refused to request the minister of commerce to ask the chamber of deputies to withdraw its opposition to an appropriation for the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco. He says he will do nothing until the United States ceases its vexatious and unreasonable interference with the importations of French goods.

AMERICAN CREWS WIN GRAND CHALLENGE CUP

The Chief Event of Royal Regatta
Taken by Three Trans-Atlantic
Eight Oared Crews, Union Boat

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 2.—

The three trans-Atlantic eight-oared crews—the Union Boat club of Boston, Harvard university 2d eight and Winnipeg, Can., defeated their English rivals today in the race for the grand challenge cup, the chief event of the royal regatta. The only heat remaining to be decided this afternoon was that between Jesus college, Cambridge, and the Mayence Rowing club of Germany.

In the semi-finals, tomorrow, Harvard will meet Winnipeg and Boston will encounter either Jesus or Mayence.

The American representatives fared badly in the individual sculling for the diamond skulls as James B. Ayer of the Boston Union Boat club, the only one left in after the first round was eliminated today by the giant Italian Giuseppe Sinigaglia.

"Bob" Dibble of Hamilton, Ontario and representing the Don Rowing club, Toronto, American and Canadian amateur champion, was however successful over the English champion, J. Lawrence Tann and will represent the trans-Atlantic oarsmen in the final for the famous diamond skulls.

The heat, which had caused some discomfort yesterday, passed away during the night, and the temperature was thirty degrees cooler today.

A strong headwind, however, put first times out of the question.

For the spectators the conditions were ideal and the crowd, which included many Americans and Canadians, was even greater than yesterday.

The day's program opened with the first heat in the Grand, between Winnipeg and Thames. This was won quite easily by the Canadians in 7 minutes, 55 seconds.

Boston beat the London eight all the way in the next heat of the same event. The Americans led by 2 lengths and a half at the half distance and finished quite fresh four lengths ahead in 7 minutes, 48 seconds.

The Boston crew was composed as follows: Bow, G. Balch, E. Farley, P. Zappan, S. A. Sargent, J. E. Waide, C. Williamson, E. Williamson, stroke, R. Cutler, coxswain, C. Abates.

In the next heat Harvard defeated Leander but did not have such an easy time as Boston. The race was an exciting one. Leander led at the start, rowing 35 to Harvard's 27 but Harvard went up level at the island, where the crew were coming into the straight. Then the Americans took the lead and won the fastest heat of the day by a length in seven minutes, 37 seconds. They were quite fresh at the finish but Leander showed distress before reaching the grand stand in front of which they were a beaten crew.

The Harvard crew was: Bow, L. Saltonstall, J. Talcott, P. Meyer, H. Middendorf, J. Middendorf, D. Morgan, L. Curtis, stroke, Charles Luna, coxswain, H. L. Keger.

Ayer rowed a plucky race against Sinigaglia in the Diamonds but was beaten easily by three lengths, although his opponent steered badly. Sinigaglia's time was 9:30.

Williams beat his compatriot Fripp by only a quarter of a length in 2:12.

Dibble, on the other hand, rowed a very fast race and defeated Tann easily by a length in 8:55.

MARCONI'S GREAT FEAT

He Expects to Talk From Wales
to New York by Wireless—Inventor Confident of Success

LONDON, July 2.—Godfrey Isaacs of the American Marconi company, giving evidence before the Dominion's Royal commission today, said that Signor Marconi contemplates telephone by wireless to New York from Carnarvon, Wales (a distance of about 3399 miles), as soon as a few mechanical arrangements have been made at the latter place. He hopes that this will be before the end of the present year.

Mr. Isaacs added that he did not hesitate to say that when wireless stations between Buenos Ayres and Great Britain will have been constructed Signor Marconi will be able to telegraph and telephone to the Argentine at the same time.

He said that Signor Marconi proposes to establish as soon as possible a wireless press service between Canada and London, to be operated at a rate of a half penny (one cent) a word and a speed of 300 words a minute.

John Bottomley, secretary of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company, said last night that while telephonic communication between Great Britain and the United States is one of the things which the company hopes to establish it is not a matter for the immediate future.

"Experiments are being made on the other side," he said, "and the matter is largely in the hands of company officials there. On this side we have not yet begun to prepare for it. We have not installed any instruments and don't know yet where they will be installed. Nothing definite can be said as to the time it will take. When these new developments come they often come very quickly, but so far we have not made a start here."

Mr. Bottomley said he knew nothing about the proposed service between Great Britain and Buenos Ayres, nor about the establishment of a news service between England and Canada. These matters, he said, would not be handled by the company in the United States.

HOLD UP MAN SENTENCED

Arrested Here by Lt. Maher—
Given 25 Years in State Prison

Alfred William Girouard, who was arrested here January 31 of this year for the Nashua police was tried at Manchester, N. H. superior court and sentenced today to not less than fifteen nor more than 25 years' imprisonment in the state prison at Concord, N. H.

The charges upon which he was tried were the holdup and robbery of two storekeepers at the point of a revolver in Nashua. In one, a grocery conducted by Mr. Richards, Girouard went into the store, revolver in hand, and robbed the proprietor of $36. He next robbed a drug store taking all the money in the cash register and holding Mr. Dantreau, who was in charge, at bay by a loaded revolver. Inspector Maher of this city testified at the trial. The arrest by the Lowell inspector was one of the cleverest made here for years. With a meagre description of the man, Lieut. Maher recognized him leaving a restaurant at the Middlesex street station and at once placed him under arrest.

Girouard had a police record previous to these events having been convicted for fighting and entering in 1903. He had also spent some time in the lunatic asylum at Bridgewater so that he is altogether a dangerous character.

ANTI-TRUST PROGRAM

Democrats to Press Trust Legislation—Congress May Not Ad-
journ Until September 1

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Having formally resolved in party conference to remain in Washington until the administration anti-trust program is finally disposed of, democratic leaders in the senate were determined today to press the proposed legislation to a conclusion. These measures include the trade commission bill, the Clayton anti-trust bill and the railway securities bill. The majority plan to press for a vote on the trade commission bill at the earliest possible moment. To that end the senate is to be asked to begin holding night sessions next week. The hope is now entertained by some of the leaders that congress can adjourn not later than Sept. 1 with the trust program completed.

SCHOOLMASTER IS HELD

J. G. BASSETT OF SOUTH BOSTON PLEADED NOT GUILTY TO CHARGE OF LARCENY

BOSTON, July 2.—A plea of not guilty was entered by J. G. Bassett, head master of a South Boston school when arraigned today charged with larceny in obtaining money under false pretences from Mrs. Margaret Hale. The case, which was continued to July 9, is said to be the outcome of a stock transaction.

The official opening and dedication of the new Montmorency synagogue at 133 Howard street, corner of Railroad street, will take place next Sunday. Invitations have been sent out to several Lowell men and it is believed there will be a large attendance on hand.

The program will consist of speeches by prominent speakers as well as a concert and the serving of refreshments. The affair is in the hands of a committee headed by Abraham Wolf.

THE SUN IS ON SALE IN THE NORTH STATION BOSTON

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Walker W. Vick of this city, collector of customs in Santo Domingo, has resigned. His health is given as the reason at the White House.

Inspector Cramp shipyard, Philadelphia. Lieutenant-Commander Walter M. Falconer, collier Leonidas. Lieutenant-Commander Ulysses S. May, in charge of navy recruiting station, Philadelphia. Lieutenant-Commander Carlton R. Keir, gunboat El Cana. Lieutenant-Commander J. W. Schoenfeld, battleship Minnesota. Lieutenant Franklin W. Osburn, Jr., gunboat Castine. Lieutenant William J. Moses, cruiser Raleigh.

In addition to the plucking board's list, Secretary Daniels announced that the following six officers had been placed on the retired list at their own request:

Captain Harrison A. Bishop, navy yard, Philadelphia; Commander Emmett R. Pollock, battleship Vermont; Commander Irvin V. Gillis, battleship Michigan; Commander Raymond Stone, battleship New Jersey; Commander Simon C. Fullenwider, battleship Connecticut; and Commander Edwin H. Do Lany, waiting orders, Washington.

A number of other officers had asked for voluntary retirement and had all the applications been accepted the board would have been relieved of the necessity of "plucking." But last year the president decided not to permit the voluntary retirement of any officer who has not had 20 years' service after graduation from the naval academy. The law requires the creation of 40 vacancies annually, with 15 compulsory retirements if necessary.

Included in the list of "plucked" this year are the names of some officers who have been so prominent in naval circles as to cause great surprise among their colleagues at their retirement. Captain Gibbons has been superintendent of the naval academy and naval attaché to the American embassy in London, assignments given to officers of the highest professional ability. Captain Hill is one of the younger school of officers, who became prominent through his outspoken criticism of defects in the employment of armor on the older battleships, which led to radical changes in the designs.

FEMINIST TREND IS BAD

In Its Effect Upon Morals, Says
Dr. Richardson of Boston University—Change is Needed

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 2.—The feminist movement, which encourages women to "imitate the vices as well as the manners of men," cannot help but have a deleterious effect upon the public welfare, said Dr. Frank C. Richardson, professor of nervous diseases at Boston University, speaking before the American Institute of Homoeopathy, in 70th annual convention. He advocated legislation to correct the extremes to which femininity is going in dress and modern dances. Fashions are indecent. "In their zealous exploitation of the white slave traffic, social evil, eugenics and such, legislatures and reformers

Financial Leader to Discuss the General Business Conditions With President Wilson

WASHINGTON, July 2.—J. P. Morgan had an engagement at the White House today to discuss general business conditions with President Wilson. It was the first of several informal conferences the president plans to have with industrial and financial leaders within a short time.

It was said at the White House that Mr. Morgan had asked for the engagement and it was explained that the two men are personal friends. Another version of the meeting was that Mr. Morgan had been invited through friends to give his views to the president. Next week the president will have an informal conference with Henry Ford, the Detroit manufacturer, who will be entertained at luncheon at the White House. It was said the president had invited Mr. Ford.

Officials close to the president said Mr. Wilson would take such an opportunity to outline his views to the heads of "big business" in person. Mr. Morgan's engagement was more or less of a surprise to those who have observed the course the president has taken since he entered the White House in having conferences with captains of industry. It had been pointed out that Mr. Wilson was receiving the big business men of the country less frequently than his predecessors; in fact, had not been asking their advice at all on legislation affecting business as many other presidents have done. When the currency bill was in passage through congress, the president even declined to receive some members of the Morgan firm.

White House officials said today that none of the features which had entered into public discussion of the administration's trust legislation policy and what the president had characterized as a "psychological depression," caused by a campaign to halt the trust bill in congress, was an inference that Mr. Wilson did not care to meet the big business men of the country face to face and discuss with them personally the issues in which they are so vitally interested.

By a series of informal conferences with leaders of industry and finance of which those with Mr. Morgan and Mr. Ford will be the first, it is the idea to show that the president is approaching the subject with an open mind, willing to hear the views of big business at first hand and outline his own views in return.

Although there are other subjects interesting Mr. Morgan at present, in which the government has a part, it was said today's talk was to be a personal one on business. The interstate commerce commission's report on its investigation of financial affairs of the New Haven railroad is nearly ready for submission to the senate and the time is drawing near for July 15, the date which President Wilson and Attorney General McReynolds have agreed upon filing the anti-trust suit for the dissolution of the New Haven merger unless the Massachusetts legislature takes certain action which is necessary to a dissolution and which has been recommended by the attorney general and Chairman Elliott of the New Haven board. Whether these subjects were to enter into today's conference was not known.

Thos. Denis Taxed $20 in Court Today—Jas. Samson Fined $25 for Larceny

Charged with being drunk in Dracut and with using profane language, Thomas J. Denis, aged about 31 years, was ordered to pay a fine of $15 on the first complaint and $5 on the second after pleading not guilty before Judge Enright in police court this forenoon. When making the finding the court said that he had received numerous complaints from persons who had gone out to Willow Lake to spend the summer months in recreation about gangs of young men from other cities using vile language and staying up all night creating a disturbance.

According to the testimony of Officer Cullinan of Dracut and Messrs. Hugh Ferguson and J. J. Colburn, owners of property near the entrance, Denis and two companions had been around the private bathhouse there practically all day, June 21, and when they were ordered to leave, defied anyone to remove them and used bad language in their conversation with the owners.

Officer Cullinan stated that he heard the defendant swear at Mr. Colburn, and warned him about it twice, but when Mr. Ferguson appeared and ordered him from the bathhouse, he used practically the same words to him. The three witnesses said that the prisoner was drunk at the time of the disturbance.

The arresting officer said that Denis was more sarcastic than his companions, and when he threatened to arrest him, said that he was a member of a club in Cambridge which would strengthen his chances with the prosecutor when he appeared in court. The superior court. The V-shaped flume, he had received a little less than two weeks' pay since coming out of jail and paid several bills with what amount he could spare. He was let go on condition that he would appear in court when the case was called on. He was given a suspended sentence of two months in jail. The defendant then was returned to the young man.

Jeremiah F. Sullivan, who was released from the Lowell jail a few weeks ago, was in court again this forenoon, charged with non-support of his wife and children. He stated that he had received a little less than two weeks' pay since coming out of jail and paid several bills with what amount he could spare. He was let go on condition that he would appear in court when the case was called on. He was given a suspended sentence of two months in jail. The defendant then was returned to the young man.

struck Mr. Long in the face, leaving an ugly looking scar under his left eye. Ralph Jenkins testified that he came forward and putting up his "dukes" stopped the fight immediately.

Larceny Charge
James Samson entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of stealing $23 from his employer, Bill Campus, who conducts a wood business on Market street. However, during the progress of his testimony, the defendant admitted that he took over $16 which did not belong to him and he was ordered to pay a fine of $25.

The complainant told the court that James was employed by him as a teamster and had collected $23 which he never turned over as he should have done according to their agreement. The defendant offered no defense except that the amount was in the vicinity of $16. He did not pay the fine before court adjourned, so he probably will spend a few days in jail.

The case of Leo Willard and Mark K. Holmes, charged with stealing a motor from a camp at Long pond, was called on continuance, and as it was settled with the complainant the case was placed on file.

Henry Smith did not deny that he played ball on Varnum street last Monday but did not confirm the evidence of Officer Lennon, who claimed that he spent considerable time on the street. However, during the progress of his testimony, the defendant admitted that he took over $16 which did not belong to him and he was ordered to pay a fine of $25.

Jeremiah F. Sullivan, who was released from the Lowell jail a few weeks ago, was in court again this forenoon, charged with non-support of his wife and children. He stated that he had received a little less than two weeks' pay since coming out of jail and paid several bills with what amount he could spare. He was let go on condition that he would appear in court when the case was called on. He was given a suspended sentence of two months in jail. The defendant then was returned to the young man.

BIG STEAMER AGROUND

Assiniboia With 1000 Passengers Aboard Went Ashore at Bad Neighbor Shoal

MONTREAL, July 2.—The Canadian Pacific steamer Assiniboia, with 1000 passengers aboard, went ashore early today at Bad Neighbor shoal, Cove Island, Georgian Bay.

News of the grounding reached the offices of the Marconi wireless Telegraph Co. here from the radio station at Sault Ste Marie, Ont.

In communicating the ship's plight the wireless operator on the boat said it was thought the Assiniboia would back off as she was swinging and there were eleven fathoms of water under her stern. Her forepeak is leaking slightly. The weather this morning was calm and foggy.

The steamer Manitoba was called to the assistance of the stranded vessel, although it was said she was in no danger.

The Assiniboia was bound from Sault Ste Marie to Port McNichol.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE IN BULLETIN GIVES SOME INTERESTING POINTS

The V-shaped timber flume is a more efficient type than the box or square-sided form is one of the conclusions reached by the department of agriculture in a bulletin just issued on flumes and fluming. The V-shaped wooden flume requires less water and, on the average, less repairs than the other type, is better adapted to act as a slide on steep grades, and offers fewer chances for jams. Concerning a third of the "sectional" metal flume, semicircular in form, the report is made that it will come into wide use. Such a flume is strong and light, and can be quickly taken apart and transported from one place to another to be set up again.

When planning flumes a good plan, says the department, is to erect a small sawmill at or near the upper end of the flume location to saw out the lumber needed for construction. Such material can be floated down the flume as fast as the latter is built and used for further extension.

For handling railroad cross-ties, cants, poles, cordwood, and the like, flumes with the sides of the V 30 inches in height is large enough. For handling logs, piling, long timber, or brail sawed lumber a height of from 40 to 60 inches is recommended. The best angle for the V is put at 20 degrees.

Proposed flume lines ought to be surveyed as carefully as a line for a logging railroad, to ensure evenness of grade. Grades should be kept below 15 per cent wherever possible, and the best results are obtained with grades between 2 and 10 per cent.

Abrupt curvatures in a flume should be avoided, for they are likely to cause jams. Curves should rarely be permitted to exceed 20 degrees. It may be necessary to blast out rocks and boulders, or to freestone or even turn to eliminate abrupt curves or maintain an even grade.

Telephones are recommended as adjuncts to the operation of a flume. By their use a serious break or jam can be reported immediately to the head of the flume to prevent further shipment of material. A telephone also makes it possible to notify the men at the upper end of the flume just what material to ship and when to ship it.

A flume recently built on Hochat Creek near St. Joe, Idaho, is cited as a good example of modern V-shaped

Sent Out by Gov. Walsh for Contributions to the Salem Relief Fund—Two Imposters Jailed

SALEM, July 2.—The 10,000 refugees who have been living in tents since the destructive fire of June 25 suffered little inconvenience from the heavy rain throughout the night and today. The canvas houses were pitched on a hill so that the land drained quickly.

It was suggested that the sufferers be housed in the school buildings, but the medical authorities decided that it would be unwise to do this. The refugees were better outdoors where it is easier to keep them clean and healthy, rather than crowded together in public buildings, the doctors declared.

Gov. Walsh today sent out a nationwide appeal for contributions to the relief fund which has not grown rapidly enough to meet the demands.

Despite the warnings issued by public officials that imposters would be punished to the full extent of the law, two men were sentenced today for obtaining supplies under false pretences. Felix Hichards, who lives at least half a mile outside the fire zone, was given four months in the house of correction for obtaining clothing and other supplies valued at $50 from one of the relief stations. Carlo Cailh of Beverly received three months for a similar offense.

BOSTON, July 2.—Dreaming that a burglar was strangling her, Miss Emma Emanuelson of Lincoln street extension, Natick, awoke early yesterday morning to find that a thief was really in the house, and, running down stairs, she held up the intruder with a revolver until the hired man, Edward Goddard, brought the police.

The man proved to be Robert A. Hanna of Natick. The police had been searching for him since Monday, when he escaped from the station. At that time the police were holding him for trial on burglary charges. Awakened by the dream, Miss Emanuelson heard noise in the pantry. She awoke the hired man in the next room, grabbed a revolver and started down stairs. The burglar jumped out the window as she entered the pantry. Goddard ran around the house and cut him off just after the man had shattered the glass in the pantry window by diving through it. Goddard then went for the police while Miss Emanuelson stood guard over the prisoner.

Hanna was arraigned in court yesterday morning before Judge M. F. Kennedy. He was held for the grand jury under $1000 bonds. June 21 he was arrested, charged with two counts of breaking and entering. He has been before the court several times.

West Virginia Court Has a Decision on Status of Club Members' Liquor on the First Day

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 2.—The first court decision affecting liquor since the state prohibition amendment became operative, was handed down yesterday by the supreme court of appeals. It was held no violation of the law for a member of a club to take upon the club premises liquor for his own use without storage on the premises or for service to his friends.

The court had been asked to permanently enjoin the governors of the Edgewood club of Charleston from putting into effect a resolution preventing members from keeping their own liquor at the club.

WOMAN WHO PROVIDED FOR HIM FOR YEARS ALLOWED $275 FOR BOARD BY COURT

NEW HAVEN, July 2.—Believing him to be penniless, Mrs. Emma A. Merriam provided for Jas. Fielding at her home here for years. Yesterday it was brought out in the probate court that Fielding, who died recently, left $19,330 in cash, a large part of which was found stored in an old suitcase, which he had kept in his room, while the remainder was in banks as was shown by the several bank books discovered with the money in the suitcase.

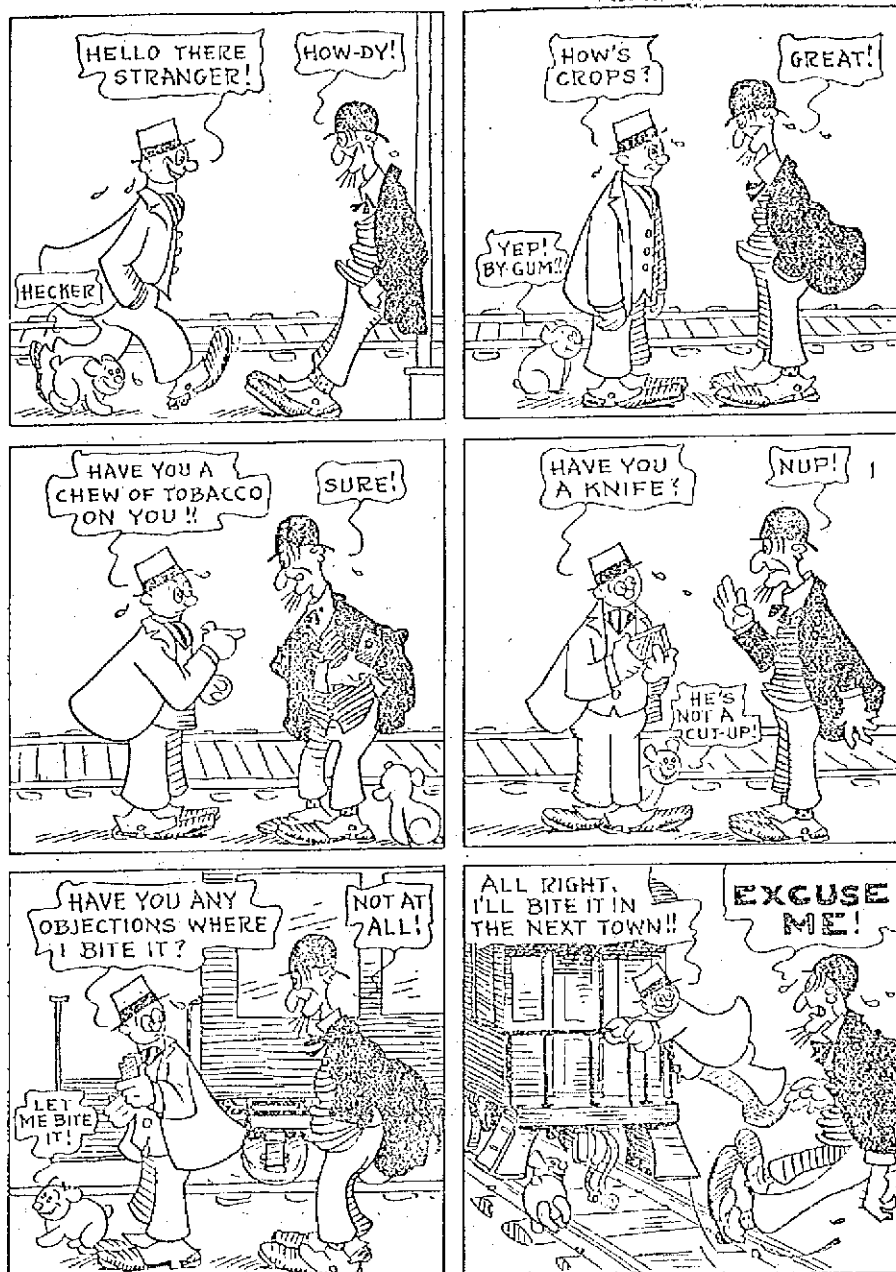

Mrs. Merriam submitted to the court a bill for Fielding's board and was allowed $275.
